This is not only one man — this is the father of those who shall be fathers in their turn;

In him the start of populous states and rich republics;

Of him countless immortal lives, with countless embodiments and enjoyments.

How do you know who shall come from the offspring of his offspring through the centuries?

Whom might you find you had come from yourself, if you could trace back through the centuries?

INTRODUCTORY

Of the ten or twelve different Holloway families in this country during its Colonial days, the one descended from our William Holloway seems to be the oldest in America. I have found no other which was here prior to 1637 when our emigrant ancestor first appears in Massachusetts as one of the original proprietors in the so-called "Cohannet Purchase"—the present city of Taunton.

This large tract of land lay within the bounds of the Plymouth Colony, the "Old Colony" as it came to be known in later years after the grasping Puritans at the Bay had taken it over—the "Old Colony" of sand and pines, and little fertile soil, a rugged land for a rugged people, the Pilgrim's land where the first permanent settlement was made in New England.

And there, as a boy in Taunton too many years ago, I used to swim in its Great River, fish in its nearby ponds, and roam its Rocky Woods where Red Indians prowled in the days of their King Philip. And there too, at a very early age, I became curious about certain other people who had also been there of old time though long since vanished and forgotten, the buried generations of men and women who unwittingly had given me birth. Who were they? What were they? I wanted to know.

So I began asking questions of my parents and grandparents. I gathered up all the information they could give me about their forebears and jotted it down for future reference. But many years were to pass before I could undertake to explore the ancestry of my father's mother, Almira (Holloway) Pendleton, that quiet and self-contained woman whom I still remember so pleasantly and so well.

From her and from her oldest sister I knew the names of their grandparents, Isaac and Lois (Peirce) Holloway "of Middleboro" (Mass.), so I had something definite to start with. But my first reference to the genealogy put out by Dr. Olin E. Holloway some twenty years ago was most disappointing, for it dealt almost altogether with an entirely different family—that of one John Holloway, an early settler in Burlington County, New Jersey.

Quite a number of additional chapters were included giving brief accounts of various Holloways of other origins, known and unknown. Amongst these latter, the references to those that can now be identified as belonging to us amount to only about four pages of the 438-page book. Incidentally it might be mentioned here that Dr. Holloway's work is the only genealogy of a Holloway family which has been published up to the present time.

While his book got me nowhere, I had far better results with Gen. Ebenezer W. Peirce's Peirce Family of the Old Colony, that most unusual genealogy which spared neither the living nor the dead. His work not only had the marriage of Lois Peirce and Isaac Holloway but listed their children and also ran her Peirce ancestry back to the first one over.

Isaac Holloway's parentage was not mentioned, however, and I could find nothing about his antecedents in any of the scores of genealogical publications searched. All I garnered was a mess of unrelated vital statistics pertaining to Holloways in Taunton and Middleboro——and several headaches in trying to sort them out, as well as to reconcile certain conflicting statements made about them by various authorities.

You can get about so far in library research in a case of this kind—then you have to go to the original land and probate records. The latter were rather disappointing. While both our emigrant ancestors, William Holloway, and his widow left wills, none of his sons, and only two of his grandsons, did likewise. Some appointments of administrators and guardians were found, however, and these helped a little. The best results though were obtained from the land records in Taunton and Plymouth as will be noted in the following pages. Even the elusive Isaac Holloway identified himself in one of the conveyances he made, by naming his long-sought father.

By the time these various researches were finished so much material had been accumulated about the earlier generations of the family that it seemed the work should be brought down to date for the benefit of those who would be interested in their Holloway ancestry.

This undertaking, now at last completed, may be considered, like many another genealogy, as the entirely unsuspected result of an innocent effort merely to find a remote grandfather.

No endeavor has been spared to make this work as authoritative and as nearly complete as is possible with a publication of its kind. Of course there are a few families missing, some men and women who disappear. You find the record of their birth, or of their marriage perhaps, then nothing more. They vanish, leaving no trace. They defy all efforts to find them. Even today there are some living whose immediate relatives do not know where they are. And, as always, there are a few other families of whom our record is not complete due to their failure to answer inquiries.

However, as far as concerns the pedigrees set forth in this book you can be well assured of these. The amount of research done on the original records—listed in Appendix V—should eliminate any chance of error here. As to some of the dates noted, I do not have the same confidence due to the discrepancies so often found in them between different records of the same event.

Authorities for statements made are cited throughout the earlier part of this work. To avoid giving them as footnotes they have been handled in three different ways:

(1) Indicated by superior figures in the text which refer you to the corresponding ones in the list of Authorities Cited, beginning on page 317.

(2) Inserted parenthetically in the text, immediately following the statements for which they vouch.

(3) Grouped in their proper sequence at the end of the accounts on which they are based.

Where, in the latter case they are noted as "References" it should be understood they are supplemental to data received from members of the family there recorded. It should also be understood that where no authorities are mentioned the records given were furnished by correspondents, either from family data at hand, or from personal knowledge.

Descendants of the Holloway women are seldom carried beyond one or two generations. To attempt more than that would take us too far afield, and with the earlier daughters could well involve the compilation of many other genealogies. One man's life would be far too short for such a colossal undertaking even if he started it in the cradle and if these other families were no greater in numbers than ours.

For the Holloway family is not a large one. The chart in Appendix I will show you why. The first William Holloway started out well enough with his eight sons. But of these only two raised families, and of his ten grandsons only three carried the name along. It will also be noticed that besides so many of the early Holloways failing to wed—a trait which still persists—several who did left no male issue while the others reared only three or four children. And then there was an unusually heavy mortality among the boys in some of these families, particularly in those of [5] Malachi and [7] William. All these factors combined to restrict the size of our Holloway population today.

Despite its comparatively small number, however, much difficulty has been experienced in gathering up such records as we have obtained through correspondence. This labor would have been still heavier had it not been for those who contributed considerably more than just the data regarding their immediate families. Had it not been for their generous help this work would still be unfinished.

Among these good Samaritans, we are particularly indebted to Mrs. Earl R. Smith of Pasadena, Calif.; Mrs. Frank T. Spencer, of Topeka, Kansas; Mrs. Ernest J. Schmidt, of Reading, Mass.; Miss Jane A. Martin, of Seattle, Wash.; Mrs. Henry R. Wilson, of Adrian, Mich.; Mrs. David P. Beach, of Wayne, Pa.; Mrs. Belle M. Holloway, of Boston, Mass.; Mrs. Ralph Kroehle, of Warren, Ohio, and Mrs. Guy O. Vickery, of Augusta, Maine. Professional work done by Mrs. Herbert A. Conant, of Augusta, was also helpful.

Of the men who have given us the most help mention should be made of Messrs. Harry C. Holloway, of Glencoe, Ill.; Frank D. Holloway, of Andover, N. J.; A. Emmett Holloway, of Maumee, Ohio; Herbert A. Holloway, of Holland, Ohio; John F. Holloway, of Pittsburgh, Pa.; Don C. Holloway, Jr., of Watertown, Wis.; Raymond Lyon Bowers, of Hillsdale, Mich.; the late G. Clayton Dill, of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Waldo Thomas, the genial Town Clerk of Middleboro, Mass.

Last, but by no means least, a special award should be given Mrs. Frank T. Holmes, of Augusta, Maine, and the compiler's brother, Mr. Charles M. Pendleton, of Milton, Mass., for the great aid they rendered in searching various records, interviewing certain people afflicted with writer's cramp, and in hunting in old and neglected cemeteries for Holloway, or Hallowell, memorials.

To these good friends in particular, and to all others who have helped in making the publication of this work possible, either by furnishing data or subscriptions, the thanks of the compiler are gratefully tendered herewith. It is his hope you will be well pleased with the result of our joint efforts.

ORIGIN OF THE NAME

Surnames were generally unknown in England during the Middle Ages. The records that have come down to us from that period distinguished the various Johns, Williams, Harrys, and Roberts from one another, when necessary, by mentioning their parentages, their places of residence, their occupations, or some personal trait or peculiarity.

In time, as the population increased this system underwent a gradual change, the descriptive appellations becoming transformed into family surnames. The slow process of the transition is reflected in the records of the period. As an example, a Robert Holeweye and a Roger de Holeweye are both mentioned in a Somersetshire conveyance of 1358[1], showing plainly enough that while one man was still known as "of Holeweye", the other had adopted, or acquired, its name as his.

It would appear evident from this record that a place name had become a surname. That there was a village of Holeweye in Somerset is shown by still earlier records. A messuage in Holeweye "juxta Bath" is mentioned in 1319[2], a Henry de Holeweye in 1266[3], and a Henry de Holeweie in 1226[4].

It has been supposed that this old English spelling had reference to one living in, or near, a "holy way", but the present form of the word could make a somewhat similar theory quite possible. Here again the transition was a gradual one. The "Great Orphan Books" at Bristol have records relating to Simon Halewey, a burgess of Friars' Preachers in 1389, to John Halewey, of St. James, in 1404, and to Felicia Holewey, widow of Edward, in 1418, while the wills on file in Bristol have that of John Holloway in 1619[5].

In the meantime one William Holloway (whose name was also spelled Holway, Holoway and Holleway) had become Prior of the Monastery of St. Peter, in Bath, an office he held until the house was surrendered to the King in 1539[6]. And a Sir John Holeway was a witness to the will of Sir Philip Fulford, Kn., of the parish of Corymallet in 1531[7].

A tradition amongst the descendants of our emigrant ancestor's youngest son says that William Holloway came from Somersetshire, but such investigations as we have made in the published records of that county have not produced evidence of his parentage. Could such investigation be made over there it might be possible to run back the ancestry of our William Holloway for several generations and ascertain whether or not his family bore any coat armor.

It should be noted here, however, that while this tradition may have some basis in fact, it could also have been a mere supposition due to the town in Massachusetts where William Holloway settled having been named from Taunton, in Somersetshire, England. It appears that the names of Holeweye and Holloway are not confined to that English County alone, but are also to be found in several others as well.

HOLLOWAY NAME CHANGES

Variations in the spelling of family names are common enough even where an emigrant ancestor left specimens of his autograph which could serve as a guide to his descendants. Nevertheless, changes come about from various causes, generally through lack of knowledge of the correct form, or from legal necessity, and sometimes from personal choice.

Our old time recorders seem to have taken little pains to spell a man's name correctly, but set it down according to what it sounded like to them. They were not altogether to blame for this, however. It often happened that in frontier settlements many a boy was brought up without any schooling whatever and did not even know how his name was spelled.

Consequently, in later years when he had to sign some legal document he made his mark against whatever variant name the recorder had given him. In time that corrupted form could well be taken as correct by other recorders and so eventually become established in the minds of later generations as the family's actual patronymic.

The name Holloway seems to be one peculiarly subject to abuse by town clerks, orderly sergeants, and registers of deeds. Upwards of nearly twenty varieties of it appear in their recordings, and it is largely due to them that the Halloway and Hallowell forms became perpetuated. The Hollowell variation, however, is one of personal choice.

Because many families who use these variant spellings are the descendants of our emigrant ancestor, William Holloway, they have not been assigned a separate place in this work but appear in their proper places throughout just as if they spelled their name as he did his.

COAT OF ARMS

Technically, a coat of arms belongs only to the the family descended from an armiger—the man to whom the arms had originally been given or confirmed.

Burke's General Armory [p. 501] lists no less than eight coats of arms under the name Holloway. One of these, shown in the accompanying cut,* is described in the language of heraldry as "Gules, a fesse ermine between three crescents argent. Crest, a demi-lion rampant, guardant purpure."

Translated, this describes a shield divided horizontally into three sections, the upper and lower ones being in red, the center, a white band carrying five perpendicular arrow heads in black, equally spaced apart, the points up, with three black dots around each point. As for the silver colored crescents, these are shown open at the top; two of them center what would be the right and left halves of the upper band if it were divided vertically, while the third crescent centers the lower band.

The crest, in purple, consists of a lion's head turned full face, a shoulder and both fore legs showing, the latter upraised as if in attack.

Burke states that the arms and crest above described belonged to the Holloways of London, but gives no date. Those of Oxford and Berks resemble it closely, as do all the other Holloway arms except one. There is more variety in the crests, however, a goat's head appearing in one, and an antelope's head in another.

The one distinctive Holloway arms shows three silver colored goats with golden horns in a walking position on a black shield. The crest here is a full faced goat's head with a rose in its mouth. While this no doubt has some significance in heraldry, it is quite understandable how this silly looking creation was passed up for the dignified one which was selected to embellish the Institute's compilation.

Burke shows no arms of a Holloway of Somerset whence our progenitor is said to have come, and as the ancestry of our William Holloway has not been determined, it would appear that any of his descendants of the name who wish to adorn their stationery are free to choose whichever Holloway arms or crest they prefer. There is no law against it in this country, no College of Heralds to demand you prove your right to such a display. It is just a matter of taste.

DOUBLE DATING

In the early part of the records regarding our Holloway family some few "double dates" will be noted, such as 5 February, 1678/79.

This was due to the change from the Julian to the Gregorian calendar established in England and its colonies by act of Parliament in 1751 although it had been in effect throughout Europe since 1582.

Under the Julian calendar the year began on the 25th of March, and its average length was fixed as 365¼ days. This proving too long by a few minutes, the excess of eleven days which had accumulated during the centuries of the Julian calendar were cancelled and Parliament, in making January 1 the beginning of the year 1752, also made the 3rd of September the 14th.

Under the "Old Style" calendar the days between December 31 and March 25 would have been in the year which had begun on the latter date, but under the "New Style" method they would fall in the year succeeding. The colonists took cognizance of this condition long before the change became official and quite generally showed both years as applying in the transition period. They made no attempt, however, to correct the excess time that had accumulated.

With March as the first month under the old calendar it is now clear how the last four months of our present year come by their names —for September was the seventh month originally, October the eighth and so on.

EXPLANATION OF NUMBERING SYSTEM

The numbering system used in the work is simple and readily understood. Every person whose own family is carried forward is numbered consecutively according to the order of his or her appearance in the genealogy.

For example, Frederick Madison[6] Holloway first appears on page 82 in the family of [35] Cyrus[5] Holloway. His number there is 66. To find further record of him and of his own family, turn the pages forward until you come to that number again. It will be found in the left hand margin of page 113 where Frederick Madison Holloway reappears, this time heading a family of his own.

Similarly, to find record of [35] Cyrus[5] Holloway's father, turn the pages back until his number is found among the list of children of [20] Peter Holloway on page 51. What could be simpler?

The Holloway Genealogy

WILLIAM HOLLOWAY

1. WILLIAM HOLLOWAY, as he signed his name very plainly to his will, the original of which is still preserved in the probate registry of Suffolk County, Massachusetts, was born about the year 1586, for on 10 January, 1658/59, when making his deposition as a witness, he gave his age as seventy-two years.[1]

While we have a statement of his which indicates he was a native of England, and a still more definite reference thereto in his will, the exact place of his birth is unknown at present. A tradition in the family of his great-grandson Peter Holloway, says that he was of Somerset and there may be more truth in this than in most such folklore.

The Massachusetts town where William Holloway first appears of record in this country was named Taunton from the shire town of Somerset, England, not a few of the first settlers coming from there or thereabouts. More definitely, however, we find in the Notebook of Thomas Lechford, the first lawyer in the colony, a memorandum under date of September, 1640, that "Nathaniel Patton, late of Crewkerne in the county of Somerset, Yeoman," had given a power of attorney to Henry Andrews of Taunton, to sue William Holloway of that town.[2]

As it seemed reasonable to assume this action had its origin in Old, rather than in New England, a thorough, but fruitless, search was made of the fourteen published volumes of (unindexed) marriage records taken from the early parish registers of numerous towns and villages in Somerset. A few Holloways were found and at Crewkerne some Holways, variously spelled, but none who could have been the man we sought, or possibly his father.

Just when our William Holloway arrived in Massachusetts cannot be stated definitely. Through some negative evidences however, it would seem to have been only a little while before he became one of Taunton's first settlers. Subsequent to his years of residence there he was a communicant of the church at Dorchester, although living in Boston, and his preference here may be of some significance. As neither of these latter towns include his name among their earliest inhabitants, or grantees of land,[3] it may be logical to assume Holloway was one of a group of new arrivals who after a brief stay in Dorchester joined with some other men of Boston and Roxbury in forming a company which purchased a large tract of land from the Indians in 1637.[4]

Forty-six men took part in this venture, Holloway's stake of twelve shares therein being the maximum one subscribed by the original shareholders or proprietors.[5] The territory acquired, known as the Cohannet Purchase, included the present city of Taunton and the town of Raynham, while the later North and South Purchases added to Taunton's area what are now the towns of Norton, Easton, Mansfield, Dighton, and Berkley. All lay at that time within the bounds of the Plymouth Colony.

Most of this tract was well watered by what was originally called the Great River—later known as the Taunton river—and by its tributary streams. One of these, the Mill river, was so named by the first settlers because it furnished water power to the grist mill they erected on its bank soon after their arrival.

Holloway and most of the other proprietors in the Cohannet Purchase entered upon their lands without much delay. He was there prior to 3 September, 1639, when "Mr. Hallowell of Cohannett" was propounded to be made a freeman of the Plymouth Colony at the next sitting of the court.[6]*

While the record of Holloway's admission as a freeman of that Colony does not appear, yet his name—spelled "Halloway" this time—is included in a list of the freemen of "Cohannett now called Taunton" in 1643, as well as in one of the male inhabitants there, between the ages of sixteen and sixty, who were able to bear arms in that same year.[7]†

In the meantime Holloway had another lawsuit on his hands in 1641, when an action of trespass was brought against him by William Dunne. As the plaintiff failed to appear, he was non suited, "the defendant to have his costs."[8] While the record noted does not state the residence of either party, yet as William Dunn was one of the original forty-six proprietors in the Cohannet purchase,[9] it is logical to assume this action was brought against a fellow proprietor there and not against another man of the same name then living at Marshfield, also in the Plymouth Colony. Such lawsuits were not at all uncommon amongst the early settlers when the boundaries of the land grants made them were not well defined.

The Colony records are vague again in merely naming William Holloway, without his place of residence, as a member of the "Grand Enquest," in 1645,[10] and this time we cannot determine whether the man of Taunton or his namesake in Marshfield was the one who served

*While there can be no question here as to the identity of this "Mr. Hallowell", much confusion has been caused by the early vital records of Boston giving a contemporary William Hallowell the name of "Holloway." As a result some of the latter's children have been credited to our man in various publications. Note 2 following deals with this mixup.

†The Plymouth Colony Records [Vol. 2, p. 71] state that a William Holloway was made a freeman in June, 1644, and while Emery [p. 52] applies this to the Taunton settler, Pope [p. 236] says it was the contemporary William Holloway, of Marshfield, who was the one raised to that estate. In view of the fact that our William Holloway was already a freeman in 1643, Pope is evidently correct in this.

on the grand jury then, and presented various indictments against those who did not walk in the paths of righteousness.

There is no such uncertainty, however, about an item dated 2 June, 1646, when William "Halloway", of Taunton, entered a complaint that an "old woeman" he had brought out of England was chargeable to him. The court ordered that "he deliver her to the town . . . with her clothes, bedding and such things as she hath, the town to take order for her maintenance." [11]

If the early records of Taunton were still in existence we might be able to get more light on this matter and learn if Holloway had any reason for his action other than an economic one. While that may look like a cold-blooded proceeding for a man in comfortable circumstances, as he seems to have been, yet it must be remembered that our forefathers were in general, and of necessity, a very thrifty lot. To all such, the thought of supporting any person in idleness, unless an aged or infirm parent, would be insufferable. Such support should be a town, and not a personal expense to be continued indefinitely with no present return in services rendered. Those in the past the complainant no doubt felt had been adequately paid for. It was time to call quits.

The loss of the early records of Taunton also prevents us from knowing what part Holloway took in the affairs of the settlement during the twelve or thirteen years he made it his home. The records of its Proprietors have come down to us, however, and in these we find his name of quite frequent occurrence, as various tracts of land were allotted to him, and some of them disposed of.

Outside of such items as those, we have found no further mention of Holloway until the 7th April, 1650. At this time, no doubt soon after his removal from Taunton, he had his four youngest children baptized in the First Church of Dorchester, Mass., as noted in its published records. Their surname here was entered as "Hallowaye."

On the following 28th of June, describing himself as "William Holloway of Boston, tailer," he bought a house and orchard there of John Cuddington. A little over seven months later—6 (12) 1650, as dated in the record, but 6 February, 1651, if our present calendar had been operative—he sold to Jonas Austin, of Hingham, all his remaining property in Taunton.

As described in the deed this included his homestead of some ten acres of land, with its housing, garden, and orchard, on the east bank of the Mill river, eleven acres more at the "Neck o' Land" where that stream flows into the Great River, twenty-six acres additional about two miles distant from the town, besides a couple of smaller tracts. In this deed Holloway called himself "late of Taunton." [12]

The property Holloway had purchased in Boston was well situated for business purposes. It lay on the east side of what is now Washington Street between Bedford and Essex and such life as the Puritan metropolis permitted must have flowed by his doors, some of it into his establishment.[13]

Holloway was well along in years when he set up shop in Boston and of his life there we get but a few glimpses. In a case against one George Bryant, charged with criminal conspiracy, Holloway deposed on 12 May, 1653, that despite his advice Bryant had taken advantage of the simplicity of Sarah Webb at the Braintree house of George Faxon. Joseph Holloway, at the same time, concurred in his father's testimony, calling Sarah "a maid." [14]

Holloway evidently continued his affiliation with the Dorchester church until January, 1661, as shown by its records. On the 6th of that month—"6 of ye (11) 60" as it was entered in Old Style dating—it was noted, with the usual misspelling of the name but again with the title of respect once given to only the few, that "Mr. Holway was dismissed for to joyn unto the old Church at Boston." As he was then in his seventy-fourth year it is easily understandable why he chose to join a congregation nearer his home.

Judging from the considerable amount of woolen goods shown in the inventory of his estate it would appear Holloway sold cloth besides making it up into clothing, and this may be the reason for Pope [p. 236] referring to him as "tailor and mercer." That Holloway tried to bring up at least one of his sons in the business is shown by his witnessing an acknowledgement of a debt of £20 which Dr. Jonathan Eyre gave John Holloway, of Boston, tailor, in September, 1658, for goods received. It was in connection with this matter that Holloway made the deposition in which he stated his age as already noted. It would appear that his son entered the service of Gov. Endicott soon afterward.

According to Pope, William Holloway administered the estates of his sons, Joseph, John, and Simeon, "long since deceased," in the year 1662, but no mention of this appears in the Suffolk County probate records and the authority that Pope cites—"Archives, 15B"—bears no date. Possibly this was assumed, for when William Holloway petitioned the General Court in May, 1662, for a grant of land on account of the services his deceased son, John Holloway, had rendered the Governor as Sergeant for "neere two years," it was noted he had been appointed by the County Court as administrator on his son's estate, and in all likelihood this appointment did not long precede the petition.[15]

It might be mentioned here that the services referred to were evidently such as would be rendered by a bodyguard. As early as 1637 it had been voted to employ two armed men to attend the Governor during the sittings of the Court or when he was engaged in other duties pertaining to his office. At a later date (1643) these men were called "Sergeants." [16]

In answer to Holloway's petition he was granted 150 acres of land "in some free place neere to some plantation or farme." Nothing more was done about this for almost nine years when on 19 April, 1671, the acreage was rather vaguely laid out to his widow "in answer to the Court's graunt to William her sonne" (sic).[17] It was not until many years later, however, that the land was finally located and surveyed.

As already mentioned, William Holloway's original will is still on file. A copy of it appears at page 447 of the first volume of Suffolk County probate records. This document, dated 9 May, 1664, and proved 6 April, 1665, left five shillings each to his sons, Timothy, Samuel,* Nehemiah, Elisha, and Malachi, as well as to his daughter, Esther.

All the rest of his property—his house and orchard in Boston, his household goods, debts, and estate not before given, "with such portions of Land as now Belong or shall hereafter fall to me in New England or Old England"—was left to his wife, Elizabeth, "she to have the sole Dispose of all after my decease, whom I make the sole executrix of this my will."

Inventory taken by Henry Allen and Edward Drinker is attached to the original will and amounted to £289:9:9. It included a shop, besides his house and garden plot in Boston, considerable "cloth" and other assets.

Some two years after her husband's death his widow mortgaged her Boston property for £50 in silver for a term of seven years at eight per cent interest. This mortgage was discharged when due.[18]

Mrs. Holloway evidently carried on her late husband's business quite successfully, for the long inventory of her estate showed it had increased to £458:8:3. It included a large yardage in cloth, also those 150 acres of land which were still to be definitely located. The grant made her by the court some nine years before her death had placed the tract "beyond Wading River neere to Plymouth ljne," but that was too vague for any use.

Furthermore, the town of Dorchester seems to have had some claim to the land in that neighborhood and evidently it did not propose to give any of it to non-residents. Mrs. Holloway had appeared before the selectmen there, 8 September, 1673, requesting they should propose at the next town meeting "that they would be pleased to grant her 150 acres of land which was formerly laid out, about Woodcock well or thereabout," but her petition was voted down when the assemblage was held on the following 1st of December.[19]

The will of Mrs. Elizabeth Holloway is a very interesting document. Dated 23 August, 1679, and probated on the 15th of July in the following year, the first heir named was her "loving son-in-law (i.e., step-son), Timothy Holloway, of Taunton, who received the meadow land there which he had granted to her husband, William Holloway, deceased. This no doubt was the "piece of salt meadow lying at Taunton," valued at £20, in the inventory.

She next bequeathed to her other "son-in-law," Samuel Holloway,

*The name of the son, Samuel, is omitted from the abstract of this will given at page 156, Vol. 13, of the Register, an omission repeated by Pope who quoted the Register as his authority.

"all the debts that he owes unto me," and gave his wife, Jane, "five shillings money as a token of my love."

The third legatee was her daughter-in-law, Mary, wife of her son, Elisha Holloway, of Taunton, deceased.

All the rest of her property was given her son, Malachi Holloway, who was named sole executor. As no reference was made to the other son, Nehemiah, and the daughter, Esther, named in their father's will, it is reasonable to suppose they too were deceased.[20*]

It is clear enough from Elizabeth Holloway's will that her husband had been married formerly, but no record of either marriage has been found. The first one must have taken place in England, the second perhaps in this country, if Holloway was here as early as 1631 or 2. It is possible his first wife's Christian name was Hannah for he seems to have had a daughter of that name, and it was also given to the first-born of his son, Samuel.

As nearly as can be determined from such records as we have, William Holloway's children who survived infancy were as follows:

Probably by first wife, born in England, order uncertain:

i. Timothy[2], b. prior to 1627,† for in 1643 he was listed among the inhabitants of Taunton able to bear arms.[21] His name is of frequent occurrence on the Proprietors' Records there, and he was one of the subscribers to the projected iron works in the town about 1653-4.[22]

Judging from the Plymouth Colony records, Timothy Holloway led a very full life, but there is none to indicate he ever married. His name is missing in the list of men who were heads of families in Taunton in 1675,[23] and no wife joined with him in signing any of the deeds he made. Furthermore, there is good evidence that his brother, Samuel, inherited his farm, as will be noted later on.

It is quite evident Timothy Holloway had no direct heirs. We do not know the date of his death. No administration of his estate has been found. The last record we have of him is in 1683 when he sold land in Taunton to (Rev.) George Shove, whose daughter, Elizabeth, subsequently married Malachi Holloway, Timothy's half-brother. This deed was not recorded until 5 June, 1702.[24]

ii. John, d. in Boston, 2 July, 1659. Mention of him has already been made in the preceding text. No record of his mar. has ever been found and from all indications he died a single man.‡

*Pope's abstract of this will mentions the "son-in-law," Samuel Holloway, although omitting him in the abstract of his father's will as already noted.

†Pope [p. 236] apparently includes Timothy with the four other children of William Holloway who were baptized in Dorchester on the same day in 1650 but the published records of the church do not include him with the others.

‡Pope [p.236] says John Holloway, the Boston tailor, arrived there from London in 1635, aged 21, but Savage [Vol. 2, p. 450] states this John Holloway went to Hartford, Conn., served in the Pequot War, m. but d. s. p.

iii. Joseph, "long since deceased" when his father was apptd. admr. on his est.—in 1662 according to Pope. We have no other record of him except his deposition of 1653 already mentioned—which would set his birth prior to 1633. Like the majority of his brothers he seems to have remained single.

iv. Simeon, d. in Boston, 17 Aug. 1660. As already noted his father was apptd. admr. of his est. as well as of those of his brothers John and Joseph. Like them there is no record of his mar. and nothing has been found to indicate there ever was one.

2. v. Samuel, m. Jane Brayman (Braman).

vi. Hannah, d. unm. in Boston, "last 8th month, 1653." The record of her death simply states she was "daughter of William Holloway," without mentioning her mother's name, as was the case when the deaths of John and Simeon Holloway were recorded. These men were noted as sons of William and Elizabeth.[25]*

Probably by second wife, born in Taunton, Mass.:

vii. Nehemiah, bapt. 7 April, 1650. While named in his father's will in 1664, he is not mentioned in his mother's (1679). He probably d. unm.

viii. Elisha, bapt. 7 April, 1650; d. prob. at Taunton in 1678, as inventory of his estate was taken 11 Jany., 1678/79, and exhibited on oath by Mary Holloway the 3d of June following.[26] Elisha Holloway was a soldier in King Philip's War and in June, 1676, was in the garrison at Medfield, Mass.[27] In the following November we find him in Boston, when in company with John Sanford—who had been a witness to his father's will—he witnessed an agreement made by Robert Walker and Sarah Neald.[28]

No record has been found to show the parentage of Elisha Holloway's wife, Mary, named in his mother's will of August, 1679, nor do we know what became of her subsequently. If she ever had children by Holloway no trace of any such has been found. We think it most likely there was none—at least none that survived infancy.

3. ix. Malachi, b. ab. 1647, bapt. 7 April, 1650; m. Elizabeth Shove.

x. Esther, bapt. 7 April, 1650; no further rec. after mention in her father's will (1664).

Note 1. A few other Holloways were early settlers in the Plymouth Colony but do not seem to have been related to William of Taunton and Boston.

References to them appear in the records of that colony, also in those of Massachusetts Bay, and have been gathered up by Pope, Savage, Bodge, Peirce (Colonial Lists), and in Volumes 1, 2, 8, 11, 15 and 26 of the Mayflower Descendant.

*It should also be noted here that the first of the three children of William and Mary Holloway listed on the Boston Vital records was Mary, born 2 April, 1653. It would have been most unusual not to have had the birth of an earlier child of theirs recorded if born in Boston.

The William Holloway of Marshfield who was made a freeman in 1644, died in 1653 when his widow, Grace, was appointed administratrix on his estate. He left two daughters, one of whom, Grace, married Josiah Reed and removed to New London and Norwich, Conn. This Holloway's widow married John Phillips in 1654, and was killed by lightning in 1666 together with one of his sons by a prior marriage. Still another of Phillip's boys had met the same unusual fate eight years earlier.

There was also a Joseph Holloway in Sandwich, Barnstable County, inventory on whose estate was taken in 1647. His widow, Rose, married (2), William Newland, in the following year.

According to Savage this Joseph Holloway was of Lynn, Mass., in 1636, removed to Sandwich a year later, and left a son Joseph. The Plymouth Colony Records refer to them variously as Holway, Holiway, and Holley.

Thomas Holloway, of Plymouth, was a volunteer in the Pequot War in 1636, but was not called into active service. We have no record of him after 1638.

Ward Holloway and Mary Studley of Scituate were married 27 February, 1734. He bought property there from Benjamin Studley in 1745, and sold it the next year to James and Elias Studley. His name here as copied into the record is given as "Holewell." He probably belonged to the Hallowells of Boston.

Besides these Plymouth Colony Holloways there were a few others of the name who were in Massachusetts before 1700. The published vital records of Boston note a Jacob Holloway whose son John was born there in 1694, and who does not seem to belong to the Hallowell family there—a name which often appears as "Holloway" on the early records of the city.

There was also a Joseph Holloway, of Lynn, who had four children born there from 1673 to 1677, as noted in the Register (Vol. 5, p. 252), and I have run across records of one or two other Holloways of this period at some interior points in northeastern Massachusetts.

Note 2. The early vital records of Boston, Mass., which have been published by that city's Record Commissioners as Document No. 130, list three children of William and Mary Holloway as follows:

Mary, born 2 April, 1653.
William, born 11 Jany., 1654/55.
Benjamin, born 8 July, 1656.

These records also state that Mary, wife of William Holloway, died 24 January, 1657/58.

Much confusion has been caused by these entries. Savage [Vol. 2, p. 341] states that William Holloway, "of Marshfield or Taunton", 1648, who sold his estate and removed to Boston, 1650, had wife, Mary, and the three children born on the dates above noted.

Failing to identify this man with the William Holloway whose will was probated in Boston in 1665, and whose legatees he mentions, he says he did not think this Holloway had lived in Boston long, "at least not one of his children is on our record of births."

Further on in the same volume [p. 450] Savage again lists William Holloway, but this time of Taunton only, 1639-1643, who removed to Boston about 1650, and by wife Mary had daughter Mary and son Benjamin, born as noted above. William is omitted here. Then he adds, "I fear great confusion exists with another William. See Hallowell."

But under that heading [p. 340] combined with Holloway and two variants of the latter spelling, he merely lists Benjamin Hallowell, "son of William, first of the name," who married Mary Stocker in 1692 and had Benjamin, born 20 January, 1699, who married Rebecca Briggs in 1722 and had Benjamin (3rd). After noting a few other early Hallowells the reference to William Holloway and his family follows as above noted.

Pope [p. 236] while identifying William Holloway of Boston with the man of that name who had removed from Taunton about 1650, and giving abstracts of the wills of both William Holloway and his widow Elizabeth, still persists in crediting him with a wife Mary, as well as with a daughter so named, and born on the date noted in the Boston records.

Emery [pp. 52 - 3] usually so accurate, follows Savage and attributes to William Holloway of Taunton and Boston all three of his contemporary's children—whose names actually were not Holloway at all.

Our early recorders generally spelled proper names as they pleased and with such a one as ours, so peculiarly open to variants on account of its number of vowels, the old time town clerks, registers of deeds, ministers, writers of wills, and all other scriviners, had a field day as if they were trying to see how many changes they could ring on the old English name of Holloway — even to the extent of converting it to Hallowell, a separate family entirely.

While this spelling of the name did not show up very often until one of the Holloways removed to Maine about 1783, Hallowells had been recorded as Holloways a hundred and fifty years earlier, when Boston's town clerk made entry of the births of Mary, William, and Benjamin, as the children of William and Mary "Holloway," while their parents were in reality William Hallowell and his wife, Mary Ward.

Mary Ward was the only child of Benjamin Ward, a shipwright of Boston, whose wife, Mary, had been married previously. She outlived Ward, and from a petition she filed with the Court some two months before her death, and from her will[29] we learn she left a son, Stephen Butler, from her previous marriage, and three grandchildren born to her daughter by Ward, viz., Mary, William, and Benjamin Holloway, whose father, William Holloway, was "to have the care of their portion." The italics are ours here for it will be shown that whoever wrote her will was as poor a speller of her son-in-law's name as was the Town Clerk of Boston.

Now in the Massachusetts Records of this period it will be found that William Hallowell engaged in a protracted series of lawsuits with his brother-in-law, Stephen Butler, on behalf of his children and their inheritance under their grandmother's will. And it will be noted that from 1668 to 1681, also in 1685, their names appear as "Hollowell," and as "Holloway" in 1682, 1683, and 1686.

Going back to the Boston vital records we found entries made of the births of various "Hollowell" children from 1673 to 1698, while a Mary Hallowell was baptized in the latter year. That correct form had been closely approximated in the record of Benjamin Hallowell's marriage to Mary Stocker as already mentioned, where it appears as "Hallawell". Evidently the recorders were getting the right spelling slowly established.

This Hallowell family has been prominent in Boston since Colonial times. Two of its members, Benjamin (3rd), and Robert Hallowell, grandsons of the Benjamin who was born in 1656, were Tories at the time of the Revolution, and left the city when it was evacuated by the British in 1776. They returned after the war and were well received by their former friends.

With other wealthy merchants of Boston and New York they had been among those who had taken over from the former Plymouth Colony all its rights in a large tract of land in Maine—the Kennebec Purchase, so called. The city of Hallowell, Maine, was named for them, while the adjacent city of Gardiner derives from Robert Hallowell, Jr., who settled there and took the name of Gardiner in order to inherit from his maternal grandfather, the wealthy Dr. Sylvester Gardiner of Boston. He had a large property there and his descendants have been prominent in the State.

Further account of the Hallowell family may be found in Sabine's Loyalists of the American Revolution, in Winsor's Pictorial History of Boston, in Robert Hallowell Gardiner's Early Recollections, in Emma Huntington Nason's Old Hallowell on the Kennebec, and in the histories of Kennebec County, Maine, and of Augusta and Hallowell.

Several of these works state that Briggs Hallowell, "son of Benjamin," was in Hallowell as early as 1768, presumably to look after his father's interests. The published vital records of the town note the births of two sons to Briggs and Hannah Hallowell in 1771 and 1774 respectively, but no later record of them appears therein.

While Briggs Hallowell's will is on file in Boston, he seems to have left a widow in Hallowell. North's History of Augusta, Me. (1870), says that after his death his wife Eunice kept a tavern there. She is probably the Mrs. Eunice Hallowell who married Capt. Ebenezer Perkins on 1 November, 1789, as noted in Hallowell's Vital Records.

Apparently none of the Hallowell family has lived there since, but our [27] William Holloway settled there about 1783, and partly as a result, most of his descendants have gone by the name of Hallowell for over a hundred years.

Note 3. Besides the clue to our William Holloway's English origin as already mentioned, another one may possibly be found in the parish registers of Whiteparish, Wiltshire, England, which record the marriage of William Holloway of Dameram to Jone "Rofe," 18 September, 1609. As these registers also note the baptism of Jone, daughter of John Roffe, on 15 September, 1579, she would have been about seven years older than our William Holloway. Her brothers, Henry and John Rolfe, emigrated to New England.[30]

SECOND GENERATION

2. Samuel[2] Holloway (William[1]) was born, probably in England, in the early 1630's, for while he must have been under sixty years of age in 1691 when listed among the men of Taunton, Mass., able to bear arms, yet there is a deed of record there, consented to by his widow in 1723, which refers to him as "the aged Samuel Holloway." [1] His death occurred sometime between the years 1702, when he conveyed all his property to his four sons and his wife, Jane, and 1707, when a court record mentioned Jane Holloway, as "widdow" of Taunton.

It would seem that when his father and stepmother removed from Taunton to Boston in 1650 he most likely accompanied them, for we have record of no other Samuel Holloway who could have been the man of that name who was listed among those for whom the town bailiff of Dorchester craved allowance—"som of them gonn, others poor" —when accounting for his tax disbursements in 1655.[2]

Holloway had evidently returned to Taunton for we find his name in the second, but undated, listing of the early settlers there "who had paid their twelve shillings and so were entitled to right in future divisions of land." [3]

There are numerous references to Samuel Holloway in the Old Proprietary Records of Taunton, five in the first volume, seventeen in the second, and some few others in the later ones. Most of these deal with various allotments of land given his sons and two of his grandsons on the rights he had acquired, but there are a couple of grants made direct to him.

One of these was awarded 21 July, 1666, shortly after his marriage, when he received lot 39, in the division of a tract of meadow and upland on the Three Mile river, while on 2 January 1699/1700, 39 acres were laid out to him on the path from Assonet river to Baiting brook. This, I suspect, he obtained in anticipation of the marriage of his son, Nathaniel, which occurred in March following, as it seems to have been included in some of the land he deeded that son two and a half years later.

These Old Proprietary Records [Vol. 4, p. 232] also show that Samuel Holloway was one of the free inhabitants there who were granted a tract of land four miles square on 26 November, 1672. This no doubt was the "South Purchase" which comprised most of the present towns of Dighton and of Berkley, for Holloway's name as owner of 85 shares therein appears in the list of its original proprietors at the first division of lots there on the same date as above noted.[4] families in Taunton in 1675 at the outbreak of King Philip's War, as well as in a subsequent list, dated 25 May, 1680, "of present purchasers or proprietors unto whom the town hath already granted or divided lands by virtue of their enjoying either purchase lots or purchase rights to divisions of land." In this list it was noted he qualified "on his own rights," that is, not purchased from others.

In this same year the people of Taunton were finding some difficulty in securing a minister to succeed the Rev. George Shove who had died in 1687. As a special inducement a number of the inhabitants raised a sum of money, and others contributed various acreages of their holdings to make their proposition attractive to an able man. As Samuel Holloway's name appears in the latter group we may consider he took an active interest in the welfare of the First Church of Taunton of which he was evidently a member.

In common with most of the able bodied men of Taunton, he was also a member of its Military Company from 1682 to 1684, and as Samuel Holloway, Sr., was recorded as having a long gun, sword, cartridge box, powder and bullets in the Inspector's Return of Taunton soldiers in King William's War in 1691.[5]

At the time of his death, which no doubt occurred in the present town of Berkley, Samuel Holloway (Sr.) in all probability was living there on a farm which he had evidently inherited from his brother, Timothy. This property was a third part of the original 400-acre tract known as "Mr. Street's farm" which Timothy Holloway, John Hathaway and Edward Bobet (Babbitt) had purchased in 1658[6] and divided equally amongst themselves as indicated by a Bristol County court record in which it is stated Bobet had 133 acres.

Proof of Samuel Holloway's succession to the ownership of what had been his older brother's third part of this property comes in three deeds. In one of these Samuel Holloway transferred half his farm to Capt. Henry Hodges and William Philips of Taunton in trust for his wife, Jane, while in another, in which he conveyed his dwelling house and homestead to his son, Timothy, he referred to the property as "my one sixth part of that farm known as Mr. Street's farm"—in other words, the remaining half of the original third.

Now when this Timothy Holloway disposed of that deed of gift in 1718 he stated it was "the homestead and inheritance of my deceased father, Samuel Holloway," so it would seem evident enough that the latter must have become possessed of his brother Timothy's former title therein.[7]

The deeds by which Samuel Holloway distributed his property in 1702 are of much interest. The one to Timothy, dated May 2d, in addition to the property already mentioned, also gave him twenty acres "in the forty-acre division," plus a quarter part of the grantor's rights to further divisions in the township of Taunton.

These gifts were made, it was stated, "for natural affection and in consideration of certain duties to be performed by Timothy as per his bond." While this bond is not of record it is reasonable to assume it had to do with the son's undertaking to take care of his parents in their latter years.

The deed Samuel Holloway made for his wife's benefit – dated June 1st, with their daughter, Esther Holloway, as one of the witnesses – is a little puzzling, for in addition to giving her half his farm it also gave her his dwelling house after his death, "she to dispose of same [meaning both] as she pleases by will or otherwise." This would seem to conflict with the deed made their son, Timothy, a month earlier, which also included the dwelling house. Then too the necessity of having trustees for his wife's handling of the property seems at variance with the carte blanche given her, unless their jurisdiction was to be operative only during his lifetime. So far we have not found that either they or the widow made any sale of the property and what finally became of it is unknown.

Samuel Holloway's deed to his son, Nathaniel, dated May 5th, also made "for love and affection," gave him forty-one acres "lying by Middlebury [Middleboro] line, "where Nathaniel now lives," together with fifty-five acres "over the line in Middlebury as sold to me by Mr. Simmons of Freetown," plus "a quarter part of my purchase right in the township of Taunton." [8]

To his sons, Joseph and Malachi, whose names are frequently joined in the records, Samuel Holloway made a joint gift on June 1st of his fifty-acre division of land in Taunton already laid out, ten acres to be taken up on the forty-acre division, together with the three score acre division agreed upon to be granted and laid out, plus "one half part of my right to undivided lands in Taunton, and all my right in the Beare Swamp." A condition was imposed for his sons to pay Hannah, wife of John Briggs, £6 in money or goods within six years, and a special proviso was added in connection with his unfortunate son, Joseph, which will be noted in our account of him following.[9]

Samuel[2] Holloway married Jane Brayman (or Braman) at Taunton, 26 March, 1666. This marriage is given in the Plymouth Colony records, appears in the published vital records of Taunton—where the bride's name is spelled "Braman,"—and is included in various other compilations.

Jane Brayman's parentage is unknown at present although there were families of the name both in Taunton and in the adjoining town of Rehoboth at a very early date. That she was considerably younger than her husband is evident, and that she led him an exceptionally trying existence for several years after their marriage, the records of Plymouth Colony testify only too well.

Life with her having become insufferable for Holloway by 1670 he applied to the court for divorce but after the authorities had investigated the charges a reconciliation was evidently brought about. The couple continued living together, bringing more children into the world quite regularly. Judging from the provision her husband made for her in anticipation of his decease he had long since overlooked her faults, deciding that she was not altogether responsible for her actions at times — a condition which seems to have been inherited by her son, Joseph[3], and her grandson, Nathan[4] Holloway. And then, too, the bequest made her "for love" in the will of her husband's stepmother, Elizabeth Holloway, in 1679, would indicate she had calmed down by that time. She was still living in 1723 as already noted.

The published vital records of Taunton list the first five children of Samuel[2] and Jane (Brayman) Holloway, and we have the names of three additional sons from the Bristol County deeds. While direct evidence is lacking we feel pretty sure we have the names of two more daughters besides those given in the Taunton records.

From such evidences as we have, we can list Samuel Halloway's children as follows, but with no certainty of the order of birth of the five last.

i. Hannah[3], b. 1 March, 1667. She may perhaps have been that Hannah, wife of John Briggs, to whom Joseph and Malachi Holloway were directed to pay £6 as already noted in connection with the deed Samuel Holloway made them. Record of such a marriage has not been found.

ii. Samuel, Jr., b. 14 September, 1668; no record after 1691. He probably died as a young man, unm.

The Samuel Holloway, of Taunton, who served in Capt. Samuel Gallup's Company in the disastrous expedition against Quebec in 1690, was undoubtedly Samuel, Jr. He had a gun furnished by Jonathan Briggs, valued at £1-10-0, and was provided with a knapsack, worth four shillings. In Robert Crossman's account of "what he did for the soldiers who went to Canada in 1690," he notes repairs on "Saml holows" gun— six pence, and also states he paid John Briggs £2-8-0 for Samuel Holoway's gun — quite an increase over its original appraisal.

Young Holloway was evidently one of the survivors of the disaster that befell our little Colonial army in the first effort made to take Canada from the French, for a year later it was noted in the Inspector's Return mentioned above that Samuel Holloway, Jr., had gun, but no sword, although otherwise supplied.[10]

4. iii. Nathaniel, b. 2 July, 1670; m. Deliverance Bobet (Babbitt).

iv. Esther, b. 14 May, 1673; there being no other Esther Holloway in Taunton at this time, she is undoubtedly the one of that name who married Francis Smith there, 13 July, 1702, as noted in the vital records of the city. List of their children (if any) has not been found.

v. John, b. 24 February, 1674/5. No further rec.; prob. d. young.

vi. Timothy, named as an older brother to Joseph, was impressed for service in Queen Ann's War in 1704, "to be delivered to Lieut. Samuel Williams."[11] His name is of frequent occurrence in the land records of Bristol County. We have no record of his marriage and no wife ever signed any deeds made by him as far as we have examined them. For his venture with the iron works in Freetown, 1704-1710, see account under [4] Nathaniel.[3] Timothy Holloway was a constable of Taunton in 1712 (Court record). He was of Tisbury, Mass., in 1715 and later of Rochester and Plymouth. The last record we have of him is in 1733 when as a resident of the latter town he sold land in Taunton to Isaac Little of Pembroke. In this deed he mentions he was formerly of Dighton and later of Rochester, Mass.[12]

vii. Joseph, d. in Berkley, Mass., in 1753.[13] At the time Joseph and his brother, Malachi, received a joint gift of land from their father in 1702, it was specified in the deed that Joseph should not sell nor mortgage any of this unless he obtained the consent of his father or mother, or two older brothers. It was also provided that after the death of his parents, Nathaniel and Timothy Holloway should manage the estate given Joseph if by that time he was incapable of doing so himself.

This first proviso was carried out when Joseph Holloway sold some of his land to Thomas Terry in 1716, the two brothers above named consenting to the transfer, and their mother recording her consent in 1723.

Evidently Samuel Holloway had serious misgivings as to this son's capacity, and the records shows his apprehension was well founded. In 1726 the selectmen of Dighton, of which Berkley was a part up to 1735, were empowered by the Superior Court of Bristol County in September, that year, to sell some of the land of Joseph Holloway, "a distracted person," to repay the town for the expense of keeping him up to the sitting of the next Court in 1727.

Several like sales were made during the years following and it would appear that Joseph Holloway remained "distracted" up to the time of his death.[14] No record exists of his marriage and in view of his mental condition it is unlikely he ever contracted one.

5. viii. Malachi, m. (1) Judah ——————; (2) Elizabeth Bobet (Babbitt).

ix. Abigail. We feel quite certain that the Abigail Holloway who married John Bryant, 27 September, 1710, as noted in the published vital records of Taunton, was Samuel Holloway's daughter. Three of his sons deeded land to Bryant in later years, and in 1723 Abigail Bryant and Malachi Holloway were witnesses to Jane Holloway's consent to the above-mentioned sale of land made by her son, Joseph.[15] The county's probate rec. show that Mary Darbey, of Taunton, only sister of John Bryant, late of Berkley, who left widow Abigail, was apptd. admx. on his est. in 1738. No other heirs were mentioned.

x. Sarah. We believe it more likely that the Sarah Holloway who married William Macomber, 3 January, 1705/6,[16] was Samuel's daughter than that she could have been his brother Malachi's. As will be noted in our account of the latter, we have reason to believe he was not married until 1692, and if such was the case the marriage of a daughter less than fourteen years old, as she would have been in January, 1706, seems out of the question.

Stockpole's Macomber Genealogy [pp. 11, 13-14] says that William Macomber, b. 31 January, 1684, son of John, Jr., and Anna (Evans) Macomber, married Sarah Holloway, as above, was impressed as a soldier in 1711, and d. ab. 1715. No later reference to his wife is given. They had four children (Macomber) named in the grandfather's will; viz. Abiel,[4] William, Anna, and Sarah.

Abiel Macomber m. Abiah Williams in 1733, and d. about 1735, prob. s. p. William d. s. p. before 20 March, 1730/31. Anna m. Jonathan Hoar. Sarah was unm. in March, 1730/31.

3. Malachi[2] Holloway (William[1]), was born at Taunton, Mass., about the year 1647, for in a deposition he made on 20 February, 1724/25, he stated he was in his seventy-eighth year.[1] He was baptized at the First Church of Dorchester, Mass., 7 April, 1650, soon after his parents' removal from Taunton, and continued living there and in Boston until shortly after his father's death.

That neither Malachi nor his older brother, Elisha, had any desire to carry on their father's business is evident enough. The busy town of Boston seems to have had no attractions for them for as soon as they grew to manhood they returned to the place of their birth — that once pleasant land of Taunton, with its fragrant pine woods, its rivers, and its peaceful lakes and ponds, their childhood's home which their older half-brothers, Timothy and Samuel, had never left for long.

Savage says that Malachi Holloway was of Taunton as early as 1668, and we find he served on a coroner's jury there four years later.[2] In November, 1672, he was one of the proprietors, to the extent of twenty-nine shares in the Taunton South Purchase, a land deal in which his brother, Samuel, was a considerable investor as already noted.[3]

That some one or more of those likewise interested in this venture contested the rights of the Holloway brothers to share in it, seems to be indicated by a decision of the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court [No. 3441] which under date of 18 March, 1683, stated that Samuel and Malachi Holloway were among those inhabitants of Taunton who were entitled to participate in a purchase made from the Indians in 1672.

As a result of this participation, as well as by acquiring the rights of one of the original proprietors of Taunton, besides those he inherited, Malachi Holloway became a large land holder in the township. His name is of frequent occurrence in The Old Proprietary Record Books there as he had various tracts laid out to him, sold off parts of his allotments, or purchased those of others.

Some of his purchases and sales, because of their late recording, or for another reason, came to be entered in the deeds of Bristol County when Taunton was made the county seat in 1686. Amongst such entries there we find one dated in 1677 when Malachi Holloway with some other men bought a large tract of land from the Plymouth Colony at "Shawamet," which lay west of the mouth of the Taunton river. It is of interest to note that in a deed he made as grantor in 1683 no wife signed with him, while in later ones of 1688 and 1692, a similar condition existed. Beginning in 1694, however, his wife, Elizabeth, became a co-signer with him.[4]

According to Bodge [p. 427] Malachi Holloway was a soldier in that life and death struggle with the savages in 1675-6, known as King Philip's War and received a grant of land for his services. Bodge states this was located in the township of Greenwich, Massachusetts, sometime between the years 1735 and 1740, the record noting Holloway was a resident of Taunton. What became of this grant does not appear, the Register of deeds at Springfield stating the grantee's name does not show on the Proprietor's book of that town, nor on the county records.

Holloway was still a member of the Taunton Military Company in 1683 and 1684, his name on the rolls dignified by the title of "Mr."[5] Sometime later he evidently became Lieutenant of the Company for he is referred to by that title in a deed of land in Middleboro, made him by his nephew, Nathaniel Holloway, in February, 1708.[6]

The published records of the Plymouth Colony [Vol. 6, p. 166] note that Malachi Holloway was a constable of Taunton, as well as a grand juryman in 1687.

On the 6th of September in this same year and dated at Boston, Holloway petitioned Gov. Andros of Massachusetts for a survey and confirmation of title to 150 acres of land granted his father, William Holloway, in 1662, "beyond Wading river near Plymouth line."[7]

A search of the archives indicated no action was taken on this petition, for thirty years later, in May, 1717, Holloway, then a resident of Middleboro, made a second one. This time he requested that a new grant be made him in lieu of the former one given his father which interfered with Dorchester, and had "never since been laid out in any other place."[8]

The General Court acted promptly on this second petition, granting it within thirty days. A tract of 150 acres of land between Sutton and Worcester, Massachusetts, was finally surveyed and assigned to him in October, 1717.[9] As in the case of his Greenwich grant, however, we have not been able to learn what became of this property, no reference to him appearing in the records of Worcester County.

It is interesting to note in Hurd's History of Plymouth County [p. 956] that Malachi Holloway was Middleboro's representative to the General Court of the Province of Massachusetts Bay in 1717 and his presence there no doubt had much to do with his final success in getting that grant of land made to him.

The published records of the First Church of Dorchester (now Unitarian) contain an interesting item regarding Holloway. Under date of 3 July, 1692, the record states "Whereas Malachi Holloway being a child of this church and living att Tanton was by A vote of this church Recomended to the church of Tanton but he Refused to be under the wach of that church excleming Aganst them as being covenant Breakers and being no church of Christ and so forth: the church of Tanton made complaint of him to the church of Dorchester of his contemptuous carige declaring allso that he was otherwise scandalous, the church of Dorchester upon debatte of the matter (on May 1st 91) desiered the Elders to send to him to speak with him and deale with him about thes matters but tho they sent once and Againe all though he came thorow ye town of Dorchester yett he wold not come att the elders to speak with them now this 3 July 92 the Elders declaring this to ye church and the church votted for to send to him to come before them.

"The Elders discoursed him at Tanton and dealt with Him & upon what he spake to them the matter was deferred on hopes that He might be recovered."

It is unfortunate that the records of the Taunton church for this period are no longer in existence as they would no doubt give us information as to the upshot of this affair, and perhaps also throw some light on what else Holloway was doing which was considered as "otherwise scandalous." Perhaps it was no more than attending services in the Baptist denomination, a sect of which his son, William, was a member in later years, but as it would appear Holloway was an unmarried man as late as 1691, judging from the records already given, there is a possibility the church elders had heard some rumors of his philandering.

However that may be, such reports were soon to be quieted forever, by his marriage. As in the case of his half-brother, Samuel, Malachi Holloway does not seem to have been in any hurry to enter matrimony, but when he did he must have experienced a delightfully malicious sense of satisfaction in marrying none other than a daughter of the former minister of the very church which had entered the complaint about him. If the deeds we have mentioned mean anything, it would appear this event took place shortly after 15 April, 1692, when no wife was a signer with him in passing a title.

While he was forty-five years old at that time we question if he had ever been previously married. His name does not appear in the list of Taunton men who were heads of families in 1675,[10] and we have never seen any record to indicate he had a wife at any period between that date and 1692. Furthermore from such evidences as we have it is very certain all his children were by his wife, Elizabeth, daughter of Rev. George Shove.

Record of this marriage does not exist but proof of it is to be found in the Bristol County Deeds and in the Old Proprietary records of Taunton. At page 52, Volume 2, of the Deeds, we find that Malachi Holloway and Elizabeth, his wife, of Taunton, sold to John Phillips, of Weymouth, in 1694, half a share of land in the North Purchase of Taunton, while at page 102 in volumes 6-7 of the Proprietary Records of the North Purchase, in a reference to the heirs of Mr. George Shove it is stated that one-half of his original right in the Purchase "was sold to Mr. John Phillips by Malachi holloway who mard one of said Mr. Shove's daughters, and consented to by Josiah howland and yetmercy his wife the only survivor of said Mr. Shove's daughters."

Emery, in both his Ministry of Taunton, and in his History of Taunton [pp. 184-5], gives some little account of Rev. George Shove who married Hopestill Newman, daughter of Rev. Samuel Newman, of Rehoboth, in 1664. Their daughter, Elizabeth, was born in Taunton, 10 August, 1666, and her half-sister, Yetmercy, born of Rev. Shove's second wife, on 7 November, 1682.* [11] It is obvious from these records how Malachi Holloway came to name a daughter "Hopestill."

In a later transaction between Holloway and Phillips, as grantors, and Josiah Howland, as grantee, recorded in the Bristol County Deeds [X, 733], there is a reference to the will of George Shove but no such document is on file either in that county's probate records, or in those of Plymouth.

While the deeds made by Malachi Holloway in both 1703 and 1709 give his residence as Taunton, there is evidence that he had resided in Freetown, Massachusetts, at some period during the interval. In the deposition noted in which he gave his age in a certain year, he stated that "some time since I lived in Freetown and there a Mr. Makepeace lived and I was much in his company, etc." This may have been at the time he was interested with his nephews, Nathaniel and Timothy Holloway, and a group of other men, in erecting an iron works in that town on the Assonet river.

This enterprise was started in 1704 and when three years later we find that Malachi Holloway accepted Nathaniel and Timothy as his co-partners in leasing the plant for a term of six years we may be very sure it was their uncle who had so accepted them and not their brother, Malachi, who was so much younger than they.[12]

The History of Freetown, Mass. [pp. 159-160] has a good account of this old-time iron works. It was built on the east side of what is still known as the Forge Dam in the Assonet river, and ran continuously under the original owners—or their heirs—until 1820, when it was acquired by others. Nails and tools were then made there until 1874 when the plant was destroyed by fire and went out of existence.

The lease made by the Holloways in 1707 does not seem to have worked out very well. Malachi sold his interest in the iron works—one full share or twentieth part—to Nicholas Moorey of Freetown, 29 March, 1709, and Timothy Holloway disposed of his a year later.[13]

In a suit subsequently brought by Nathaniel and Timothy Holloway against the new owners of the enterprise, Messrs. Nicholas Moorey and Josiah Winslow, there is an undated account of "debts due from the Iron Works." On this memorandum it was noted that "Malachy" Holloway was owed £26-13-6 for 41 loads of coals, and for carting in 20 loads, also £10-1-0 for iron.[14]

Holloway became interested in acquiring land in Middleboro as early as 1703 when he bought eighteen acres there from John Allen, and he added thirty-five more in what seems to have been a trade with his nephew, Nathaniel Holloway, some four years later. In the meantime he had evidently acquired some rights in what became known as the "Sixteen Shilling Purchase" in Middleboro, for on the same day he bought those thirty-five acres from his nephew—19 February, 1707/8—he sold him a full fourth part in one of those rights.[15]

Holloway at this time was still a resident of Taunton, but as no wife joined with him in the deed he then made, it is possible she was no longer living. Whether or not this was the cause of his removing from Taunton we could not say, no record of Elizabeth Holloway's death having been found. However that may be, he was of Middleboro soon afterwards when he traded land with Ebenezer Richmond of Taunton.

At this time—3 January, 1709/10—he sold to Richmond for £100 about forty acres of land in Taunton bounded partly on the Middleboro line, adjoining land of Nathaniel Holloway on the Assonet river, also the thirty-five acres he had purchased from Nathaniel and the eighteen bought from Allen. No wife joined with him in signing this deed. On the same day Richmond sold him, also for £100, "one six score acre lot of land" in Middleboro, bounded on the southeast by Assawompsett Pond, and westward by land of Robert Sprout, together with three tracts of meadow land held jointly by Richmond, Sprout, Ephraim Little and John MacFarland.[16]

Holloway continued living in Middleboro for some fourteen years at least—perhaps longer if he made his home with his sons after disposing of his property there. In November, 1723, he sold to "my son, George Holloway," the 120 acres of land he had bought from Richmond, together with the dwelling house standing thereon. In the following July, in company with Solomon MacFarland, he sold the rest of his Middleboro holdings to Thomas Nelson of that town. As before, Holloway signed these deeds without any wife joining with him in passing title.[17]

What became of Holloway afterwards is unknown. While Bodge states he was of Taunton in connection with the land grant made him sometime between 1735 and 1740 on account of his services in King Philip's War sixty years earlier, yet it is doubtful if he had lived to any such advanced age as one interpretation of this statement might indicate. It is possible it should be taken to mean that Holloway was a resident of Taunton when he entered the war against Philip.

The indexes to the recorded wills and administrations in Plymouth County, Massachusetts, contain no reference to Malachi Holloway, and those of Bristol County are equally barren. Record of his death has never been found, nor any list of his children. However, thanks largely to the Plymouth deeds, and to various other evidences, we can name his issue as follows in what is approximately their order of birth, presumably at Taunton, Massachusetts:

i. Simeon[3], b. probably in 1692 for he was of sufficient legal age to take inv. of the est. of Robert Sprout, of Middleboro, presented in March, 1712/13.[18] Sprout at the time of his death was living on property next to Malachi Holloway's in that town, as already noted.

In 1725, Simeon bought thirty-one acres of land in Middleboro on Assawompsett Neck, which he sold to Ebenezer Peirce seven years later. He acknowledged this deed at Freetown, Mass., in 1733.[19] No further rec. of him has been found, and it is likely he d. unm.

ii. Elizabeth, married Joshua Howland of Freetown, Mass., at Taunton, 12 July, 1709.[20] The work entitled The Howlands of America [p. 87], states he was the son of Samuel and Mary Howland, and that he m. (2), 17 April, 1725, Dorothy Lee. By his first wife he had issue (Howland): 1. John[4], b. 26 Aug., 1710; d. 1790; m. ——— Peirce (Abigail or Elizabeth). 2. Malachi, b. 7 Feby., 1711/12; d. 21 Sept., 1802; m. Hope Dwelly. 3. Job, m. Jemima Booth. 4. Elizabeth, m. William Nelson, of Middleboro. 5. Gershom. 6. Joshua, Jr., m. Mary Allen. For later descendants see The Howlands of America, pp. 101-2, and The Peirce Family of the Old Colony, pp. 73, 74, 150-1.

6. iii. Thomas, b. about 1698; m. Rebecca Tubs (or Tubbs).

iv. George, b. about 1700, evidently named from his grandfather, Rev. George Shove, died at Cornwall, Conn., 13 July, 1756. He held the property his father deeded him in 1723 for only a few months, selling it to Thomas Palmer of Middleboro. Of much more interest is a sale he made in August, 1729, "to my brother, John Holloway." Their sister, Hopestill, was a witness to this deed.[21]

A few months later, Hopestill Holloway married Joshua Peirce of Pembroke and went there to live. It would seem that George Holloway soon joined them for the histories of Cornwall, Conn., state that George Holloway and his brother, John, from Pembroke, Mass., settled in Cornwall about the year 1740.

George Holloway quickly became the most prominent man amongst the early settlers, serving as their first Town Clerk, Captain of the Train Band, Justice of the Peace, etc., until his sudden death on the date noted. It is said he had a wife but no children.[22]

v. John. According to the histories above mentioned, John Holloway never married but lived with his brother, George, in Cornwall. His residence in Pembroke, if any, must have been of very short duration, for he still referred to himself as "of Middleboro," when selling land to "my brother, William Holloway," both in 1731 and 1739."[23]*

That John Holloway kept in touch with his old friends in Taunton is indicated by a Bristol County deed in 1746 when as a resident of Cornwall, Conn., he sold some land there to Christopher Paul of Taunton.[24]

No record has been found which gives the date of John Holloway's death. It is said he survived his brother George.

7. vi. Hopestill, b. 1703 or 1704; m. Joshua Peirce.
8. vii. William, b. 1706 or 1707; m. Sarah Walker.

NOTE. The American Ancestry [Vol. 9, p. 192] states that the William Holloway who married Sarah Walker was son of William Holloway of Taunton and Elizabeth Holyday who were married 17 November, 1702, and grandson of Malachi Holloway. This error is repeated by Virkus in giving a Holloway pedigree on p. 667, Vol. 4 of his Compendium.

This statement was evidently just a mere guess, for from the various deeds already noted we have shown that the William Holloway whose wife was Sarah Walker, was very definitely the son, and not the grandson, of Malachi Holloway. Whoever made up the Holloway pedigree in the American Ancestry no doubt thought that the Holloway-Holyday marriage in 1702 would fit in very well with the birth of William Holloway in 1706—this despite the fact that the reported marriage took place in New York.

The date given for it—17 November, 1702—is actually the one when the couple were licensed to wed. This record appears in a list of New York marriage licenses granted by Lord Cornbury while governor of the province and is contained in an old book of records in the city.[25]

The identity of this William Holloway of New York is unknown to the writer. He may possibly have belonged to a family that was on Long Island at an early date, and may have been the William Holloway of Pawling, Dutchess County, N.Y., progenitor of the Holloway family there.

*The succession of land conveyances amongst these Holloways, in which we have italicized the relationships stated therein—Malachi to his son George, George to his brother John, then John to his brother William—in connection with a later deed which was signed by William's wife, Sarah, when he disposed of his Middleboro properties,[26] definitely establishes his identity and controverts an imaginary pedigree given him in the old time compilation noted above.

THIRD GENERATION

The dispersal of the Holloway family begins with this generation, some of its members settling in towns as far away from Taunton as Cornwall, Connecticut, and Mendham, New Jersey.

As all ancestral lines noted in this work stem from William[1] Holloway, his name will be omitted hereafter from the lists of pedigrees given and each one will end with Samuel[2] or Malachi[2] as the case may be.

4. NATHANIEL[3] HOLLOWAY (Samuel[2]), was born at Taunton, Mass., 2 July, 1670, and died there in 1727, when his widow, Deliverance, and son, Nathaniel (Jr.), were appointed administrators on his estate.[1*]

In an inspector's return of Taunton soldiers raised for service in King William's War in 1691, he was listed as having no gun nor sword but "otherwise supplied." Under date of 25 July, 1697, his name appears in a list of soldiers to be impressed for service at Castle Island in Boston Harbor. He was a member of the First Military Company in Taunton in 1691 and 1700, and was again to be drafted in 1711 for service in an expedition to Canada.[2]

Besides taking part in all of England's wars with France and Spain from 1690 to 1762 the Massachusetts colonists frequently indulged in squabbles of their own. The men of Taunton enjoyed a series of these over the new dam which had been built across the Mill River soon after the grist mill there had changed hands.

This enterprise had been operated by Thomas "Lincon" and his sons almost from the first settlement of the town and the dam they had built there did not prevent the herring from going up the stream to spawn every Spring, and incidentally to furnish both food and fertilizer to a good many of Taunton's inhabitants.

The Lincolns had evidently provided for these herring runs in accordance with an early vote of the town and everything seems to have gone along satisfactorily both to fish and fishers until Robert Crossman (Jr.) bought out the Lincolns in 1698. Soon afterwards, evidently needing more waterpower to operate the fulling mill he had added to the grist mill, he built a higher dam—apparently with no provision made for the fish to get by it.

A petition against him for this lack of consideration on his part was presented to the Court in 1701 and it was ordered that the Selectmen of Taunton should see to it that a way was made over or through the dam so the herring could pass. Crossman evidently heeded this edict for no more complaints were made against him until 1710 when on a similar petition another court order was issued as before.

*The compilation entitled Middleboro Deaths, published by the Mayflower Society, gives the date of his decease as 6 June, 1728—probably an error in copying.

At this time a remonstrance was drawn up by some one hundred of Crossman's friends who were not herring minded, in which they pointed out what a loss it would be to Taunton if the dam was destroyed and the mills put out of business. Among those who signed this memorial we find the names of Timothy and Nathaniel Holloway, Nathaniel's being the very last one on the list.

It was not until a year later, however, and after another petition had been filed against him, that Crossman dug a small ditch around the far end of the dam. In time the herring by-passed Mill river altogether and joined those others who made the more distant ponds up the Taunton river their goal for the Spring spawning.*

In our account of Nathaniel's uncle, Malachi[2] Holloway, we made note of Nathaniel and his brother, Timothy, having been associated with him in leasing an iron works in Freetown in 1707. After their uncle withdrew from this venture the brothers made a new lease in 1709 with Nicholas Moorey and Josiah Winslow of Freetown for a period of five years.[3]

Evidently this undertaking did not turn out well, for the Bristol County court records show a number of lawsuits between lessors and lessees. In 1711 the Holloway brothers acquired some of Moorey's land through execution.[4] Later, the records indicate that Moorey and Winslow had sued the Holloways and obtained judgment, for the defendants' appeal is entered in the county's Superior Court dockets for 1719. These court records unfortunately are in such chaotic condition we have been unable to learn how this particular case was finally adjudicated.

It is quite possible the Holloways had started a counter action against Messrs. Moorey and Winslow at about this same period, for as already noted in our account of Malachi[2] Holloway, an undated memorandum having to do with such a case is in the files of the Supreme Judicial Court at Boston—No. 24,582. In this document it is noted that the Iron Works owed Nathaniel Holloway £9-13-6 for work done.

Another case, in which he was a co-defendant with Capt. Josiah Winslow of Freetown came up in 1726 when on 1 September, Job

*In noting Robert Crossman's controversy with certain Tauntonians I have drawn upon the very excellent article which appeared in No. 5 of the Old Colony Historical Society's Collections in 1892 under the title "Cohannet Alewives and the Ancient Grist Mill at the Falls on Mill River."

These little falls were plainly in sight from Cohannet street when I was a boy in Taunton, but are now hidden from view by intervening buildings.

Whether or not the alewives still work their silvery way up the "ladder" around the falls in the greater river at East Taunton, I could not say. Many people used to drive out there in the old days to see the spectacle, but I suspect the unique "Herring Run" at the Taunton Inn has superior attractions today.

Almy was appointed a Special Justice of the Superior Court to preside in place of Paul Dudley at the trial of causes against them.[5]

Nathaniel Holloway's name is of frequent occurrence in the Bristol County deeds as a conveyor of land, and at the time of his death he still owned considerable property in Taunton, Middleboro, and in that part of Dighton now Berkley. Much of this came from his father in 1702 as already noted, the deed of gift mentioning forty-one acres in Taunton "lying by Middlebury [Middleboro] line where Nathaniel now lives, with fifty-five acres in Middlebury," together with a quarter part in his father's purchase rights in the township of Taunton.[6] After his death his family evidently entered upon the Middleboro property, all except two of his daughters becoming residents there. The part of Middleboro they lived in was set off as Lakeville in 1853.

Nathaniel Holloway married at Taunton, Mass., 13 March, 1699/1700, Deliverance Bobet, or Babbitt as the name came to be spelled in later years.[7] She was the youngest daughter of Edward and Sarah (Tarne) Bobet, born in what is now Berkley, Mass., 15 December, 1673. Her father was killed by the Indians in June, 1675. His gravestone, found as part of a stone wall in Berkley, is now lodged with the Old Colony Historical Society at Taunton.[8]

The dockets of the Superior Court at Taunton show that in 1718 Nathaniel Holloway and his wife had brought suit against her brother, Edward, for trespass and ejectment from one-ninth part of 133 acres of land that had belonged to her deceased father—obviously one-third of the 400-acre tract he had bought in company with John Hathaway and Timothy[2] Holloway in 1658.

This case, on appeal, had gone to the Superior Court in 1719, and evidently was decided in favor of the Holloways, for an agreement made between them and Edward Bobet, [Jr.], in 1722 mentions their having received the ninth part they had claimed in their father's homestead.* It is of interest to note the reference made in this agreement to the boundary line between the properties of Edward Bobet [Sr.] and Samuel Holloway.[9]

No record of the births of Nathaniel Holloway's children has been found, but we have the names of the eight who survived infancy. These are noted in an agreement his widow made with her children in 1735 as to the division of her late husband's property.[10] In accordance with the old-time custom this record first names the sons and then the daughters, presumably in the respective order of birth for each group, but what the combined order might have been we do not know.

Following the record given, the children of Nathaniel[3] and Deliverance (Bobet) Holloway were as follows, order uncertain:

9. i. Nathaniel[4], Jr., m. (1) Mehitable Bassett; (2), Mrs. Abiah (Crane) Babbitt.
10. ii. Nathan, m. Elizabeth Makepeace.

*Reference to this lawsuit appears on page 35 of the Babbitt Family History. The court record refers to the defendant as Edward "Bobbitt."

11. iii. Samuel, m. Rebecca Trouant.
12. iv. Josiah, m. Hannah Parris.
13. v. Margaret, m. Benjamin Terry, of Freetown, Mass.

vi. Sarah, b. about 1706, m. John Rounsevell, of Tiverton, (R.I.), in 1731, and d. in January, 1743, in her 37th year. Her husband was son of Philip and Mary (Howland) Rounsevell (Rounseville). He m. (2), Sarah Spooner in 1745. Sarah (Holloway) had three children (Rounseville):[11]

1. Sarah[5], b. 1731; m. 17 July, 1755, John Peirce, and d. in Lakeville, Mass., 25 October, 1774.
2. Hope, b. 1735; m. 5 November, 1760, Col. John Nelson.
3. John, b. —— September, 1738; d. 5 February, 1739.

vii. Deliverance, b. 1714; m. 5 May, 1735, Isaac Peirce (3rd),* and d. 11 October, 1801, aged 87. He was son of Isaac (Jr.) and Judith (Booth) Peirce, b. about 1705, d. 18 September, 1782. "Both have suitable gravestones bearing legible inscriptions."

Issue (Peirce):[12]

1. George[5], b. 16 Oct., 1735; m. 14 Sept., 1757, Sarah, dau. of Shadrach Peirce. He d. 17 July, 1774.
2. Child, d. infancy.
3. Enos, b. 30 Sept., 1739; d. 29 July, 1794. He m. 28 Dec., 1785, Ruth Durfee.
4. David, b. 20 March, 1741; m. —— July, 1764, Abigail Hathaway. Served at Rhode Island in the Revolutionary War. He was killed by a falling tree while timbering, 9 March, 1779. His widow m. (2) Joshua[5] Howland, 3rd, grandson of Joshua and Elizabeth[3] (Holloway) Howland.

viii. Mercy. That she d. unm. is indicated by a deed made 9 Oct., 1746, by her four brothers and her sisters, Margaret Terry and Deliverance Peirce, in which they sold to Samuel Peirce for £60 the sixth-sevenths part of a piece of land which had been "allotted to our sister Mercy Holloway but she is since deceased without issue."[13]

5. Malachi[3] Holloway (Samuel[2]), probably his father's youngest son, was born at Taunton, Mass., about the year 1680, and died at Mendham, Morris County, New Jersey, in June, 1762.

In 1705 his name appears as Malachi, "Jr.", in a list of soldiers impressed—or drafted as we should now say—for service in Queen Ann's War.[1]

The appellation "Junior" given him at that time was evidently used to distinguish him from his uncle, Malachi[2] Holloway. According to the prevailing custom in those days the term was generally used in such cases to denote the younger of two contemporary men bearing the same name in the same town, even when no close relationship existed between them.

*He is called Isaac Peirce, Jr., in the entry of this marriage on the Middleboro Vital records, Book 1, p. 140.

Two other like instances in this case occur in the records—once in the Bristol County Deeds [Vol. 9, p. 611] when Malachi Holloway, "Jr.", bought land of Thomas Harvey, Sr., although he is named as Malachi Holloway throughout the document itself, and again in the Old Proprietory record of Taunton [Vol. 2, p. 108] when in November, 1702, Malachi Holloway, "Jr.", and Joseph Holloway were granted fifteen acres of land "north of the fifty acres their father gave them," together with twenty-five more on the west side.

As this record ties in so definitely with the fifty-acre gift Samuel Holloway had made his sons, Malachi and Joseph, in the preceding June, as already noted, we can dismiss the possibility of this term "Jr." as used in the records noted having applied to any man other than Samuel Holloway's son. In fact, we have never found the slightest indication that Samuel's son, Malachi[3], ever had a cousin of that name.

Up to the time he was almost seventy years of age Malachi[3] Holloway lived on the property his father had given him in what is now Berkley, Mass. He does not seem to have taken any active part in the affairs of the township, for only a few items regarding him—aside from those listing the births of his children—have been found and sent us from the records there.

These items merely note that at a town meeting in 1741 it was voted, "Our school shall keep three months following, one month first at Malachy Holloway's, and then one month at Mr. John French's and then one month at or near Deacon Axtell's." A year later Holloway was chosen as one of the town's minor officials, and in 1738, 1743, and in 1746, he was drawn for jury duty.

On 14 October, 1748, he sold his homestead farm in Berkley to Thomas Gilbert—some eighty-eight acres on which he was then living, as stated in the transfer of title.[2] While we have no record of him until four years later it is reasonable to assume that it was shortly after this sale was made when he embarked on the Taunton river, with his wife and unmarried children, his household goods, and perhaps some live stock, and set sail for Elizabethtown, New Jersey, the nearest port to Mendham.

His wife's brother, Elkanah Babbitt, and the latter's son, Isaac, Babbitt, had settled there some five years earlier, and the farm Holloway acquired seems to have been very close to that of his brother-in-law's. In fact, there is a reference in a deed made by Elkanah Babbitt in 1754, stating that the property he sold was near Malachi Holloway's.[3] As a number of the Berkley Hathaways had also gone to Mendham the Holloways had some of their old neighbors, as well as their relatives, near them in their new home.

Neither the East Jersey Land Records at Perth Amboy nor those of Morris County show just when Holloway bought his farm in Mendham and it is supposed his purchase, like so many others thereabouts, failed to be recorded. The first reference we have to him there is in 1752 when his name—as "Mallica Holoway"—appears in a list of the freeholders (land owners) in the township of "Mendom."[4]

Late in the following year Holloway made a visit to Berkley at which time he disposed of the remaining rights his father had had in certain tracts of land in Taunton. One of these deeds was acknowledged at Berkley, 2 November, 1753, and the other at Taunton five days later. In this one he took pains to describe himself as "of Mendon in ye County of Morris in New Jersey, Late of Berkley in ye County of Bristol in ye province of ye Massachusetts Bay in New England"—[5] a most praiseworthy identification from a genealogical standpoint.

We find no further reference to Malachi[3] Holloway up to the time when he made his will, 19 February, 1760, while still a resident of Mendham. This document, proved 6 July, 1762, and now on file in the Secretary of State's office at Trenton, N.J., (Docket 168-N), names wife, Elizabeth, sons Elkanah, Elijah, Nehemiah, Jonathan, and Malachi; daughters, Patience, Judeth and Elizabeth. The two sons first named were to act as executors and divide their father's 77-acre farm between them.*

The inventory of his personal estate, taken by Isaac Babbitt and John Brown, 22 June, 1762, amounted to £42-15-9, and included household goods, books, a gun, farm implements, and some small number of livestock.

Malachi[3] Holloway was married twice, but the records thereof have not been found. His first wife was Judah ————————, whose surname is unknown at present. His second wife was Elizabeth Babbitt, who according to the Babbitt Family History [p. 49], was born 6 March, 1698, daughter of Elkanah and Elizabeth (Briggs) Babbitt of Berkley.† Elkanah Babbit was an older brother of Deliverance Babbitt, who married Malachi's brother, Nathaniel Holloway.

We are indebted to Mr. Francis F. G. Andrews, Town Clerk of Berkley, Mass., for the following list of thirteen children, two of their marriages, and some of the grandchildren of Malachi Holloway, as taken from the town and church records:

*Abstract of this will as published in the New Jersey Archives [First Series, XXXIII, 198] omits the names of his sons, Jonathan and Malachi, although these are included in the copy of the testament which appears in Book H of Wills [pp. 297-8] at Trenton.

They are also noted in Dr. Olin E. Holloway's Genealogy of the Holloway Families, as legatees of an—to him—unidentified Malachi Holloway of Mendham, N.J. This genealogy while dealing principally with the descendants of one John Holloway, an early settler of Burlington County, N.J., makes brief reference to other groups, some of whom we recognize as belonging to the Old Colony family. The more extended account he gives of another unidentified Holloway—Jacob of New Jersey—is of much value as this man was without doubt one of Malachi's grandsons.

†The Babbitt Family History [p. 48] states that Elizabeth Babbitt was Malachi Holloway's second wife, but in listing their children, says that some may have been by his first wife, and also omits the names of the last two.

(28) Benjamin Holloway, son of Elijah and Hannah Holloway, deceased, as stated on a page in his family Bible.

"Children of Malachy and Judah Holloway;"

i. Patience[4], b. 19 March, 1712; m. John Darbey*, 26 Jany., 1736/7. Issue (Darbey): 1. Abigail[5], b. 8 Sept., 1740. 2. Mary, b. 29 March, 1742. 3. John (Jr.), b. 11 July, 1744. 4. David, b. 27 May, 1747 (died). 5. Ruth, b. 5 Aug., 1748.

ii. Judah, b. 27 March, 1714; m. Nicholas Bolton, of Bridgewater, 23 July, 1748. The vital records of that town have no reference to them but show a Nicholas "Bolten", son of John and Sarah "Bolten", born there, 17 April, 1695.

iii. Thomas, b. 20 Sept., 1717. No further rec.

iv. Nehemiah, b. 1 May, 1719(?). Living in 1760. The published rec. of the First Presby. Ch. at Morristown, N.J., note his mar. to "Lea" Jones, 3 Jany., 1752, but we have no other rec. of him.

"Death — Judah Holloway, wife of Malachy Holloway, Sept. 1718."(?)†

v. Son, b. —— Aug., 1720; d. ae. two months.

vi. Seth, b. 12 Mch., 1722. No further record.

14. vii. Jonathan, b. 24 July, 1724; m. Elizabeth Brown.

viii. Elizabeth, b. 4 May, 1727. According to the Vital Records of Taunton, Mass., "Mrs." Elizabeth Holloway of Berkley m. 8 Jany., 1746, Nokes Leach, of Bridgewater, Mass. The published vital records of that town note the birth of Nokes Leach, son of Benjamin and Hepzibah (Washburn) Leach, 30 March, 1720, but give no list of his children, nor anything further regarding him or his wife. She was living in 1760 when mentioned in her father's will. The work entitled Laurence Leach of Salem, Mass., and Some of His Descendants (1924) mentions Nokes Leach, as above, but not his marriage. The New Jersey Archives note an Oaks Leach of Morris County, administration on whose estate was granted to Abner Leach, 6 March, 1795.

ix. Elkanah, b. 1 July, 1729. See Note following.

x. Samuel, b. 15 Dec., 1732. No further rec.

xi. Benjamin, b. 21 June, 1735. No further rec.

xii. Daniel, b. 31 May, 1737. No further rec.

Besides these from the town records, we have:

*This name appears as "Derby" in an abstract from the Berkley records.

†Mr. Andrews wrote he was at a loss to explain the death of Judah Holloway in September, 1718, in conjunction with the birth of her son, Nehemiah, eight months later as given in the records. It would seem evident this was merely an error in recording. Her death no doubt occurred a year later than set down, or else if it was correctly entered, then the dates of births of both Thomas and Nehemiah would have to be a year earlier than noted—which would not be out of the way at all. If, however, she died in Sept., 1719, then the bereaved husband must have taken his second wife within two months.

15. xiii. Elijah, bapt. 8 June 1740. (From church records of Rev. Samuel Tobey, of Berkley); m. Hannah Smith.

xiv. Malachi (Jr.), named in his father's will. No further rec.

Note. Elkanah Holloway was living in 1762 when, as one of the executors of his father's estate, he signed the inventory made by the appraisers. No record exists showing what became of the property left him nor have we any record of his marriage, or the births or baptisms of any children he may have had.

The ratables of Mendham, N.J., for 1778, now lodged at the State Library in Trenton, show that "Elkany" Holloway, though a householder, owned nothing more than a horse and one head of cattle. His name does not appear in the later ratables of the town.

Either he, an Elkanah, Jr., or a nephew bearing his name, could have been the Elkanah Holloway, of Morris County, who served as a soldier in the New Jersey Line in 1776. (Stryker's New Jersey in the Revolution, pp. 214, 634). No pension nor bounty land was applied for on account of this service, and as the U.S. Census of New Jersey for 1790 is missing, while his name is not to be found in that of any other state for this year, we do not know whether or not he has any descendants.

The same condition exists with his brother, Nehemiah, of whom we have no record whatever after his marriage; and as for Malachi, Jr., we have even less—just the reference to him in his father's will. These three brothers drop out of sight, as completely as the five who failed of mention in that testament. These latter, however, in all probability died young.

Much consideration was given to the possibility that Elkanah[4] Holloway, Malachi's son, may have been the "Elkinah" Holloway of Washington County, Pa., who was taxed there on his cattle and live stock in 1781, and who, as "Olknah" Holloway of the same county, received a land warrant in 1787. (Penn. Archives, Third Series, xxii, 709; xxvi, 567).

Examination made of the Probate records of that county showed that "Elkhannah" Halloway, who died intestate in 1797, leaving a widow and ten children, lived on Ten Mile Creek. While he is not mentioned in Dr. Holloway's Genealogy of the Holloway Families, there can be no doubt but that he was a son of that Isaac Holloway, who according to Dr. Holloway's book, came from England some time after 1751 and settled on Ten Mile Creek in Washington County, Pa.

This Isaac Holloway it is further noted [pp. 295-6] had a son, Isaac, Jr., born in 1774, who named a son Elkanah, born in 1801—evidently in remembrance of the man recently deceased.

We have not been able to find record of Elkanah Holloway or Halloway in the U.S. Census of 1790, but the Jacob Holloway of Washington County, Pa., listed therein as head of a family consisting of a wife, and a boy under ten, was probably "Elkhannah's" son, Jacob, noted in the probate records.

6. Thomas[3] Holloway (Malachi[2]), born probably at Taunton about 1698, died at Pembroke, Mass., 8 April, 1739, in his 41st year, according to the inscription on his gravestone in the cemetery at Pembroke Center. Direct evidence of his connection with Malachi[2] Holloway is missing but as three of the latter's known children lived in Pembroke when Thomas Holloway was there, two of them George and John Holloway leaving the town soon after his death, and as he was not mentioned in the distribution of the property of Malachi's brother, Samuel, and can not be placed elsewhere, we have no hesitancy in listing him as above.

Joshua Barker, appointed administrator on his estate in 1739, disposed of some of the deceased's property in 1741 to pay off various debts, and in the next year the widow, Rebecca Holloway, and Isaac

Tubbs of Pembroke, sold land in that town.

Thomas[3] Holloway married in Pembroke, 14 September, 1725, Rebecca Tubs (or Tubbs). She died there, 25 August, 1746, in her 45th year. (G.S.)

Issue, born at Pembroke:

16. i. Sarah[4], b. 19 June, 1726; m. William Cushman.

7. Hopestill[3] Holloway (Malachi[2]), born either in 1703 or 1704, Taunton, Mass., died at Cornwall, Conn., 10 April, 1784, aged 80, according to the inscription on her gravestone there. She was a witness to a deed passed between her brothers, George and John Holloway, in August, 1729, as already noted in our account of the former.

The town records of Middleboro, Mass., show that Hopestill Holloway married Joshua Peirce of Pembroke, Mass., on 20 November, 1729.

The published Vital Records of Pembroke [p. 160] lists six of their children as follows (surname Peirce):

i. Joshua[4], Jr., b. 8 Nov., 1730. His gravestone states he d. ae. 62. Amy, wife of Capt. Joshua Peirce, d. 13 Apr., 1825, ae. 90 (G.S.).
ii. Elizabeth, b. 25 Jany., 1732/3.
iii. John, b. 18 Nov., 1734.
iv. Sarah, b. 24 Dec., 1736.
v. Seth, b. 28 Oct. 1742.
vi. Priscilla, b. 28 Oct., 1745.

Gold's Historical Records of Cornwall, Conn., [p. 244] states that Joshua Peirce, from Pembroke, Mass., came there in 1748. Besides the three daughters above mentioned, Gold adds two others: Eleanor, who married Solomon Johnson, and Anna, who married Titus Bonney.

According to Gold, Elizabeth Peirce married Amos Johnson, Sarah married Jonathan Chandler, and Priscilla married Perez Bonney. He also states that Joshua Peirce was elected to the Connecticut Assembly ten times.

Starr, in his later History of Cornwall [pp. 346, 414, 416], states that Peirce married Hopestill Holloway about 1730 and that she was sister to George and John Holloway.

Starr goes on to say one of Joshua Peirce's descendants (name not given) was President of Mt. Holyoke College, and that Joshua's son, Capt. Seth, born in Pembroke, Mass., 28 October, 1742—which checks with the vital records of that town—died 28 August, 1833, aged 91. He married Amy Hart and had eight children. One of these, Major Seth Peirce, Jr., died 16 August, 1881, aged 96, the oldest living Yale graduate at the time (Class of 1806). He was unmarried.

Gold says Joshua Peirce died 13 March, 1794, aged 80, while Starr gives his age as 92 and the year as both 1793 and 1794 [pp. 414, 346]. Neither checks with his gravestone inscription, however, which states he died 15 March, 1794, aged 88.

Gold also notes that Peirce had a second wife, a widow Starr from Danbury, and there is a gravestone in the Cornwall Cemetery to Hannah, wife of Lieut. Joshua Pierce (as the name came to be spelled), who died 23 December, 1790, aged 81.

NOTE. General Ebenezer W. Peirce in his unique Peirce Family of the Old Colony, somehow missed this marriage of Joshua Peirce to Hopestill Holloway, but notes there was an Abraham Peirce in Pembroke at an early date.

We are indebted to Mr. Charles R. Hale, State Military Necrologist of Connecticut, for the gravestone inscriptions noted.

AUTHORITIES: Plymouth County, Mass., Probate Records, viii, 44; Deeds, xxxviii, 16; xxxix, 245; Pembroke Vital Records. The gravestone inscriptions are also noted in the Mayflower Descendant, Vol. 10, p. 97.

8. WILLIAM[3] HOLLOWAY (Malachi[2]), born probably at Taunton, Mass., about 1706 or 1707, died there, 7 October, 1778, in his 72nd year. (G.S.) His father removed to Middleboro, Mass., about 1710, and William Holloway made his home in that town for upwards of thirty-seven years.

We have already noted the deeds to the lands in Middleboro made him by his brother, John, in 1731 and 1739, properties he held until 1750 when he sold his holdings to Nathaniel Smith. At that time he was a resident of Taunton, his wife, Sarah, signing the deed with him.[1]

While still a resident of Middleboro, William Holloway was one of several men of that town who objected to paying taxes for the support of the [Congregational] ministry in 1738, "they being Baptists".[2]

On 30 September, 1747, William Holloway, then of Middleboro, bought from Peter Walker, of Taunton—his father-in-law—part of the latter's farm in that township, together with the dwelling house, and outbuildings thereon. The property was bounded on the south by the "Taunton Great river", and on the west by the Three Mile river.[3] After Holloway took possession it became known as the Holloway Place. The house was still standing in 1861, and was then owned by Stephen Pierce. Peter Walker's wife was Sarah Godfrey.[4]

In 1757 William[3] Holloway and his son, William,[4] Jr., were members of the First Foot Company of Taunton, William, Sr., being on its Alarm List, but we have no record of any services they may have rendered in the French and Indian War which was at its peak that year.[5]

The marriage of William[3] Holloway to Sarah Walker, of Taunton, on 12 May, 1737, is given in the vital records of Middleboro, Mass. These also list five children born to them there up to the time they removed to Taunton. Five more are named in his will made four days before his death and probated in the following December.

This document, in which he refers to himself as "joiner", names wife, Sarah; oldest son, William; son, Peter; daughters, Sarah, widow of Cephas Briggs; Elizabeth, wife of Peleg Winslow; Mary, wife of Timothy Tobey; and Hannah, Huldah and Zilpha Holloway.[6]

The marriages of these three youngest daughters are noted in the vital records of Taunton, and are confirmed by a valuable record in the Bristol County Deeds [Vol. 86, p. 11] which not only gives their married names and places of residence, but also states where their two brothers were then living.

Under date of 27 March, 1786, Peter Holloway, David Long and Hannah, his wife; William Long, and Zilpha, his wife; Solomon Hawks, and Huldah, his wife; and Sarah Briggs, widow, all of Shelburne, Mass., sold their inheritances in the will of their father, William Holloway, late of Taunton, deceased, to William Holloway, of Conway, Mass.

Search of the published vital records of Shelburne and Conway was most productive as they not only gave us lists of the children of four of the grantors above mentioned, but showed besides that the two remaining daughters of William[3] Holloway, Elizabeth, wife of Peleg Winslow, and Mary, wife of Timothy Tobey, had also joined their brothers and sisters in the migration from Taunton to western Massachusetts.

Their mother evidently went along with them to make her home in one of their families, for the death of Sarah, wife (or widow) of William Holloway, is recorded on the Shelburne records under date of 11 February, 1799—aged 82.

William Holloway and his son Josiah (2nd) are buried side by side in the old and neglected Walker Cemetery, an out of the way spot at the southern limits of Taunton between the Taunton river and the railroad. Their gravestones are of heavy slate and as the inscriptions on them were not deeply cut some of the wording is well nigh illegible today.

As nearly as could be deciphered during an inspection of these stones on 27 April, 1948, William Holloway's, after the "Memento Mori" and the record of his mortality as above noted, bears a particularly lugubrious inscription reading as follows:

"Man li[eth] down and riseth not Till the Heavens be no more They shall not awake nor be Raised out of their sleep."

Then follows this cheerful reminder:

"My children dear, this place draw near
A father's grave you [see]
Not long ago I was with you
And soon you ['ll] be with me."

No wonder the "children dear" left Taunton!

William[3] and Sarah (Walker) Holloway had issue, first five recorded at Middleboro, others born at Taunton, Mass.:

17. i. William[4], Jr., b. 16 Feby., 1737/8; m. Hannah Williams.
ii. Josiah, b. 9 Nov., 1739; d. 23 Dec. 1739.
iii. George, b. 26 Sept., 1740; d. 10 Oct., 1743.

18. iv. Elizabeth, b. 23 Dec., 1742 m. Peleg Winslow.
v. Sarah, b. 1 Feby., 1744/5; m. Cephas Briggs;* int. ent. 23 Mch., 1771.[7] Briggs was deceased prior to 3 Oct., 1778, and she was still his widow, living at Shelburne, Mass., in 1786, as already noted. It is possible that the Sarah Briggs of the adjoining town of Conway, who m. John Taylor, Jr., of Shelburne, in 1792,[8] may have been dau. of Cephas and Sarah[4] (Holloway) Briggs, although no rec. of their children has been found.
vi. George (2nd), b. about 1746 or '47; d. unm. in Philadelphia, Pa. in 1776. His will, dated 13 Sept., proved 23 Nov. of that year, calls himself "mariner, of Philadelphia, late of Taunton", and names his brothers, William Holloway, farmer, of Taunton, and Peter Holloway, grocer, of "Dyton", together with his sisters, Elizabeth, Sarah, Mary, "Hanna", Huldah and Zilpha.[9]

Judging from the estate he left there may be more than a grain of truth in the statement of two of his brother Peter's grandsons that George Holloway was a privateersman in the Revolutionary War and brought in three prizes.[10]

19. vii. Mary, b. about 1748 or '49; m. Capt. Timothy Tobey.
20. viii. Peter, b. 19 March, 1751; m. Abigail Gooding.
21. ix. Hannah, b. 1752; m. David Long.
22. x. Huldah, b. 1754; m. Solomon Hawks.
xi. Josiah (2nd), b. about 1756 or '57; d. 9 Oct., 1771, in his 15th year.[11] 23. xii. Zilpha, b. 31 Aug., 1759; m. William Long.

*She was probably his second wife, for the records of Berkley, Mass., note the marriage intentions of Cephas Briggs, of Berkley, and Hopestill Allen, of Middleboro, were entered 16 Jany., 1762. He was evidently son of Jonathan and Tabitha (Crane) Briggs, for the will of Jonathan Briggs of Berkley, 16 Oct., 1772, names wife Tabitha and—besides others—a son, Cephas who was to receive land in Dighton "if he returns from sea", and Cephas's three children, Cephas, Allen and Hopestill.—Bristol County, Mass., Probate Records, XXII, 324.

FOURTH GENERATION

This generation saw the final exodus of the Holloways from Taunton. The sons of [3] Nathaniel[3] settled in the adjoining town of Middleboro, those of [8] William[3], in western Massachusetts. One of the latter again removed, this time to Livingston County, New York. Farming continued their chief occupation as it was with most people in those early days.

9. Nathaniel[4] Holloway, Jr. (Nathaniel[3], Samuel[2]), born in Taunton, Mass., probably about the year 1702, was deceased prior to 13 October, 1757, when his widow, Abiah, was appointed administratrix on his estate.[1]

As the oldest son in the family he was given a double share in the division of his father's estate in 1735, receiving the dwelling house and the southernmost part of the homestead farm bordering on the Assonet river in Middleboro.

Nathaniel[4] Holloway, Jr., evidently made his home there the rest of his life. There are some few references to him in the land records of Plymouth County and all these refer to him as of Middleboro.

We have not yet found what became of his homestead or of the lots he purchased with his brother-in-law, Isaac Peirce, 3rd. All we have is the record of his sale in 1746 of a quarter of an acre at the easterly corner of the property where he lived. The purchaser was Joseph Trouant, whose daughter, Rebecca, was the wife of Nathaniel's brother, Samuel Holloway.[2]

Nathaniel[4] Holloway, Jr., married (1), at Middleboro, Mass., 20 June, 1733, Mehitable Bassett of Bridgewater, Mass.[3] Her parentage has not been determined.

Holloway married (2), at Berkley, Mass., 25 May, 1754, (Mrs.) Abiah Babbitt. The town records there say that the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Samuel Tobey. The Babbitt Family History [p. 50] states she was born Abiah Crane, daughter of Gershom and Susannah (Whitmarsh) Crane, and was the widow of Benjamin Babbitt when she married Holloway.

Some years after Holloway's decease she evidently returned to Berkley, for the records there note the marriage of Abiah Holloway to Abiel Atwood of Berkley on 23 September, 1766.(?)* The Babbitt Family History states she also had a fourth husband, Edmond Williams, whom she survived, dying about 1812.

In common with so many others in the Holloway family, Nathaniel[4], Jr., left no will, and had no list of his children entered on the town records. As we have yet to find any deeds by which his heirs disposed of such property as he may have left, we are uncertain if his first wife had any children that survived infancy. There is, of course, the likelihood that the Nathaniel Holloway, of Middleboro, who married Hannah Merry in 1770, may have been one of these, but if such was the case it seems odd he was not appointed administrator on his father's estate unless under age at the time. However, we are crediting him to Nathaniel[4], Jr., as

24. i. Nathaniel5, and carrying him forward.

As to the issue of Nathaniel[4] Holloway, Jr., by his second wife, there is no uncertainty, for she was appointed guardian of Lois and Jodidah, minor daughters of Nathaniel Holloway, on 17 October, 1760.[4]

The records of Berkley, Mass., note the marriages of these two daughters as follows:

ii. Lois, m. 9 April, 1776, Nicholas Webster of Berkley. The U.S. Census of that town, in 1790, shows a Nicholas Webster living there with family consisting of one male under 16, three females, and three other persons besides himself.

He was probably the Nicholas Webster, son of Stephen and Bathsheba Webster, who was born at Berkley, 15 March, 1754. The town records there also note the birth of Bathsheba Webster, daughter of Nicholas and Lois, 11 Feby., 1777.

It would seem this family removed to Greene County, N.Y., for under date of 6 July, 1816, Lois Webster, of Cairo, that County, by her attorney, Alpheus Webster (her son, probably) sold to Isaac Holloway of Middleboro, Mass., one seventh part of one share in the pond ore in the Sixteen Shilling Purchase of Middleboro in the right of John "Sole" [Soule] claimed by Nathaniel Holloway[5].*

The Surrogate records of Greene County, N.Y., have neither will nor administration on the estate of Nicholas Webster or of his wife Lois.

iii. Jodidah (Jedidah), m. 7 Sept., 1773, Nathaniel Briggs of Berkley. They apparently had no ch.—at least none that survived infancy,—for the will of Nathaniel Briggs, mariner, of Dighton, dated 10 Sept., 1785, and proved the following 5 December, gave his wife, Jedidah, $100.00, furniture, and use of property. If she ceased to be his widow, the estate was then to go to Nathaniel Briggs, son of his brother, Jedediah.[6]

She was still his widow three years later, however, when as executrix of her late husband's will she sued and recovered judgment against her brother-in-law, Nicholas Webster.[7] We have no later records regarding her, unless she was the Jedidah Briggs of Dighton whose marriage to John Jones of Providence took place in November, 1789, according to the Dighton vital records.

NOTE: The Babbitt Family History states that Abiah Holloway, widow of Nathaniel Holloway, Jr., had her marriage intentions with Abiel Atwood entered at Berkley, 23 September, 1760. The Berkley records, however, as reported by the Town Clerk, have their intentions as 22 March, 1766, the marriage taking place 23 September, 1766, as above noted.

There seems to be some confusion here, due perhaps to the difficulty often experienced in deciphering old records. However, it is possible the Babbitt History might not be far out of the way for it would be most reasonable for a widow contemplating another marriage (September, 1760) to have herself appointed guardian (October, 1760) of her children by a prior union before consummating another one.

10. NATHAN[4] HOLLOWAY (Nathaniel[3], Samuel[2]), was born at Taunton, and died at Middleboro, Mass., about 1764. Unlike his brothers, Nathan Holloway did not indulge in buying or selling land, contenting himself with the forty-acre farm on the Assonet river in Middleboro which had come from his father's estate, and with the purchase of an additional thirty-four acres from Joseph Paddock in 1746[1].

In his latter years Nathan Holloway became mentally deranged. Early in 1758, on petition of one of his sons and various relatives and friends who stated he had formerly been "non compos mentis and [is] now in the same condition," the selectmen of Middleboro were directed to investigate and make return of their findings to the probate court.

Under date of the following March 7th the selectmen made their report, and as it confirmed the petitioners' statement as to Holloway's condition, the court appointed Nathan Holloway [Jr.] as his father's guardian on that same date. The relationship here is definitely stated in the record. Inventory of the unfortunate man's estate, amounting to £215-16-4, most of which was in realty, was presented on 14 June, following.[2]

Of the thirteen men who signed the petition noted we recognize only four as his relatives—the son, Nathan, Jr.; Malachi Howland, a second cousin; and two brothers of the afflicted man, Samuel and Josiah Holloway. Oddly enough, none of the other children of Nathan Holloway, Sr., appears but it is believed Nathan, Jr., was acting for them.

The records do not show that any administration was taken on this estate, and we do not know just when Holloway died. From an evidence following, his death probably occurred in 1763 or 64.

The Middleboro records state that Nathan Holloway, "of Taunton", married 25 December, 1729, Elizabeth Makepeace, of Middleboro. No list of their children is of record and hence we do not know whether or not they had others besides the four following—order uncertain:

25. i. Nathan[5], Jr.; m. (1) Sarah Booth; (2) Mrs. Sarah Chamberlain.
ii. Nathanael. No rec. after 1766.
iii. Abiel. No rec. after 1766.
iv. Mary. She is prob. the Mary Holloway who married Zebedee Booth at Middleboro, 16 March 1768.[3] The U. S. Census of Middleboro in 1790 lists Zebedee Booth, 2d, with family consisting of three males under 16 and three females.

The names of the last three children above noted are from a deed made in 1764 by Nathan Holloway, of Middleboro, "one of the children and representative of Mr. Nathan Holloway, of Middleboro, late deceased," to his "two brothers, Nathanael and Abiel Holloway, laborers, and sister Mary, single woman, all of Middleboro," of forty acres of land in that town on Assonet river "called Nathan Holloway's Neck Farm." It is of interest to note that Zebedee Booth was one of the witnesses to this deed. The three grantees sold this property to Job Chase, of Taunton, for £153, on 26 December, 1766. No wives signed with these two brothers.[4]

What became of Abiel and Nathanael Holloway is unknown. The only other record we have found regarding them is a minor one—their appearance as joint witnesses to a deed made by Samuel Holloway to their brother, Nathan, 10 October, 1758.[5]

11. Samuel[4] Holloway (Nathaniel[3], Samuel[2]), was born at Taunton, Mass., and died at Middleboro about 1765, as his brother, Josiah, was appointed administrator on his estate on the 29th of April in that year.[1]

The Plymouth County deeds show a number of sales and purchases of land made by Samuel Holloway from 1733 up to a couple of months before his death but only the first of these is of much interest. Under date of 10 December, 1733, he bought from Jacob Perkins of Norwich, Conn., and Jemima, his wife, daughter of Elkanah Leonard, late of Middleboro, deceased, the 56th, 61st, and 67th lots in the third division of the "Sixteen Shilling Purchase" in Middleboro. These lots remained in his possession the rest of his life and were sold by his three children, Samuel, Deliverance, and Rebecca Holloway about a year after his decease—27 March, 1766—to Thomas Peirce for £300.[2]

Samuel[4] Holloway married at Middleboro, 7 July, 1737, Rebecca Trouant (Trewant, Truant), born —— February, 1712/13, Pembroke, Mass., daughter of Joseph and Mercy—or Mary—(Peirce) Trouant. She probably died soon after the birth of her third child for her name does not appear on any deed made by her husband in later years.

Alone among his father's sons and grandsons, Samuel[4] Holloway had his children's births recorded on the Middleboro records, as follows:

i. Deliverance[5], b. 28 Feby., 1737/38.
ii. Samuel, Jr., b. 23 Oct., 1741.
iii. Rebecca, b. 3 Sept., 1744.

That these three completed his family is indicated by their deed above mentioned and is confirmed by the will of their grandfather, Joseph "Truant", of Middleboro. This document, dated in 1761, names his grandchildren, Samuel, Deliverance and Rebecca Holloway, but does not mention their mother.[3]

Of these children, Deliverance was undoubtedly the Deliverance Holloway named in the Middleboro records as the mother of "Abial Chais," who was born there, 7 September, 1755. In all likelihood he was the Abiel Chase who married Hannah[5], daughter of [12] Josiah[4] Holloway in 1777.

Deliverance Holloway bought land from her brother, Samuel, in 1768. She was still unmarried in 1776, when she joined with Samuel in selling some property in Middleboro.[4] We have no later record regarding her. It is quite likely she kept house for her brother who seems to have remained unmarried.

This Samuel[5] Holloway (Jr.) was a member of Middleboro's Fourth Militia Co. in 1759. His name appears in the land records of Plymouth County as both Holloway and "Holwell", the two different spellings sometimes appearing in the same deed. In the one he made with his sister in 1776, their names are given as "Holwell" in the body of the deed but are written "Holloway" in the acknowledgment.

This acknowledgment was made at Berkley and it is likely Samuel[5] (Jr.) lived there for quite a number of years. He was a resident of the town in 1797 when he recovered judgment against the estate of Job Chase, of Middleboro, for debt, and was there a year later when he sold two tracts of land awarded to him as the result of his suit.[5]

He was again of Middleboro in 1801 when he sold some Freetown acreage which he had bought three years earlier,[6] and was perhaps the Samuel Holloway, laborer, who in 1812 sold to John Allen and Isaac Holloway, gentlemen, of Middleboro, all his interest in the pond ore in the "Sixteen Shilling Purchase" of Middleboro in the right of John "Sole" claimed by Nathaniel Holloway. He acknowledged this deed the following day. In the margin of the page where it is recorded, there is a notation reading "Voted to admit Isaac Hollowell all that may be found by these deeds."[7]

No record has been found showing that Samuel Holloway, Jr., ever married, and as no wife's signature appears on any of the deeds he made, it seems quite certain he remained a bachelor all his life.

Of his younger sister, Rebecca, inasmuch as we have no record of any other Rebecca Holloway living in Middleboro at this time, and because she does not participate with her brother and sister in any further real estate dealings after 27 March, 1766, we are very sure she was the one so named who married Nathaniel Jackson there on the following 13th of April.

The probate records of Plymouth County have neither will nor administration of estate of this Nathaniel Jackson. A Rebecca Jackson was listed as the head of a family consisting of three males under sixteen and two females besides herself in the U.S. Census of Middleboro in 1790, but their names have not been found. Up to the present time the only known great-grandchildren of Samuel[4] Holloway are those through his daughter Deliverance, as will be noted under our account of his brother Josiah's daughter, Hannah Holloway, wife of Abiel Chase, already mentioned.

12. Josiah[4] Holloway (Nathaniel[3], Samuel[2]), his father's youngest son, was born at Taunton, Mass., about the year 1713 or 1714, for he was old enough to sign the agreement for the division of his father's property in 1735. Under the arrangement then made he received five parcels of land in Middleboro, only one of which was an entire lot, about twenty-nine acres, while the others were quarters or fifths. He also received six acres in Taunton which were laid out to him in 1752 "by virtue of a grant made to Nathaniel Holloway" in 1713.[1]

Josiah[4] Holloway made his home in Middleboro, and the records of Plymouth County show him to have been the most active of his father's sons in the purchase and sale of land. A number of these deeds give his occupation as "joiner," a trade in which some of his descendants have been engaged until recent years. Two of these original deeds, bearing dates in 1759 and 1760, are now in the possession of his descendant, Mr. John W. Holloway, of Pleasantville, N.Y.

Josiah[4] Holloway married at Middleboro, Mass., 29 November, 1739, Hannah Parris, born there 11 October, 1722, daughter of John and Abigail (Bearse) Parris. She died at Middleboro, 30 October, 1795.[2] The Tilson Genealogy gives her date of birth as 1 Oct., 1722, states that her husband was "Joseph Holleway," and notes that her great-grandfather, Rev. John Parris, of Ugborough, England, was brother to the unfortunate minister, Samuel Parris, of Salem Village, in whose household the witchcraft delusion of 1692 had its fatal beginning.

On 18 June, 1744, Josiah Holloway and Hannah, his wife, "in consideration of what we had received of our Honored Father, John Parris, late of Middleboro, deceased, in his lifetime, and monies in hand," deeded real and personal property "to our Brother, John Parris."[3]

The date of Josiah[4] Holloway's death is not of record, but it occurred prior to 1791 when his wife referred to herself as his widow. He left no will and no administration of his estate was taken. The deeds of land he gave his sons, John and Josiah, Jr., in 1780, seemingly disposed of all the property he then had left, for in the former he reserved to himself and his "present wife," Hannah, the use thereof during their lifetime.[4] The expression he used in referring to his wife at that time is rather unusual, there being no indication in the records that he ever had had any wife other than Hannah Parris.

The Middleboro vital records do not list the children of Josiah[4] and Hannah (Parris) Holloway but the Plymouth County deeds give us the names of four who seemingly made up the family, or at least outlived their father. These were as follows (order uncertain):

26. i. Josiah[5], Jr., m. (1), Experience Mirick; (2), Mrs. Elizabeth Mirick.

ii. John, d. at Middleboro, 21 Dec., 1784. John Allen, prob. his brother-in-law, was apptd. admr. on his est., 6 June, 1785.[5] Hurd's History of Plymouth County, Mass., in the section dealing with Lakeville [p. 308] states that John Holloway was one of Capt. Wood's Co. of Minute Men who marched on the Lexington Alarm in April, 1775; also [p. 1004] that he was a member of the Fourth Co. of Middleboro militia who served on the second Rhode Island alarm in August, 1780. His name appears in a roll of this Middleboro Co.—Capt. Henry Peirce's—which was sworn to there in that year.[6]

In April, 1791, his mother, then a widow, deeded to her son, Josiah Holloway [Jr.], all her interest in the property her late husband, Josiah Holloway, of Middleboro, deceased, had given John in 1780. The deed states that part of this property had been assigned to her by the Probate court, but this order does not appear in the probate records.[7] It would seem evident from the foregoing that this John Holloway had d. unm.

iii. Hannah, m. Abial Chase,* at Middleboro, 21 Jany., 1777.[8] On 10 Sept., 1792, Abial Chase and Hannah, his wife, of Brookfield, Mass., sold to their brother, Josiah Holloway, of Middleboro, all their interest in the estates of their father, Josiah Holloway, and of their brother, John Holloway, of Middleboro, dec'd.[9] The will of Abial "Chace" of North Brookfield, Mass., in 1821, names sons James, Simon and George; daus. Betty Waite, Judith Johnson, Abigail Somers, Anna "Chace" and a Lucy.[10]

iv. Abiah, m. John Allen, at Middleboro, 1 July, 1781.[11] On 24 Oct. 1795, John Allen and Abiah, his wife, as heirs of their brother, John Holloway, made their acknowledgements at Plymouth, Mass., of an undated deed they had given Josiah Holloway [Jr.].[12] The Middleboro records list only two ch. of John and Abiah (Holloway) Allen, viz., John [Jr.] b. 22 Mch., 1791, and Clothier, b. 7 Nov. 1796. In addition to these, however, there were also five daughters as shown by the will of John Allen, of Middleboro (1842). This document besides mentioning wife Abiah, and sons John and "Clother," also names daughters Abigail Baker, Chloe Edminster, Betsey "Paris," Polly Pierce, and Hannah Dean, who was then dec'd.[13]

13. Margaret[4] Holloway (Nathaniel[3], Samuel[2]), married about 1710, Benjamin Terry, born 1685, son of Thomas and Anna (Rogers) Terry, of Freetown, Mass.

*Probably the son born to her cousin, Deliverance[5] Holloway, 7 Sept., 1755, as already noted in our account of [11] Samuel[4] Holloway.

The son Benjamin (Jr.) m. 15 Dec., 1741, Joanna Pope.

14. JONATHAN[4] HOLLOWAY (Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born at Berkley, Mass., 24 July, 1724, and died at Bridgewater, Mass., 23 January, 1771—"Killed by a fall from his horse," according to the records of mortality kept there by Rev. Isaac Backus and included in the published vital records of the town.

While the will of Malachi[3] Holloway (1760) does not give the residence of his son, Jonathan, in naming him in that testament, there can be no doubt he was the Jonathan Holloway whose name appears in the Bridgewater records. It should be remembered that two of Malachi Holloway's daughters married Bridgewater men and that one of these marriages occurred only seven months before Jonathan took a wife there. Furthermore we have record of no other Jonathan Holloway who could have contracted such a marriage.

The Plymouth County deeds [Vol. 54, p. 134] show that Jonathan Holloway owned a house there in 1768, but how or when he acquired it does not appear. The probate records of the county have neither his will nor any administration on his estate, but the published vital records of Bridgewater note his marriage to Elizabeth Brown, 29 August, 1746. They also give her date of death as 8 June, 1783, and list the following children born to her and Jonathan Holloway:

27. i. William[5], b. 18 June, 1747; m. Molly Trask.
ii. Phebe, b. 4 Feby., 1750; d. 21 April, 1750.
iii. Seth, b. 20 Aug., 1751. He was evidently the Seth "Hollowell" whose death on 30 Dec., 1772, was entered in the records kept by Rev. Isaac Backus, as above noted. It is significant that a few months later his brother William's first-born son was named Seth.
iv. Jonathan (Jr.), b. 8 April, 1756, was undoubtedly the Jonathan Holloway of Bridgewater, whose Revolutionary War services appear in Vols. 7 and 8 of the published records of the Mass. soldiers who took part in that conflict. Under the names of Holloway, Halloway, Holoway, and Hollowell, we find him variously credited with twenty-four days' service in Capt. James Keith's Co., Col. Sargent's Regt. in July and August, 1775, then as a member of that company enlisted by the town of Bridgewater for the Continental army—4th Co., Col. G. Bradford's Regt.—to serve three years. His name appears on pay rolls of that company in 1777, also in a return made in Feby. 1778. He was reported killed, but without date.

Following this report in the account given about him in

Vol. 8 [p. 185] it is stated he was refused by the Continental muster master and discharged. I believe this latter reference should have applied to Jonathan Hallowell of Scituate who was among those raised for the Continental service—year not stated. He could well have been refused on account of extreme youth, for in 1775 Jonathan Hollowell of Scituate was a fifer and drummer in Col. Bailey's Regt.

v. Child, d. 19 Dec., 1761.—No age stated. (Backus).

15. Elijah[4] Holloway (Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was baptized at Berkley, Mass., 8 June, 1740, and died at Mendham, N.J., late in 1778 or early in 1779.

Of his life in New Jersey we have but little record. It is presumable that he lived on the farm he fell heir to by his father's will of which he was a co-executor in 1762. What became of this property subsequently is unknown, as no deeds definitely relating to it have been found. The only reference to him in Miss Helen M. Wright's Mendham and Neighboring Towns is in 1762 when he had the earmark of his cattle registered.

Elijah Holloway's name does not appear in the Mendham ratables of 1778—now preserved in the State Library at Trenton—which list the inhabitants of the town who had taxable property. Possibly he was deceased at the time the assessor went his rounds but if such was the case it seems odd his widow's name does not appear either. For he must have left some estate, inasmuch as the widow, Hannah, was appointed administratrix thereof on 8 April, 1779. Daniel Smith went surety on her bond but no account appears. (Probate records, Secretary of State's Office, Trenton, N.J., Book 22, p. 24.)

This Daniel Smith was probably her brother, for the published records of the First Presbyterian Church of Morristown, N.J., [Part 2, p. 108] note the marriage of Elijah Holloway and Hannah Smith, 16 January, 1760. She was no doubt the daughter of Daniel and Hannah Smith for these church records also note the death of Hannah, widow of Daniel Smith, in 1773. They also record the death of Hannah Holloway, widow, aged 42, on 20 May, 1782.

No list of Elijah[4] Holloway's children has come to light, but from such evidences as we have we can set them down as follows—order uncertain, and not known if complete—born at Mendham, N.J.:

28. i. Benjamin[5], b. 20 Apr., 1761; m. Elizabeth Evaul.
ii. Daniel(?). A Daniel Holloway was called for service in the Indian War of 1791. (New Jersey Adj. General's Office——Records of Officers and Men of New Jersey).
29. iii. Elijah (Jr.), b. 15 May, 1764; m. Elizabeth Gamble.
30. iv. Jacob, b. 1770(?) [m. Hannah Cory?].
v. Child, d. 15 Jany., 1775.
vi. Child, d. —— Feby., 1776.

The last two items above are from William Cherry's Bill of Mortality . . . of Morristown, N.J. (1806) [pp. 19, 22]. Neither the name nor the age of either child is given although its parentage is stated. The same compilation, while failing to record the death of Elijah Holloway, notes that of his widow who died of a "fever" on the date already mentioned. (p. 50).

Of Benjamin Holloway's inclusion in this family there can be no question for it is definitely stated in his family Bible that he was the "son of Elijah and Hannah Holloway, deceased."

That Elijah[4] Holloway passed his name along to another son seems equally positive, for in the latter's Good Book, although he does not state his parentage as Benjamin[5] did, nor call himself Elijah, Jr., he does make note that he was born in Mendham, N.J. And we have never found anything at all to indicate that the brothers of Elijah[4] Holloway, Sr., Nehemiah and Elkanah Holloway, ever had families.

As to Jacob Holloway, an item in the town records of Mendham, N.J., shows him living there in 1798 but whether or not he is the unidentified Jacob Holloway noted in a genealogy of the Holloway family of Burlington County, N.J., we could not say. This man, said to have been born in 1770—which would fit him in very well as a son of Elijah[4]—married Hannah Cory, of Elizabethtown, N.J. They were the parents of ten children, and we are carrying their family forward on the great likelihood that this Jacob Holloway was Elijah's son.

NOTE: While there were three other Holloways living at this time in Morristown, the settlement adjoining Mendham, viz. Reuben, John and Levi, a check-up of the probate and land records of Morris County eliminates them from consideration as members of Elijah[4] Holloway's family, they being at least as old as he.

John Holloway's will (1781) names wife and four daughters only. Reuben had a son Cornelius who was drowned in 1775 aged 16, according to Cherry, and a son Joseph, to whom he sold land in 1789, and whose last appearance in the Morris County land records is in 1815. Levi Holloway died intestate in 1781 leaving a minor son, Rodman.

16. SARAH[4] HOLLOWAY (Thomas[3], Malachi[2]), only known child of Thomas[3] and Rebecca (Tubs) Holloway, was born at Pembroke, Mass., 19 June, 1726, and was baptized there, 8 August, 1739.

That she was the Sarah Holloway whose marriage to William Cushman on 3 September, 1747, appears in the published vital records of Plympton, Mass., there can be no reasonable doubt. We have no other Sarah Holloway in Plymouth County who was unmarried at this time, and the fact that she named two of her children Thomas and Rebecca identifies her very well. Record of her death has not been found.

These Plympton records show that William Cushman was born there 26 February, 1723/24, son of Lieut. Josiah and Susanna (Shurtleff) Cushman. An interpolation by an old town clerk, genealogically minded, states that William Cushman removed to Connecticut, married a second wife and had several more children.

This entry is confirmed by the Genealogy of the Cushmans published in 1855, which notes that this William Cushman's second wife was Ruth Robinson, by whom he had four children, born from 1776 to 1784—at least three of them in Brooklyn, Conn.

The Plympton records credit William and Sarah[4] (Holloway) Cushman with seven children as follows:

i. William[5] (Jr.), b. 3 Mch., 1748.
ii. Abigail, b. 28 Feby., 1751.
iii. Thomas, b. 5 Jany., 1753.
iv. Daniel, b. 28 June, 1755.
v. Ezra, b. 29 Nov., 1759.
vi. Rebecca, b. ——————
vii. Susanna, b. ——————

The Cushman genealogy noted [pp. 139, 176], gives the same record, adds that the Cushman-Holloway marriage was performed by Rev. Jonathan Parker, and that the daughters Rebecca and Susanna were born in 1764 and 1766 respectively. No other facts are given about this family except in the case of William[5], Jr., who it is stated, married Mary Weaver, had seven children by her, and settled in Castleton, Vt., before 1800. Three of their sons were doctors.

Through some oversight the name of Sarah Holloway failed to be included in the index to this Cushman genealogy.

17. William[4] Holloway, Jr. (William[3], Malachi[2]), was born at Middleboro, Mass., 16 February, 1737/8,[1] and died of apoplexy at Conway, Mass., 21 January, 1815.[2]

When he was about nine years of age his parents removed from Middleboro to Taunton, Bristol County, Mass., and he continued making that town his home until his own removal to Conway in 1786.

Upon the outbreak of the French and Indian War in 1757, both the junior Holloway and his father were enrolled in Taunton's First Foot Company, the younger man serving in its Training Band.[3] Whether or not he was engaged in any campaign during that long conflict does not appear.

That he was definitely on active service during the Revolutionary War, however, is shown by the published records of the soldiers and sailors of Massachusetts who took part therein, either as members of the Continental army, or as militia men hurriedly sent out on brief campaigns to repel real or threatened invasions at some coastal point.

These records list the name of William Holloway for services rendered in 1775, 1778 and 1780, but without mentioning his residence. As the 1778 reference calls him William Holloway, Jr., while that of 1780 places him in a regiment belonging to Bristol County, there is no chance to confuse him here with his kinsman [27] William[5] Holloway, of Bridgewater, Plymouth County, who served five years in the Continental army.

While that good soldier was at Providence, R.I., in the summer of 1778, there again can be no question of the identity of the William "Holoway" who was among the soldiers called upon to march to Providence, R.I., on 22 June, 1778, and to serve for twenty days under command of Capt. Snow, inasmuch as the military record of Capt. Nathaniel Snow at this time states that his company marched from Taunton and Raynham and served at Providence in Col. Wade's regiment under Gen. Sullivan.

His other service that year, the one in which his name appears as William Holloway, Jr., was a three months' stretch from 1 January, 1778, to the following 1st of April. The records show he was one of the company of drafted men commanded by Capt. Samuel Fales of Taunton, who were stationed at Slade's Ferry during this period—a danger point to guard, across from the northern end of the island of Rhode Island, with the British in force at Newport only some dozen miles to the South.

During Holloway's earlier years in Taunton he had taken to the sea as a means of livelihood and in time become a master mariner in common with his brothers-in-law, Peleg Winslow and Timothy Tobey. The first reference to this appears in 1763, when he is called "mariner" in the deed which made him owner, by purchase, of eighteen acres of his father's farm.[4] While in later years, after his retirement from the sea, he referred to himself as "yeoman" when he sold his Taunton property,[5] yet the title "Captain" acquired as a ship master followed him the rest of his life, was given him in the census of 1790, and is inscribed upon his gravestone in the North Shirkshire cemetery at Conway.*

It is of interest to note that the property Capt. Holloway sold in April, 1786, included three acres of land with a dwelling thereon which his father had given him shortly before his marriage.[4] As the deed of gift refers to the older Holloway as a "joiner" and to the house as a new one, it is likely the father had built it himself.

As noted in our account of the latter, Capt. Holloway was described as "of Conway" when he bought out the interests of his brother and sisters in their father's estate on 27 March, 1786.[6] Yet when he sold this property, besides his own, in the following month he called himself "of Taunton." And he was called "William Holloway, gentleman, of Taunton" when he bought sixty acres of land in Conway from Calvin Ransom in May that same year. His brother Peter, who was already living in the adjacent town of Shelburne was a witness to this deed.[7]

It is not possible to determine from these records whether to regard Capt. Holloway as an actual resident of Conway in March, 1786, or not until the following May after he had disposed of his properties in Dighton and Taunton. However, it is accurate enough to state he settled in Conway in the Spring of that year, and in all likelihood spent the rest of his life on the farm he had purchased there. Eigh-

*This seems to be an old New England custom, half the ancient men folks on Cape Cod and along the Maine Coast fifty years ago still being saluted by the hard won title they had earned in their sea-faring days.

teen years later when he sold this to his son Josiah, his wife Hannah joined with him in passing the title.[8]*

William[4] Holloway, Jr., married at Taunton, Mass., 22 November, 1764, Hannah Williams, born in Dighton, Mass., 16 June, 1737, daughter of Gershom and Abigail (Waldron) Williams.[9] She died 6 August, 1814.[10]

Unlike his father, William[4] Holloway, Jr., left no will, and full record of his children has not been found. The U.S. census of Conway, Mass., in 1790 credits him with a family, which besides himself and wife consisted of one male over 16, two under that age, and one female. As this census was not taken until late that year it would not include the daughter, Hannah, who had been married in February.

The Conway census of 1800 lists William Holloway, aged over 45, with family consisting of one female of like age, a male and a female each between 16 and 26, and one male under 5—evidently his wife, his son Josiah, and the latter's wife and son—the boy William, who was born in 1798. We do not find William[4] Holloway (Jr.) listed in the Conway census of 1810.

From such evidences as we have, William[4] and Hannah (Williams) Holloway, Jr., had issue, born at Taunton, Mass. (order uncertain and perhaps incomplete):

i. Hannah,[5] b. 7 Feby., 1771. The Conway records note the marriage of Hannah Holloway, of Conway, to Pardon Haynes, of Rowe, 3 Feby., 1790. The U.S. census of Rowe, Mass., taken that year, lists Dr. Pardon Haynes with family consisting of one male under 16 and one female. His will, in the probate records of Franklin County, Mass., dated in 1833, names sons, Pardon, William, Anson T., and daus. Hannah Haynes, Electa (Gould), Diana Haynes, and Adaline, then dec'd. No wife was mentioned.

ii. Betsey(?), m. Archlaus Dean? See Note 1 following.

31. iii. Josiah, b. 27 Sept., 1774; m. Lydia Sherman.

iv. George, b. 5 May, 1777; d. at Conway, 8-or-10 Mch., 1824. His gravestone in the North Shirkshire cemetery there names him as Dr. George Holloway.[11] We have no rec. of his mar., if there ever was one, nor is there any gravestone in this cemetery to a wife of Dr. George Holloway. The chances are he died unm. He left no will and there is no adm. of his est.

v. Son? b. bet. 1776 and 1788? See Note 2 following.

Note 1. That William[4] Holloway (Jr.) may have had another daughter besides Hannah is suggested by the 1790 census as above noted. However in an old account book in the possession of Mr. Josiah[9] Holloway of New York City, a descendant of William[4] Holloway (Jr.), there is included, besides the family record of this William's son [31] Josiah[5] Holloway, a separate entry which gives the dates when William[4] Holloway and his wife were born and when they married. Further on it is noted:

*The originals of these two Conway deeds are now in the possession of Capt. Holloway's descendant, Mr. Josiah[9] Holloway, of New York City. Through his courtesy we were enabled to get photostats of the autograph signatures of William and Peter Holloway which appear on these documents, and are reproduced herein.

"Hannah Holloway, born February 7, 1771.
George Holloway, born May 5, 1777.
Hannah Holloway, died August 6, 1814."

We have taken this latter record to refer to the mother and not the daughter, who was Mrs. Hannah Haynes at that time. It will be noted these entries make no mention of any other daughter or son born to William and Hannah (Williams) Holloway.

Nevertheless, the Taunton records note the marriage of Betsey Holloway and "Archlaus" Dean, "both of Taunton," 12 May, 1791. Possibly in her case the record should have read "formerly of Taunton," for we cannot place this Betsey Holloway elsewhere. No record of their family has been found but we think the Ruth G. Dean, of Conway, who m. Solyman Farnum of that town in 1823 was their daughter.

It should be noted here that while the published records of Conway in giving her date of marriage on 12 Oct., 1823, to "Lyman" Farnum (or Farnham) called her "of Taunton," those of that city call her "of Conway," when entering her intentions of marriage with Solyman Farnham of Conway, 6 Sept., 1823. He was born there 7 June, 1795. Solyman Farnham was a brother to Zelinda Farnham, the second wife of [33] Dr. William[5] Holloway, nephew of [17] William[4] Holloway, Jr.

Archelaus Dean, a veteran of the Revolutionary War, was pensioned in 1832, at which time he was living in Marlboro, Vt. His application stated he was born at Taunton, Mass., 21 October, 1761, and that he removed to Woodstock, Conn., about 1781, and later to various towns in Vermont, settling in Marlboro in 1803. No family data were mentioned in his application.[12] In 1840 he was living in Readsboro, Vt., aged 78, in the family of A. Dean.[13] He died in Marlboro in 1849, aged 87.[14] The name Archelaus Dean is so unusual that we feel very confident this is the same man of that name who married Betsey Holloway. Record of their family, if any, has not been obtained.

Note 2. The 1790 Census shows an extra male in Capt. Holloway's family but whether this was a son of his or not, is still undetermined. Letter from the National Archives, Washington, states the Asst. Marshall attested, on 30 October, 1790, to the enumeration at Conway; hence if the count had been made there after the 27th of Septembr, [31] Josiah[5] Holloway would account for the male listed as over 16, and his brother George as one of the two under that age.

No such boy is mentioned in the brief family record referred to in Note 1, and no public record has ever been found to indicate Capt. William[4] Holloway had any son who grew to maturity besides Josiah and George. The Dr. William Holloway of Conway from 1812 to 1817 turned out to have been the son of Capt. Holloway's brother [20] Peter[4] Holloway. All things considered we believe if the Captain did have another son besides the two noted, it must have died young.

18. Elizabeth[4] Holloway (William[3], Malachi[2]), born at Middleboro, Mass., 23 December, 1742, died at Shelburne, Mass., 12 March, 1807, "aged 64." She married at Taunton, Mass., 11 January, 1767, Peleg Winslow, son of Joseph and Martha (Cook) Winslow, born at Swansea or Dighton, Mass., 13 December, 1743, died at Putney, Vermont, 19 August, 1800.

Peleg Winslow was a ship carpenter who rose to command several vessels, making a number of voyages to China. Upon his retirement from the sea, he removed to Putney, Vermont, prior to 1790. The U.S. Census of Putney taken in that year credits him with a family consisting of one male over 16, two under that age, and one female besides himself and wife.

Issue (Winslow), first two born at Taunton or Dighton:

i. Elizabeth [5], m. Simeon Johnson, and had five ch.

ii. Peleg, Jr., b. 11 Nov., 1769; d. 27 Jany., 1805; m. Rhoda Dutton. Five ch.

iii. William, b. in Putney, Vt., d. there unm. ae. 50 or 60 years.

iv. George, b. 11 Jany., 1783, d. at Big Rock, Ill., 2 Nov., 1848. He m. (1), in Sept., 1808, Hannah[5] Long, a first cousin, dau. of Elder David and [21] Hannah[4] (Holloway) Long. He m. (2), 3 Jany., 1813, Olive Long, a cousin of his first wife, and (3), 1 May, 1822, Harriet Severance. George Winslow was a physician, practising at Colerain and Charlemont, Mass., and at Big Rock, Ill., to which town he had removed in 1846. He had two children by his first wife, six by his second, and eight by his third.

Authorities: Vital records of Middleboro, Taunton, and Shelburne, Mass.; The Winslow Memorial, Vol. 2, p. 787–802, which lists many of their descendants.

19. Mary[4] Holloway (William[3], Malachi[2]), born at Taunton, Mass., about 1748 or 1749, died at Conway, Mass., 15 March, 1835, aged 86. Her intentions of marriage with Capt. Timothy Tobey of Berkley, Mass., were entered there, 9 October, 1773. Capt. Tobey died at Conway, 17 January, 1812, aged 67. Both he and his wife are buried in the North Shirkshire cemetery at Conway, where her brother, William[4] Holloway, and several members of his family are also interred.

Tobey was evidently a master mariner in his younger days as indicated by the above. The record of his death refers to him as Capt. Timothy Tobey and he is also called Captain in the listing of his family given in the U.S. Census of 1790 for Conway.

This record credits him with four males under 16, and three females, besides himself and wife. He left no will that was recorded, and as neither the records of Berkley nor of Conway, nor Dighton, make any reference to his children, we have the names of but three: the son, Timothy[5] Tobey, Jr., who was drowned at Conway, 23 July, 1800, aged 25 years—evidently the first born—and two others named in the Tobey Genealogy (1905).

One of these, Silas[5] (Tobey), is said to have removed to Caledonia, and then to Oakfield, N.Y. He was living in 1843.

Of the other son, Samuel, nothing is known.

The Berkley records note the birth of Timothy Tobey, son of Samuel and Bathsheba, on 25 September, 1745, while the Genealogy cited states Samuel Tobey was the first minister in that town and that his wife was born Bathsheba Crocker.

20. Peter[4] Holloway (William[3], Malachi[2]), evidently named from his mother's father, Peter Walker, was born at Taunton, Mass., 19 March, 1751, and died at York, Livingston County, N.Y., 11 March, 1832. This latter date appears on his gravestone there in the Forks Cemetery where both Peter[4] Holloway and his wife are buried.

The will of his brother, George[4] Holloway, as already noted, which was dated in September, 1776, referred to him as a grocer in "Dyton", Mass., but when he sold his property there in June, 1786, he called himself a husbandman. A tradition amongst his descendants, noted in Waggoner's History of Toledo and Lucas County, Ohio [p. 876], says that Peter Holloway invented a machine for cutting and heading nails and was engaged in that business before and during part of the Revolutionary War.

The published records of the soldiers and sailors of Massachusetts who were engaged in that struggle, either as members of the Continental army or as militiamen called out on occasions for active duty, show that Peter[4] "Hollaway" served as a sergeant in Lieut. Abiel Whitmarsh's company, Col. Thomas Carpenter's regiment, in July, 1780, on an alarm at Rhode Island, and that in the following month he rendered like service for eight days as a private in Capt. Henry Tew's company of Col. John Hathaway's regiment.

The records show these company officers belonged respectively to Taunton and to Berkley, the former town adjoining Dighton on the north while Berkley lies just across the Taunton river from Dighton—good enough clues to establish this Peter Holloway's identity, his place of residence not being given in the published records noted.

Peter[4] Holloway was already of Shelburne, Mass., in March, 1786, when he disposed of his interest in his father's estate; and he continued living in that town until at least November, 1814, when he sold his property there to Eli Taft, his wife, Abigail, joining with him in passing the title.

His sons, Peter, Jr., and George Holloway, had already settled in western New York and it is quite likely their father with the rest of his family, except William, who was to rejoin them a few years later, removed to that part of the Empire State not long after selling his farm in Shelburne.

It is not until 1823, however, that we find record of Peter Holloway as a grantee in Livingston county when in July that year he bought from William Willink some land in the 40,000 acre tract. This he sold to John Holloway two years later, no wife joining with him in signing the deed.

The records of Dighton, Mass., note the marriage intentions of Peter Holloway and Abigail Gooding, both of Dighton, were entered there, 17 February, 1775, while the published vital records of Taunton state their marriage took place in Dighton the following 4th of May, and note she was the daughter of George Gooding. Virkus's Compendium [Vol. 7, pp. 294-5] says that George Gooding's wife was Sarah Reed.

Abigail (Gooding) Holloway's gravestone which stands beside her husband's in the Forks Cemetery at York, N.Y., states she died 1 February, 1844, aged "86 yrs., 1 month, 5 ds", which would set her date of birth as 27 December, 1757.

The two lines on this memorial below the one giving her age are no longer decipherable but are probably in the nature of an epitaph such as appears on her husband's gravestone. His was evidently inscribed by some stonecutter not well versed in either spelling or grammar for it reads as follows, the italics being ours:

"Go Home, dear friends, wipe of your tears, Here I must lay, 'til Christ appears."

The first three children of Peter[4] and Abigail (Gooding) Holloway were born undoubtedly at Dighton, Mass., but their names and dates of births together with those of the seven others born in Shelburne are given on the vital records there as follows:

32. i. Peter[5] (Jr.), b. 21 May, 1778; m. (Abbie) Sophia Seymour.
33. ii. William, b. 17 July, 1781; m. three times.
34. iii. George, b. 29 June, 1784; m. Elizabeth Parrott.
35. iv. Cyrus, b. 29 Dec., 1786; m. Pamela Tobey.
v. Abigail, b. 23 Feby., 1788; m. Nathan Russ. See Note 2.
36. vi. Gooding, b. 17 April, 1792; m. Maria ——————.
vii. Sarah, b. 8 Sept., 1794; m. (1), —————— Rockwood; (2), Daniel Hobart. See Note 2.
37. viii. John, b. 28 Aug., 1796; m. Lucy E. ——————.
ix. Elizabeth, b. 29 Aug., 1798; m. Dr. John M. Harrington. See Note 2.
x. Lewis, b. 28 Feby., 1801; d. at York, N.Y., 6 Sept., 1831 (G.S.). No rec. of his mar. Believed to have d. single.

NOTE 1. Waggoner's History of Toledo and Lucas County, Ohio, already mentioned, in its write up of Peter[4] Holloway's grandson, Charles B.[6] Holloway, has some little account of his forebears, evidently based on information given by the subject of the article as well as by his older brother, Peter[6] Holloway, 3rd.

While we have borrowed from the "History" in giving our sketch of the father of these men, Peter[5] Holloway, Jr., feeling confident that the statements made about him by his sons should be correct, they did not do so well with those regarding their grandfather, Peter[4] Holloway, Sr., while back of him they run into the shadowy land of tradition where facts become distorted, and memories confused in the long lapse of years.

Here then as usual, we meet once more those spectral shapes that haunt the ancestral halls of most of our colonial families, those old familiar and generally mythical "three brothers who came from England"—in this case from Somersetshire from which they "emigrated in 1666".

Now while there may be something in this tradition as far as concerns the county in England from which the Holloways came, in view of what has already been noted in our account of William[1], the date given for their departure is much too late, and besides it is likely that all but the three youngest of William Holloway's eight sons came with him when he emigrated.

However, the "History" goes on to say that the three Holloway brothers (of tradition) were shipbuilders, and that subsequently "one settled in Charleston, S.C., one in Philadelphia, Pa., while Michael, the ancestor of the northern branch of the Holloways, remained in Boston".

Next we are told, "Peter Holloway, the first, a descendant of Michael of the third generation, was born in Dighton, Mass., March 19, 1752, removed to Taunton, Mass., about 1782, and from Taunton to York, Livingston County, N.Y., about 1815".

The account then mentions his invention of a nail making machine which we have already noted, and then goes on to state, "It is said he was not in sympathy with the Puritan fathers, and refused to pay the minister's tax in the Established Church of the Colony of Massachusetts Bay, whereupon they sued him and he allowed his family Bible to be sold for the tax. He had two brothers, George, Captain of a privateer in the Colonial service, and William, Captain of a merchant vessel".

Aside from the latter statement the above account is an excellent illustration of how far family traditions can stray from fact. Peter[4] Holloway's father was living in Taunton, Mass. in 1757, although close to the Dighton line, and presumably the son was born in Taunton. He did live in Dighton for several years after his marriage, and then removed to Shelburne, Mass., where he lived for some twenty-eight years before settling in York, N.Y. It was his father, William[3] Holloway, and not he, who objected to paying taxes for the support of the ministry in the Congregational Church, and his ancestor was Malachi, not "Michael" Holloway (pretty close at that), nor was Malachi a shipbuilder, coming from England with two brothers in 1666.

Note 2. Peter[4] Holloway's grandson, Peter[6] Holloway, 3rd, who lived to a great age, gave much valuable information about his father's brothers and sisters to his grandson, the late George Clayton Dill, who made note of it at the time. We found in these data regarding the children of Peter[4] Holloway that it was stated his sons William and Cyrus had married sisters, that William was a doctor who had settled somewhere in Michigan, that George went to Marion, Ohio, Gooding to Miamisburg, and John to Wisconsin, all of which we have verified.

For that reason we feel equal confidence in his statements regarding the marriages of Peter[4] Holloway's daughters as above noted. While he did not have the first names of the husbands of Abigail and Elizabeth, only that the former had married a Russ, and that Elizabeth had married a Dr. Harrington and lived in Alden, N.Y., we are quite confident we have their full names as given above.

The Livingston County, N.Y., deeds show that in 1821 Abigail's brother, Dr. William Holloway, sold his land in York to Nathan Russ, and that the latter, with wife Abigail, disposed of the property in 1827. What became of them later we have not been able to ascertain. No estates under their names appear in that county's probate records, nor in those of Niagara County, New York, nor of Lenawee County, Michigan, where Dr. William Holloway afterwards settled. The Erie County, New York, records are equally blank.

Miss Root's history of York notes seventeen people named Russ buried in its Mt. Pleasant Cemetery, among them a Nathan Russ, 1752-1827, and an Anna Russ (wife), 1755-1829, who might well have been the parents of Abigail Holloway's husband.

The probate records of Erie County are equally disappointing as respects the Harringtons. We did find, however, in Whites Erie County, New York (1898) [Vol. 1, pp. 342, 489, 722, 744, 785], that Dr. John M. Harrington began practise in the town of Alden as its first physician, about 1822 or '25, and that he became a member of the Erie County Medical Society in 1830. Also, that a Dr. D. W. Harrington was the Secretary of this Society from 1876-1880, and later a consulting surgeon on the Staff of the Erie County Hospital, which was organized in 1894. Whether or not he was a son of Elizabeth (Holloway) Harrington we could not say, having no more record of her children than we have of her sisters as far as concerns their names.

The likelihood that Abigail (Holloway) Russ had quite a number of children is perhaps indicated by the New York State Census of York, taken in 1825, which lists the family of Nathan Russ as then consisting of four males and four females.

We found no John Harrington or Daniel Hobart in this Census. A Jerrod Rockwood appears with two males and one female in his family.

21. HANNAH[4] HOLLOWAY (William[3], Malachi[2]), born at Taunton, Mass., in 1752, died at Shelburne, Mass., 18 February, 1816, aged 63 years. She married at Taunton, Mass., 12 November, 1779, Elder David Long, of Shelburne, Mass. He died there, 13 May, 1831, aged 79 years. He evidently had a second wife, also named Hannah, who, as "widow of Elder David Long'," died at York, New York, 30 May, 1856, aged 91 years.

Only one of Hannah[4] (Holloway) Long's children, Alvira, has its full date of birth noted in the published vital records of Shelburne. As recorded there these children were as follows (order uncertain), surname Long:

i. Josiah[5], b. 2 June, 17——. He was a physician at York, N.Y. His son Josiah[6] (Long), Jr., was at Amherst College in 1842.

ii. Holloway, b. 21 Feby., 17(84); d. at York, N.Y., in 1866. He m. Dorothy Arms. Rem. to York about 1818 where he became its most prominent citizen. He was a Supervisor of town for years, Colonel of its Artillery Co., trustee of the Public Library started there in 1824, an organizer and trustee of the Baptist Society of York, and Vice Pres. of the Livingston County Agri. Soc. upon its formation in 1841.

iii. Alvira, b. 24 Apr. 1787.

iv. Hannah, b. 2 Mch., 17——; d. at Colerain, Mass., 27 July, 1812; she m. as his first wife, in Sept., 1808, her cousin, Dr. George[5] Winslow, son of Capt. Peleg and Elizabeth[4] (Holloway) Winslow.

v. Apollos, b. 5 Dec., 17(90); m. Sally Green, 24 Dec., 1815; d. at York, N.Y., 1846.

vi. Sally, b. 24 July, 17——.

vii. Tirza, b. 21 Mch., 179—.

22. HULDAH[4] HOLLOWAY (William[3], Malachi[2]), born at Taunton, Mass., in 1754, died at Shelburne, Mass., 22 January, 1816, aged 61 years, according to the inscription on her gravestone in the Old North, or Hill, cemetery there. A private record gives her age as 64, probably an error, as she is named after her sister Hannah in their father's will.

She married at Taunton, 6 November, 1785, Solomon Hawks, of Shelburne, Mass. He died there, 29 December, 1834, aged 79.

Issue (Hawks), born at Shelburne, Mass.:

i. Huldah, b. 13 Sept., 1786; m. Ebenezer Moody of South Hadley, 26 April, 1810.

23. Zilpha[4] Holloway (William[3], Malachi[2], William[1]), born at Taunton, Mass., 31 August, 1759, died at Shelburne, Mass., 15 August, 1807, aged 48 years. She married at Taunton, 14 February, 1785, (Deacon) William Long of Shelburne. He evidently had a second wife, for the Shelburne records note the death of Dolly, wife of Deacon William Long, 14 March, 1842, aged 79 years. His death is not recorded there.

Deacon William and Zilpha[4] (Holloway) Long had issue, born at Shelburne, Mass.:

i. William[5], Jr., b. 20 July, 1788.
ii. Dolly, b. 11 Jany., 1791.
iii. Zilpha, b. 9 Dec., 1794(?) (Prob. 1792).

FIFTH GENERATION

Virtually all the Holloway men of sufficient age in this generation took some part in the Revolutionary War, two of them dying in the service. Sergeant [27] William Holloway, of the Continental army, settled in Maine after the war and became the progenitor of the prolific Hallowell family in that state.

Other members of this generation continued the migration to the West, finding new homes in Ohio, Michigan, and Wisconsin, many of them undergoing hardships and privations difficult for us to realize in these days when physical exertion needed to make a living has been reduced to the minimum.

24. NATHANIEL[5] HOLLOWAY, 3RD, (Nathaniel[4], Jr., Nathaniel[3], Samuel[2]), was probably the Nathaniel Holloway, of Middleboro, who married Hannah Merry, of Taunton, at Freetown, Mass., 10 April, 1770, inasmuch as his cousin of like name had his spelled "Nathanael" in the few records we have ever found regarding him.

It is also likely Nathaniel[5], 3rd, was the Nathaniel Holloway, of Middleboro—sometimes given as Nathan—who served in the Continental Army during the Revolutionary War. His name appears on various payrolls from 27 January, 1777 to 30 June, 1778. He was reported to have died, 1 July, 1778. It should be noted, however, that this record could also have applied to his cousin, Nathanael, who was living in Middleboro in 1764, and whose father was [10] Nathan[4] Holloway. No pension was paid to anyone on account of the service noted.

No record has ever been found of any children born to Nathaniel 3rd, and Hannah (Merry) Holloway, nor any probate record regarding them.

The Hannah Holloway of Taunton, who married Charles "Runnolds" [Reynolds] there, 21 September, 1786, could well have been their daughter. We cannot place her elsewhere. The vital records of Taunton do not list any children born to Charles and Hannah (Holloway) Reynolds, and the Bristol County land and probate records there are equally silent regarding them.

NOTE. Could Nathaniel Holloway's wife, Hannah, have been the Mrs. Hannah Holloway who died in Middleboro, 30 April, 1839, aged 93 years? This is her age as given in the publication Middleboro Deaths but the town records there give her age as 91. In either case she could not have been the Hannah Merry, daughter of William and Sarah (Smith) Merry, who according to the published vital records of Norton, Mass., was born there, 11 May, 1752.

25. NATHAN[5] HOLLOWAY, JR. (Nathan[4], Nathaniel[3], Samuel[2]), was born at Middleboro, Mass., probably about the year 1730 and continued living there in all likelihood until 1774. In view of his father's incapacity and the guardianship he had over him from 1758, we doubt if the purchase he made three years later of forty acres of land in Freetown, Mass., was anything more than a speculative one. (Bristol County Deeds, l, 26). Oddly enough, no record seems to exist in these to show what became of this property—at least as far as the indexes go.

The name of Nathan Holloway [Jr.] is of quite frequent occurrence in the land records of Plymouth County. We have already touched upon the deed he made his brothers and sister in September, 1764, of their father's homestead. This was evidently a generous action on his part, really a deed of gift, for the consideration mentioned was but twenty shillings "and other good causes," and they obtained £153 for the property when they sold it.

Three years later Holloway bought Benjamin Booth's homestead farm, also a tract of land from Joseph Booth, both of whom we believe were closely related to his first wife, Sarah Booth. He sold these properties to Thomas Nelson, 15 February, 1774, bought James Foster's homestead farm of seventy acres in Rochester, Mass., the very next day, and acknowledged his Nelson deed in that town five days later.

Beginning in the following August this Rochester property underwent rapid changes of ownership. On the 13th of that month Holloway sold the greater part of it to "my son, Zephaniah Holloway and my son-in-law, Timothy Hewitt," reserving to himself, however, the dwelling house and half acre of land back of it for a garden, also the forge, or iron works, on the premises, besides the blacksmith shop, coal house and coal yard. Two years later, in September, 1776, his son and his son-in-law sold this property back to him, and then within two weeks Holloway again deeded the property to them in separate deeds, each getting a part of it, but without any reservation this time. What they did with it subsequently does not appear of record. (Plymouth County Deeds, lv, 185; lviii, 123, 124; 8, 104, 251, 252).

In the following April, 1777, Nathan Holloway, taking pains to identify himself as "of Rochester, Plymouth County," bought fifty acres of land in Douglas, Mass., from Stephen Bullen of Oxford, Mass. He evidently removed to Douglas at about this time and continued living there until 30 October, 1783, when with wife, Sarah, and calling himself "of Oxford," he sold his Douglas property with dwelling house "where said Holloway now lives," to Jonathan Davis, of Oxford. (Worcester County, Mass., Deeds, lxxxix, 384, 385).

Nathan[5] Holloway's first wife, Sarah Booth, whom he married at Middleboro, Mass., 22 May, 1749, must have died not long after this sale, for the next record we have of him is on 19 January, 1785, when his marriage intentions with "widow Sarah Chamberlain" were entered. (Oxford, Mass., Vital Records).

What became of Nathan[5] Holloway after this date is unknown. The Oxford records noted contain no other reference to him, and his name does not appear in those of the adjoining towns of Sutton and Douglas where his sons-in-law, Timothy Hewitt and David Winslow, were living. His name is also missing in the U.S. Census of Massachusetts in 1790, as well as in that of Vermont in the same year. The possibility of his having removed to that state was examined because of David Winslow having settled there after leaving Douglas, but nothing came of the inquiries made. Neither does the name of Nathan Holloway appear in the probate records of Worcester County. He just drops out of sight.

From such records as we have we can set down the children of Nathan[5] and Sarah (Booth) Holloway as follows, order uncertain and perhaps incomplete; born in Middleboro, Mass.:

i. Zephaniah[6]. The Mass. Records of soldiers in the Revolutionary War state that Zephaniah Holloway of Worcester County served in Capt. "Knap's" Co. He was mustered in 20 May, 1777, to serve three years. It is presumed Capt. Job Knapp of Douglas was the officer mentioned here.

The vital records of Douglas, Sutton and Oxford, Mass., contain no references to Zephaniah Holloway, nor does his name appear in the land or probate records of Worcester County, nor in the census of 1790.

It is quite likely he returned to his birthplace for the published marriage records of Freetown, Mass., note a Zephaniah Holloway, of Middleboro, who married Hannah Paine, of Freetown, 23 July, 1792, as well as Charlotte Aldrich, also of Freetown, 8 Aug., 1808.

The U.S. Census of Middleboro in 1800 lists Zephaniah Holloway, aged over 45, with family consisting of only one female, aged between 26 and 45. His name does not appear in the census of that town in 1810 nor in that of 1820. As in his father's case, what became of him finally is unknown.

38. ii. Elizabeth, m. Timothy Hewett (Hewitt).

39. iii. Sarah, m. David Winslow.

iv. Lydia(?), m. Abraham Thomas ? The Winslow Memorial [Vol. 1, p. 526] notes a granddau. of Sarah (Holloway) Winslow m. a son of Abraham and Lydia (Holloway) Thomas. No further rec. obtainable.

26. Josiah[5] Holloway, Jr. (Josiah[4], Nathaniel[3], Samuel[2]), born in all likelihood in Middleboro, Mass., died there 4 April, 1816. The town records in giving his date of death state it occurred in his 78th year—evidently an error as his parents were married in November, 1740.

The list of Massachusetts Soldiers and Sailors in the War of the Revolution [Vol. 8, p. 149] notes that the name of Josiah Holloway appears in a roll of Capt. Henry Peirce's Fourth Middleboro Company, sworn to in Middleboro in 1780, and Hurd's History of Plymouth County [pp. 310, 1004-5] says it served in the campaign on Rhode Island in August that year, and was composed of men who lived in the part of Middleboro now Lakeville.

The vital records of Berkley, Mass., note the intentions of marriage of Josiah Holloway, Jr., of Taunton, and Experience Myrick (Mirick) of Berkley, were entered 8 March, 1766, while the church records of Rev. Samuel Tobey state the marriage took place on the following 1st of May.*

The Berkley records note that "Experiance Mirick," daughter of Ebenezer and Mary Mirick, was born 4 July, 1748, and that her parents, Ebenezer Mirick and Mary Crane, had their marriage intentions entered, 7 January, 1738/9.

These records also note a second marriage of Josiah[5] Holloway, Jr., the event occurring on 6 November, 1779. Recorded at this time as a resident of Middleboro he was married to a Mrs. Elizabeth Mirick of Berkley, Rev. Samuel Tobey performing the ceremony as before. The Richmond Genealogy in noting this marriage [p. 47] states she was the daughter of Abiel and Elizabeth (Richmond) Haskins, born 16 February, 1744. Her first husband was Ebenezer Myrick.

As in his father's case no list of the children of Josiah[5] Holloway, Jr., appears on the Middleboro records nor did he leave any will. Asa Holloway, unquestionably his son, was appointed administrator on his estate, 16 November, 1816. Amongst the claims filed was one from Isaac Holloway for $626.75, and while this was cut in half by the court, the administrator, under date of 17 November, 1817, requested it be struck out "unless said Isaac shall prosecute the same according to law." (Plymouth County Probate Records, xlvi, 193; il, 96-7, 111).

Reference to the records of the Court of Common Pleas at Plymouth to determine if any such action was brought resulted negatively, but developed what seems to have been an error on the part of the clerk of the court in entering a memorandum of an order given Josiah Holloway during the November term in 1817, to sell enough of Josiah Holloway's estate, of which he was administrator, to make up the sum of $925.62.

If Josiah Holloway, Jr., had had a son of that name no record of him has been found, and the fact that Asa must have been the first born in this family makes it look rather doubtful of there having been any Josiah Holloway, 3rd.

In any event no such man was administrator of the estate of Josiah Holloway, Jr., for in 1818, Asa Holloway, as such, sold land in Freetown to Lemuel Edmester. (Bristol County Deeds, cxvii, 147).

From such direct and circumstantial evidences as we have, Josiah Holloway, Jr., had issue, by first wife:

40. i. Asa[6], b. 4 July, 1768; m. Silence Dean.
41. ii. Isaac, b. 10 July, 1770; m. Lois Peirce.

NOTE. The United States Census of Middleboro, Mass., in 1790, lists no Holloways, Halloways, nor any other variant spelling of the name. It does, however, include the name of Josiah "Hathaway" with family consisting of only three males, each over sixteen years of age, and one female—that is, himself and (presumably) two sons, and his wife.

As neither of our Josiah[5] Holloway, Jr.'s, sons was married in that year, this census record could very well apply to him if we assume his second wife was still living, that she had borne him no surviving children, and that his first wife had had only these two sons who had survived up to 1790.

The census takers did very careless work in the early days, and I feel pretty sure this is another instance of their blundering just as they recorded Pendletons as "Pembertons" on various occasions.

27. William[5] Holloway (Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), the progenitor of the prolific Hallowells in the Pine Tree State, was born at Bridgewater, Mass., 18 June, 1747, and died 10 May, 1831, at Windsor, Kennebec County, Maine, where he had been living for upwards of twenty years.

There is a possibility that William Holloway may have settled in Maine soon after his marriage for there is a statement in the record of death of his grandson, William H.[7] Hallowell, that the latter's father, Seth[6], William's oldest son, was born in Scarborough, Me. The records of that town, however, do not show this and the earliest date we have for William Holloway's appearance in that old province of Massachusetts is in 1775.

On the 9th of January in that year he bought from Thomas Gyles Tolman of Hallowell, lot No. 42 on the east side of the Kennebec river, as shown on the plan of the Plymouth Proprietors. At that time his residence was given as of Hallowell, and his name as recorded in the deed appears as "Hollowell."

The outbreak of the Revolutionary War a few months later evidently caused his return to his native place, for under date of 21 January, 1777, we find that William "Hollowell," mariner, of Bridgewater, Mass., sold the above-mentioned property back to Tolman. His wife, Molly, joined with him in passing the title and one of the witnesses was Jonathan Holloway, evidently his brother. William acknowledged this deed at Plymouth, Mass., 16 July, 1777, no doubt while on furlough from the army. (Kennebec County's records of Lincoln County Deeds, Vol. 1, pp. 304, 547).

His services in the war were of long duration. According to his pension application made 1 April, 1818—at which time he stated he was seventy-one years old, born in Bridgewater, Mass.—he first enlisted in June, 1775, as a private in Capt. Samuel Tubbs Co., Col. Walker's Regt., for a term of eight months ending on the first of February, 1776. In January, 1776, he re-enlisted for a one-year term as a corporal in Capt. Edward Seagrave's Co., Col. Joseph Reed's Regt. of the Massachusetts Line, which period he fully served.

He then re-enlisted as a private soldier in the Continental service for a three-year term to begin in January, 1777, in Capt. Daniel Pillsbury's Co., Col. Wigglesworth's Regt. of the Massachusetts Line. He served out his full term, but about a month before its expiration he again re-enlisted, this time for the duration of the war, in the Company commanded by Lieut. Walter Dean in the same regiment, this being the Major's Company.

He continued serving in this regiment for about a year when he was taken ill and put into hospital. His sickness kept him there for nearly twelve months, when, being unfit for active duty, he was given a furlough on certificate from a Dr. McKnight and returned home.

Not long after arriving there the war ended and consequently he never received a regular discharge from the service. He stated he was at the taking of Burgoyne, was engaged in the battle of Monmouth, and spent a winter at Valley Forge.

While the Justice who took William Holloway's oath as to the truth of his declaration spelled his name correctly, and while it also appears as such in the attached testimony of Valentine Prentiss, of Harlem—now China—Me., who stated he had served three years with Holloway in Col. Wigglesworth's regiment, yet the signature of the old soldier on his application was written with such a shaky hand that it evidently was taken as "Halloway."

This is the spelling given in the endorsement written on the document, which notes that William "Halloway" of Malta [Windsor], Kennebec County, Me., had been a sergeant in Col. Smith's Mass. Regt.,* 1777 to 1783, and is the same spelling under which his pension was granted nine months later.

The published records of Massachusetts soldiers and sailors in the Revolutionary War show additional variants of Holloway's name, as well as some discrepancies as to those he served under. The most interesting of these items is the one referring to William "Holoway" of Bridgwater, whose name appears in a roll of soldiers at West Point, 25 January, 1781. It is stated here that he had enlisted 10 December, 1779, "for the war," and he is described as a soldier in the Continental army, "34 years old—five feet eight inches tall, dark complexion, black hair and blue eyes."

In the published lists of United States pensioners in Maine, noted in the Secretary of War's reports for 1820 [p. 77], William "Halloway" appears as having been a sergeant in the Massachusetts Line. In a similar listing in 1835 [p. 36] of pensioners in Kennebec County Me., it is stated that Sergt. William "Halloway" of the Massachusetts Line was placed on the Pension Roll 8 January, 1819, to receive $8.00 a month from 1 April, 1818, and that he died 10 May, 1831, aged 84.

The General Accounting Office at Washington, D.C., states that satisfactory evidence was given to a Justice of the Peace in Kennebec County, Maine, on 13 August, 1831, to prove that William Holloway died on 10 May, 1831, leaving a widow Molly Holloway. It was also certified that the pensioner had lived in Windsor, Maine, for ten years before his decease (sic), and that previously he had lived in Sidney, Maine. The arrears of pension due the decedent from 4 March to 10 May, 1831, were paid to the widow's attorney on the following 21st of September.

Some five years later—31 August, 1836—Mary Halloway of Windsor, aged seventy-eight years, widow of William Halloway, applied for a pension on account of his services in the Revolutionary War, and because of her necessities. She stated she had married her husband about the first of June, 1774—a year later than the actual date—and that she had remained his widow since his death on the tenth day of May, 1831.

The accompanying deposition of the Rev. Asa Wilbur, aged seventy-six, is of interest. He stated he was well acquainted with William Halloway and with Mary Trask, his wife, both natives of Bridgewater, Mass., where he (Wilbur) had been a neighbor of theirs for ten years until they removed to Maine. In 1784 he also removed there and continued his acquaintance with the Halloways until William's death. While he had not attended their wedding he had heard of their publishment and marriage at the time so there could be no doubt thereof. They had lived together as man and wife and brought up a family of children.*

The records of the General Accounting Office at Washington show that Mary Halloway was granted a pension in 1836 on certificate number 148, as the widow of a Revolutionary soldier, and that on 23 May, 1853, her three surviving children, Joel Halloway, Betsey Proctor, and John Halloway, presented evidence to the Probate Court of Kennebec County, Maine, to prove their mother had died 11 August, 1844, at Windsor, Maine. The arrears of pension due the decedent from 4 March 1844 to the date of her death were accordingly paid to her three children above noted on 14 June, 1853.

From the deposition made by Rev. Asa Wilbur it is reasonable to assume that Holloway returned to Maine not long after the close of the war, but we do not have definite record of him there until 1790. In the United States Census of Hallowell, Me., taken that year, we find William "Hallowell" listed with family consisting of four males under sixteen, and three females besides himself and wife. He seems to have remained in this town on the Kennebec for some years longer—his son Seth was living there in 1794—before removing to Sidney and later to Malta (Windsor) as already noted.

Much of what is now Kennebec County, Maine—set off from Lincoln County in 1799—was originally claimed by the old Plymouth Colony. Its rights there had been taken over by a group of wealthy merchants, principally in Boston, who were known as the Plymouth Proprietors and who promoted the settlement of the area as a matter of business speculation. There was a great influx of settlers there after the Revolutionary War, chiefly men from Plymouth County, many of whom felt that the vacant land they took up should be entirely free.

That the Plymouth Proprietors had much difficulty in enforcing their claims upon the settlers in some localities is evidenced by what is known as the "Malta War," a bitter contest in which one of the surveyors sent out by the Proprietors was killed during a riot about 1809.

Some indication that William Holloway recognized the rights of the proprietors several years before the other settlers conceded them is shown by a deed he made to his son, William, Jr., in 1803. This deed stated "these premises were submitted by William Holloway, Sr., to the Commissioners of Massachusetts" — evidently for their approval. The property sold was on the east side of Three Mile Pond "without the bounds of Harlem [China] south line." (Kennebec County Deeds, xvi, 12. Their names appear here as "Halloway").

We find no record showing how William, Sr., acquired this property but he had probably taken it over by "squatters' rights." In the following year, however, he did buy some land in Sidney, of Michael Russell—the whole of lot 209 and sixty acres of lot 208. (Ibid., vi, 481). He still owned property on the Three Mile Pond in 1805, as it is mentioned as a boundary of some land that Seth "Hallowell" sold there to his brother, John, of Sidney. (Ibid., viii, 438-9).

The History of Kennebec County, Maine (1892), in the section dealing with the town of Windsor [pp. 1172-1179] mentions the settler, William Hallowell, and states that by 1820 all the available lots in North Windsor had been taken up. "William Hallowell [evidently William, Jr.] settled on the (present) Frank E. Hallowell place. . . . Joel Hallowell settled on a lot just south of Jonas Proctor's. John lived on the farm where his son, Caleb, now lives." It is of interest to note that this work also states a Joseph Trask was a settler there in 1806, and that a Frank Trask is also mentioned as an early resident. They were no doubt closely related to William Holloway's wife, Molly Trask.

In the preceding paragraphs we have shown the gradual transition of the name Holloway through "Halloway" to "Hallowell," a subject already touched upon in our Introductory remarks. It is most interesting to note in the early land records of Kennebec County that the family name frequently appears in both of its variants when dealing with the same property.

In time the latter form became established as the patronymic, and with a few exceptions has been borne by William Holloway's descendants for the past hundred years. It is possible the greater familiarity the early recorders had with the county's town of Hallowell had much to do with the transition, although even the town clerk in William Holloway's native place put his name down as "Hollowell" when recording his marriage to Molly Trask.

This event took place in Bridgewater, Mass., 23 June, 1773. Molly Trask was evidently the daughter "Molley" of William and "Bettie" Trask, whose birth also appears in the published Bridgewater records—1 May, 1756.

On page 23 of a reprint of a series of articles which appeared in Vols. 55-57 of the Register regarding the early generations of Trasks in New England—descended from Capt. William Traske who was one of the first settlers of Salem, Mass., in 1628—it is noted that his great-great-grandson, William Trask, of Bridgewater, married "Bettie" Chase, and that their family settled in Sidney, Me. This William Trask was born in 1729 and died in 1811, while Betsey Trask, presumably his widow, died at Bridgewater in 1822, aged 93. With such a parentage, Molly (Trask) Holloway lived to be over 88, and as her husband, in spite of his long service and privations during the Revolutionary War, survived until almost 84, it is understandable how so many of their descendants lived to an advanced age.*

The Bridgewater records do not list any children born to William and Molly (Trask) Holloway, but from such direct and circumstantial records as we have we can set down their family as follows—first three born probably in Bridgewater, Mass.; others in Hallowell, Me.:

42. i. Seth[6], b. ab. 1773; m. three times.
43. ii. John, b. 1 Oct., 1780; m. Mercy Leonard.
44. iii. William, Jr., b. ab. 1781; m. Catherine Proctor.
45. iv. Molly, b. 1784(?); m. Joel Proctor, Jr.
46. v. Betsey, b. 1786; m. Jonas Proctor.
47. vi. Joel, b. 1788; m. Rhoda Robinson.
48. vii. Lydia, b. ab. 1790; m. William Seekins.

NOTE 1. The published records of Massachusetts Soldiers and Sailors in the Revolutionary War give the following details of William Holloway's services, his name appearing under the variant spellings as given in the volumes noted:

HALLOWAY, William, of Bridgewater, aged 28, mustered in March, 1777, Col. Jackson's regiment. Enlisted by Capt. John Porter to serve three years. Vol. 7, p. 130.

HALLOWELL, William, Bridgewater, mustered in 1778 for three years, Capt. Porter's Co., Col. Wigglesworth's regt.—Vol. 7, p. 132.

HALOWELL, William, Bridgewater. Name appears in list of men raised from Capt. Joseph Keith's Co., Col. Mitchell's regiment, dated Bridgewater, 21 February, 1778. Was engaged for town of Bridgewater. Joined Capt. Porter's Co., Col Wiggleworth's regiment, term three years.—Vol. 7, p. 132.

HOLLOWAY, William, Bridgewater. Private. Lt. Col.'s Co., Col. Calvin Smith's regt., Continental Army pay accounts for service from March 18, 1777, to Dec. 31, 1779. Res. Bridgewater; credited to town of Bridgewater; also Capt. Daniel Pillsbury's Co., Col. Edward Wigglesworth's (4th) regt.; muster roll for May, 1778, dated Valley Forge; enlistment 3 years; also same Co. and regt. muster roll for June, 1778, dated "Greenage;" also same Co. and regt. pay roll for Oct., 1778, sworn to at Providence; also (late) Lt. Col. Dudley Coleman's Co., (late) Col. Wigglesworth's regt. commanded

*The embryo Trask genealogy noted indicates that William Trask, father of Molly (Trask) Holloway, was son of John and Penelope (White) Trask. The name of Penelope White has a scent of Mayflower ancestry. Her line might well run back to William White, a passenger on that famous ship.

by Major Porter; muster roll for March and April, 1779, dated Providence; enlisted March 18, 1777, enlistment 3 years; also Major's Co. Col. Smith's regt., Continental army pay accounts for service Jany. 1, 1780 to Dec. 31, 1780.—Vol. 8, p. 150.

Holoway, William; Bridgewater; at West Point, 25 January, 1781, aged 34—5 feet, 8 inches tall, dark complexion, black hair, blue eyes. Enlisted 10 December, 1779, for the War.—Vol. 8, p. 185.

Note 2. Besides the descendants of William[5] Holloway there are two other families in Maine bearing the name of Hallowell. The vital statistics of the state, lodged in Augusta, show that those in Washington County, spreading out from Edmunds, descend from a Joseph Hallowell of Spencer, Mass., who settled there early enough to have had a son, Joseph, Jr., born at Edmunds in 1819 or 1820.* The other group, originally in Gray, Androscoggin County, descend from a Ralph Hallowell who was born in Bolton, England—probably the man of that name who died in Portland, 10 September, 1865, aged 73 years, and was buried in Gray, Me. The Lydia E. Hallowell mentioned in the Cummings Genealogy (1904), born 1824, but without her parentage being noted, first wife of Henry Cummings of Gray, was probably a daughter of Ralph Hallowell. His son, Samuel S. Hallowell, born at Gray in 1832, has descendants in Westbrook, Me., where he died in 1907.

The U. S. Census of Maine in 1790 notes that Gideon, "Barnibus", "Ludwick", and Prince Holloway were residents of the town of Fairfield, and the vital records of Albion, Me., list six children born to John and Huldah Holloway from 1791 to 1807. These people evidently belonged to the Holloways or Holways, of Sandwich, Mass., as indicated by the vital records of Rochester and Dartmouth, Mass., by the Bristol County, Mass., Deeds, and by a footnote at page 404 of Ebenezer W. Peirce's unique Peirce Family of the Old Colony.

28. (Capt.) Benjamin[5] Holloway (Elijah[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born probably at Mendham, N.J., 20 April, 1761, and died 16 September, 1846, "aged 87," according to the published records of the First Presbyterian Church of Morristown, N.J.

Stryker's records of New Jersey soldiers in the Revolutionary War note the services of Benjamin Holloway in the Morris County militia and in Capt. Morrison's Co. in the First Battalion of the New Jersey Line. The U.S. Pension Bureau has nothing regarding him. His military title, according to Sherman's Historic Morristown (1905), was derived from service in the state militia after the Revolution, although in spite of his youth he is called Capt. Benjamin Holloway when he joined the Morristown church on 4 January, 1782.

The History of Morris County, N.J., published by Munsell & Co. in 1882, states that Holloway operated the Hathaway iron forge situated on the Whippany river in 1805, and that when this burned down in the following year he acquired the "Denmark" or "Burnt Meadow" forge on the headquarters of the east branch of the Rockaway river. He rebuilt this in the following year and continued its operation until 1818 when the business became unprofitable.†

*Another account in the vital statistics of Maine says this Joseph Hallowell, Sr., was born in England.

†Charles S. Boyer's Early Forges and Furnaces in New Jersey (1931) [pp. 50, 258] gives much the same account of Benjamin Holloway's interest in these enterprises.

At some time during this period Holloway must have started tavern keeping, for Sherman in the work on Morristown already mentioned [pp. 403-5], says of a certain property there:

"'Solitude' subsequent to its occupancy by Walter Mould was an inn and tavern, and for many years was kept by Capt. Benjamin Holloway, grandfather of Morristown's efficient Chief of Police, J. Frank Holloway. Capt. Holloway's tavern, known as 'Wheatsheaf Inn', did such a thriving business that it was often necessary for the youngsters of his family to sleep on the hay in the adjacent barn."

A description of the tavern follows for a paragraph or two and it is then noted that "Solitude" became the property of Gustav E. Kissell, a New York banker, who named it "Wheatsheaf Farm." He had in his possession the 3' x 4' sign which swung in front of the inn, with the proprietor's name, "B. Holloway," below the representation of a sheaf of wheat.

Capt. Holloway seems to have been in prosperous circumstances for the ratables of Morristown starting in 1786 and running up to 1822 show that at different times he was assessed on various land holdings of from 110 to 441 acres, on from three to six horses, and up to eighteen head of cattle.

He was also taxed at times, from 1803 to 1810, on a slave, a stove, a "chair"* and a sulky—these possessions no doubt being regarded as luxury items in those days. It is interesting to note that while in 1811 the stove was appraised at $60.00, the slave was valued at twenty dollars less.

Capt. Benjamin[5] Holloway married (1), at Morristown, 15 September, 1782, Elizabeth Evault†, who was born 24 April, 1761, and died 29 November, 1838. His second wife, according to the record in his family Bible, was Mrs. Marget Clouson. He married her "near Drakesvill," 3 July, 1839.‡

Capt. Holloway's children are listed as follows in his family Bible, now in the possession of his great-great-granddaughter, Mrs. David P. Beach, of Wayne, Pa.:

i. David[6], b. 17 Aug., 1783; d. near Morristown, 13 Nov., 1837. No rec. of his mar. As late as 1822 the ratables of Morristown, N.J., listed him as a single man.

*Obsolete for chaise—or sulky—that old time two wheeled vehicle which seated two people and was drawn by one horse—the famous "One-Hoss Shay" of Oliver Wendell Holmes' deacon.

†It may be worth noting here that in 1823 Benjamin Holloway bought land at a sheriff's sale on behalf of Jacob Evaul of Camden, N.J. (Morris County, N.J., Deeds, Book 02, pp. 79-81). This name may have become Ewalt in later years.

‡Report of this marriage as noted in the Newark, N.J. "Sentinal" of Freedom in its issue of 16 July, 1839, while having the date of the wedding correct, gives the bride's name as Mrs. Margaret Clawson, of Hackettstown, and the groom's as Capt. Benjamin "Holloday", of Morristown.

NOTE. The published records of the First Presbyterian Church of Morristown, N.J., give the births of six of Capt. Benjamin Holloway's children, the baptisms of ten of them, and also the marriages of his daughters, Hannah, Polly, and Julia Ann (Juliet) as above noted. They omit, howover, the names of his sons, Benjamin, Jr., and Charles.

29. ELIJAH[5] HOLLOWAY JR. (Elijah[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), according to the record in his family Bible, was born at Mendham, N.J., 15 May, 1764, and died at Chatham, N.J., 24 February, 1826.

The early ratables of Morris County, N.J., now preserved in the State Library at Trenton, show that Elijah Holloway was listed as a single man without property from 1785 to 1792 inclusive, but that in 1793—the year following his marriage—he was taxed on two house lots. A year later he had added one head of cattle to his possessions—a cow, no doubt, for the benefit of his growing family. In 1805, the last year of his residence in Morristown, he was assessed on two and a half houselots and two head of cattle.

It would appear from these records that Elijah Holloway was engaged in some trade or business there, a fairly profitable one it would seem, for we find he was one of the incorporators of the Morris Aqueduct Company which was chartered in 1799 to bring water to the town.

He sold his property in Morristown to Richard Johnson in 1806, and in the same year bought a farm in Springfield, N.J., which had formerly belonged to Smith S. Osborn of New Providence, N.J. He sold this in 1807 and bought another farm in Chatham, where the rest of his life was spent.

Elijah[5] Holloway, Jr., married, 3 October, 1792, Elizabeth Gamble,* born 19 February, 1772, died 21 January, 1833. They are buried in the cemetery at the rear of the Presbyterian Church in Morristown, of which he had become a member, 1 January, 1785.

Their children, as listed in his family Bible, now in possession of his great-great-grandson, Rev. Parker B. Holloway, of Madison, N.J., were as follows—first six born in Morristown, others in Chatham, N.J.:

i. Gilbert[6], b. 13 Sept., 1793; drowned at Savannah, Ga., 11 Nov., 1819. He m. Hannah Hathaway, 25 Oct., 1815. No rec. of any ch. She was prob. the Hannah Holloway who m. Timothy Woodruf, of Seneca County, N.Y., 26 Apr., 1830, as noted in the Newark, N.J., Monitor of 4 May, 1830, and in the Essex County marriage records.

53. ii. Richard, b. 23 Nov., 1795; m. Hannah Osborn.

iii. Son, b. 30 June, 1798; d. 8 July, 1798.

iv. Anna, b. 6 Apr., 1800; d. 2 Dec., 1801.

viii. Caleb, b. 5 Dec., 1809; m. Mary E. ——————. See Note following.

56. ix. Daniel, b. 17 July, 1813; m. Phebe E. Hunt.

x. Mary, b. 15 Mch., 1816; m. Jonas R. "Alvord" at Morristown, 5 July(?), 1836. (Morris County marriage records, Book D, p. 23. The Newark, N.J., Sentinel of Freedom of 28 June, 1836, gives his name correctly, as Alward and the date of mar. as 12 June, 1836.) They had a dau. Mary Anna[7], b. ab. 1837, who was adopted by her uncle, [56] Daniel[6] Holloway. She was listed in the 1850 Census of her uncle's family as Mary Holloway, ae. 12, but the inscription on her gravestone in his burial lot calls her Anna A. Holloway, and states she d. 12 Sept., 1918, ae. 81. Daniel Holloway's

The entry of this marriage in the published records of the First Presbyterian Church of Morristown has her name as Gamble, and this is the name given on her gravestone there. A William Gamble of Newark, with wife Eliza B., sold a lot on Monroe street to Eli Holloway in 1835.—Essex County, N.J., deeds, X3:216.

While the church record in this instance would seem to be correct, its listing of the baptisms and some of the dates of births of his children, omits the names of Eli and Mary.

gr. dau., Mrs. Elwood C. Robinson of East Orange, N.J., does not know of any brothers or sisters she may have had.*

Elijah[5] Holloway died intestate and his son, Richard, was appointed administrator of his estate, 9 March, 1826.

NOTE. Up to the present time we have been unable to find any descendants of either Henry or Caleb Holloway, the sons of Elijah[5], Jr., nor do we even know if they had families of their own. There are no estates under their names in the Surrogate records of New Jersey's northeastern counties. In Newark where they lived for a time the older cemeteries have no record of their burials, and all the other sources of information we sought were well night genealogically barren regarding them.

We did find a few items, however, about the older brother, Henry. The Marriage Records of Essex County, New Jersey—Book B, p. 144—show that he married Abigail Fairchild on 5 June, 1826, Rev. Winans Y. Hamilton, pastor of Newark's First Presbyterian Church, performing the ceremony. Reference to the baptismal records of this church, now known as the Old First, as well as to those of the Second Presbyterian of Newark drew blanks, and a checkup on the Fairchild estates in the Essex County Surrogate records was equally fruitless.

In June, 1833, Henry Holloway and his wife, Abby, of Newark, sold to his brother, Eli Holloway, his one-seventh interest in their late father's farm. Evidently at this time he had counted in their sister Mary as one of the heirs, there being five brothers, besides himself, then living. At a later date, however, only the six brothers joined in granting full title to the property.†

In 1834 we find that Henry Holloway bought a small property on West Street, Newark, mortgaged it to his brother, Daniel, soon afterwards; took title again in 1835, and finally sold the property in 1842, his wife Abby joining with him in signing the deed.

In the meantime the Newark City directories had listed him for a few years. His name appears in the issues from 1836 to 1838 in which he is set down as a varnisher, "rear 132 Broad Street." As this street address was that of his brother Eli Holloway's furniture warehouse it is reasonable to assume that Henry was in his brother's employ at that time.

While his name does not appear in the Newark Directories after 1838, yet he gave this city as his residence when selling his property there four years later. The Newark Census of 1850 does not show his name and what became of him and his wife is unknown.

Of his brother, Caleb Holloway, we know even less—only that he was married when with wife Mary E. he joined his five brothers and their respective wives in granting full title to their late father's farm. Record of Caleb Holloway's marriage has not been found and his wife's surname is unknown.

At the time they signed this joint deed—which may have been made as late as 1838 as already noted—they stated they were "of Chatham and Newark" but

*The Morris County, N.J., Surrogate's records (Will Book E, p. 391) have the will of a Jonas Alward, of Morristown, dated 7 Dec., 1841, and proved 11 Jany., 1842, in which he mentions wife Nancy, and daughters Elizabeth R. and Helen M. Alward. If this was the Jonas R. Alward who had married Mary Holloway in 1836, it would indicate she must have died soon after the birth of her daughter Mary Anna. A further evidence of this will be found in the Note following.

†This deed as recorded on 5 July, 1841, was given the date of 20 Dec., 1833—obviously an error in copying, for [56] Daniel[6] Holloway and his wife Phebe who were among its signers, were not married until 10 Sept., 1835, as noted five days later by the Newark newspaper called the Sentinel of Freedom. The non-appearance of their sister Mary's name here as one of the grantors may have a double significance,—first, that the property was not sold until 1838, and second, that she had died not long after the birth of her daughter Mary Anna.

nothing has been found regarding them in the records of the Presbyterian churches thereof.

As in his brother Henry's case, we did not find his name in the Newark census of 1850, and what became of him is also unknown.

The Caleb Holloway of the Newark directories from 1838 to 1845 seems to have been a different man.*

30. JACOB[5] HOLLOWAY (Elijah[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]?), had the earmark of his cattle registered in Mendham, N.J., in 1798, as noted in Miss Helen M. Wright's abstracts of the town records there†—a slender clue to his origin but the only one we have to connect him with Elijah[4] and Malachi[3] Holloway of Mendham, aside from his presumptive brother, Benjamin Holloway, having named a son Jacob, born in 1794, a name which had not formerly appeared in our Holloway family.

According to the late Dr. Olin E. Holloway's Genealogy of the Holloway Families an unidentified Jacob Holloway, born in 1770, married Hannah, daughter of Jeremiah Cory, removed from New Jersey to Pennsylvania "where his children were born," and later to a Shaker colony near Lebanon, Ohio, where he died in 1852.

The genealogy called The Cory Family, published in 1941, noted that Jeremiah Cory, born in 1740 in Elizabethtown, N.J., married (1) Mary Wood in 1764 who died in 1776. He served in the Revolutionary War and died in 1805 in Warren County, Ohio. They had a daughter, Hannah, but nothing is said as to her marriage.

Dr. Holloway's work devoted a chapter to the descendants of Jacob Holloway through his son, Moses, but unfortunately gave none of their places of birth nor of residence. His statement implying that all of Jacob's children were born in Pennsylvania would be subject to revision if his unidentified Jacob Holloway is identical with our Jacob of Mendham as may well have been the case.

It should be noted that Elizabethtown and Morristown (adjoining Mendham) are only some twenty miles apart and were connected by a much travelled highway in colonial times.

*In 1844 this Caleb Holloway's address in Newark was the same as that of Joel Holloway who according to the 1850 census there was born in England. The census credited him with two sons, William, aged 6, and Edward, aged 2, obviously the William Holloway who died in Newark in March 1853, aged 9, and the Edward Holloway who died there two months later, aged 5, as noted in that city's fragmentary vital records but without mention of their parents' names. The Newark directories list both Caleb and Joel Holloway as shoemakers. The Henry Holloway, another Newark shoemaker from 1842-44, probably belonged to this same group.

ix. Amos, b. 12 Oct., 1818(?) [Prob. 1808].

Dr. Holloway stated that of the above family Noah settled in Marysville, Kans.; Moses in Boone County, Ind.; Amos in Tennessee. David remained near Lebanon, Ohio; Cephas died in the Shaker colony; Elizabeth married John Burcow and lived in Cincinnati, Ohio.

While Elijah[4] Holloway's son, Benjamin[5], had sons David and Moses, as well as Jacob, the former two names were also those of two brothers of Hannah (Cory) Holloway, so there is nothing there worth considering as evidence. Elijah's son, Elijah[5], Jr., though, had a son named Cephas, and Hannah Cory had no brother of that name.

However, because definite proof is lacking that this Jacob Holloway who married Hannah Cory was the son of our Elijah[4] Holloway, we do not feel justified in going further with their descendants as carried in Dr. Holloway's work. It is unfortunate their places of residence were not given as we might then have made contact with some of them—one of whom must have had the family Bible from which the above record was obtained.

31. Josiah[5] Holloway (William[4], William[3], Malachi[2]), born at Taunton, Mass., 27 September, 1774, died at Conway, Mass., 22 March, 1834, "aged 60, by a fall from his horse."

Josiah[5] Holloway's parents removed from Taunton to Conway when he was in his teens, and the rest of his life was spent in that town where he engaged in farming. As already noted he bought his father's property there in 1804, and this he bequeathed to his son Timothy. The only mention of him in the History of Conway is the inclusion of his name in a list of the town's residents whose houses had been destroyed by fire.

The will of Josiah[5] Holloway, as stated by Franklin County's Register of Probate, was proved on 15 July, 1834. It mentions wife Lydia; sons Timothy and Josiah; daughters Lydia Smith, Sarah Yeomans, and Hannah Holloway.

Josiah[5] Holloway married at Ashfield, Mass., 24 May, 1798, Lydia Sherman, of Conway. She was born 19 May, 1775, and died in Conway, 24 March, 1833.

Authorities besides those mentioned: The published vital records of Conway and Ashfield, Mass.—which latter give his name as "Hollowel;" Mass. Vital Statistics, and family records in the possession of [333] Josiah[9] Holloway of New York City, the great-great-grandson and namesake of Josiah[5] Holloway. These family records and those of Conway show the usual minor discrepancies in certain dates.

32. Peter[5] Holloway, Jr. (Peter[4], William[3], Malachi[2]), was born in Dighton, Mass., 21 May, 1778, and died in Springfield township, Lucas County, Ohio, 1 September, 1865. As a young boy he was taken to Shelburne, Mass., upon his parents' removal there in 1786, and lived in that town until about 1798, when he is said to have gone to Canandaigua, Ontaria County, N.Y.* Here, according to a tradition in the family, he did much blacksmithing for the Indians who were then more numerous than the whites in that part of the state.

The first definite record we have of him in this locality is in 1804 when he bought land in the nearby town of Bloomfield, following this with another purchase there in 1806. He was a resident of Bloomfield

*It is quite likely the date given here for his emigration to New York state is approximately correct if the U.S. Census of Shelburne in 1800 has any significance. At that time Peter[4] Holloway, Sr., had three sons aged betwen 16 and 26, but the census noted lists only two males in his family belonging to that age group then.

for some eleven years, engaged in farming, blacksmithing, and hotel-keeping.

This latter enterprise was carried on in the part of the town set off as East Bloomfield in 1833, and is mentioned in McIntosh's History of Ontario County, New York (1876). At page 209 of this work it is stated in an account of East Bloomfield that "Peter Holloway who had a blacksmith shop in the village about 1804, built a tavern about 1809 but kept it only a short time. It is now used as a residence by Frederick Munson".

A somewhat briefer reference to Holloway is made in Conover and Aldrich's History of this county when in writing of East Bloomfield they state [p. 407], "Peter Holloway was the village blacksmith as early as 1804, but being ambitious, turned landlord and built a hotel".

HOME OF PETER HOLLOWAY, JR.
EAST BLOOMFIELD, NEW YORK
(From a photograph taken in 1948 by Mrs. Harry C. Holloway)

Known of late years as the "Holloway House—1808" it is once more being operated as an inn. The present owners, Seel's Inc., have issued a little folder descriptive of the place and with mention of its original proprietor. A cut of the large and well proportioned two story building is shown and reference is made to its hand hewn beams, and the square nails used in its construction.

"In those early days," the circular goes on to say, "the culinary art was carried on in the cellar and a large open fireplace with its Dutch oven and pot crane stands in mute testimony of a day long past." It is quite possible that the place had been run as a tavern for some time after Holloway had disposed of it, for in a letter received from Mr. Thomas R. Seel, one of the present owners, he states that Mrs. Frank Munson told him that when she came there as a bride about 1873, the marks of a circular bar on the floor of one of the rooms were still in evidence.

While McIntosh says Holloway ran the tavern "only a short time", this may actually have been a matter of several years. Mr. Seel, besides sending us quite a few of the folders mentioned, was also kind enough to contribute a couple of reprints from early issues of the Canandaigua newspaper called the Ontario Repository which mentioned Holloway.

In the one of 26 March, 1811, the coopers of the County of Ontario were "requested to assemble at the Inn of Peter Holloway on the 2nd Tuesday of April for the purpose of forming a Society", while on 14 June, 1812, an advertisement offered a reward of Ten Dollars to anyone who would leave "at this office or at Holloway's Inn in Bloomfield", "a red Moroco pocketbook containing bank notes to the amount of $56.00" which had been "lost on the road between Canandaigua and Bloomfield". It would appear from these notices that the property Holloway sold in 1811 was not the one on which the tavern stood unless it had continued to be known by his name.

According to Waggoner, Peter Holloway (Jr.) volunteered for cavalry service during the war of 1812 and entered Buffalo when the town was burning and the British shipping just leaving. This statement is largely confirmed by the records of our War Department which state that Peter Holloway was a private in Capt. Isaac W. Hone's Company, 12th Regiment Cavalry (Boughton's), New York Militia from 23 December, 1813, to 21 January, 1814, and by the disgraceful fact that Buffalo was burned by the British on 30 December, 1813.

Lossing, however, in his Field Book of the War of 1812 [p. 635], says that 129 mounted volunteers under Lt. Col. Boughton were reviewed in Buffalo on December 27, but whether or not these comprised his full force is not stated. It is quite possible they were the men commanded by "Lieut. Boughton" who, Lossing says, had a brush with the enemy when they landed on the outskirts of the town soon after midnight on the 30th.

Holloway sold his remaining property in Bloomfield in 1814, his wife, Sophia, signing the deed with him. In 1815 he bought land in Caledonia, then in Genesee County, but a part of Livingston County, New York, since 1821. This property was evidently in the section of Caledonia set off to form the town of York in 1819, for we find the name of Peter Holloway, Jr., in a tax roll of York in 1824, when he was assessed on sixty acres of land. His father's name does not appear in that tax roll, so we believe it was the son, rather than the father, whose name appears as Peter Holloway in a list of subscribers to the York Public Library upon its organization that same year.

Peter[5] Holloway, Jr., bought land in York in 1825 and continued living there until about a year after his father's death in 1832, when he sold his property and removed to Lucas County, Ohio. After spending about a year in Miami (Maumee) he settled in the township of Springfield, that county, where the rest of his long life was spent.*

During his earlier years there he took an active part in the affairs of the township, was its town clerk from 1836 to 1840 inclusive, a delegate to the Congressional District Convention of the Whig Party in 1840, and a Justice of the Peace in 1850.

*It is of interest to note that the farm he bought there in 1836, later in possession of his son, Charles B. Holloway, is now (1949) owned by the latter's son, Arthur Emmett Holloway, and farmed by the present owner's son, Paul C. Holloway, so that four generations of Holloways in succession have lived upon and operated this same property.

Peter[5] Holloway, Jr., married (Abbie) Sophia Seymour in 1805. She was the daughter of Ira and (first wife) Ruth (Smith) Seymour, born 27 March, 1784, and died 22 July, 1867. Peter[5] Holloway, Jr. and his wife are buried in the Springfield Cemetery, Holland, Ohio.

NOTE: According to the History of York, Livingston County, N.Y., the state's census there in 1825 listed four males and three females in the family of Peter[5] Holloway, Jr. This would check exactly with the above record if we are to assume the parents are not included in the tally.

The names of George Gooding and Mary Ann Holloway above noted are included in Clayton Dill's record of this family but as they are unknown to their nephew, Mr. A. Emmett Holloway, of Maumee, Ohio, (R.D. 1), it is fair to assume they died at an early age.

33. WILLIAM[5] HOLLOWAY (Peter[4], William[3], Malachi[2]), born at Dighton, Mass., 17 July, 1781, was taken to Sherburne, Mass., when his parents settled there in 1786. As a young man he removed to the adjoining town of Conway, where his uncle, Capt. William[4] Holloway, was living and where his own name appears on the vital records as Dr. William Holloway.

In view of a census record we have regarding the birthplace of Dr. Holloway's son, William[6], Jr., it seems quite likely that after his marriage in 1806, the doctor had settled in some town in Vermont, where his first two or three children were born. In any event he was not a resident of Conway in 1810, as his name is missing from the U.S. Census taken there that year.

It is possible he may have been living in Ashfield, Mass., at this time for his fourth child, Silas, is said to have been born there early in 1812, although not listed in the town records. Later that year the doctor returned to Conway, where he bought a tract of land from Benjamin Wells on 21 September. He continued living here until 1817 when he sold his property to Moses King, and removed to Western New York where his father and brothers had preceded him.

In June of that year he was with his brother, Cyrus, in Bristol, Ontario County, as indicated by the date line of a note they made jointly at that time to their cousin [31] Josiah[5] Holloway.* In this same month Dr. Holloway bought land in Caledonia, then in Genesee County, New York, from Dr. Theodore Beardsley, the same man from whom his brother, Peter[5] Holloway, Jr., had made a purchase there two years earlier. He sold this property in 1821, by which time it was no longer in Genesee but in the recently organized county of Livingston and town of York. His wife, Zelinda, joined with him in passing the title, the purchaser being Nathan Russ, probably his brother-in-law.

According to the history of York, this property was an L shaped tract of land lying south and west of the first school lot at York Center. That Dr. Holloway may have held out a small corner of it is quite possible for the history mentioned says he was taxed on three quarters of an acre there in 1824, and we have no record of his having made any other purchase of land in that town.

The York history also notes that Dr. Holloway was a member of the Medical Society in 1822, and that in 1825 he subscribed $15.00 to the Building Fund of the Associate Reformed (Presbyterian) Congregation of York. It is also noted that the state census taken that same year credits him with a family of five males and four females. Whether or not this enumeration included his wife and himself is not clear, but if they are omitted the tally would then check exactly with our record of his children.

A history of Lenawee County, Michigan, published in 1880, states that Dr. William Holloway, born in Massachusetts in 1781, the son of Peter Holloway, removed to York, N.Y., in 1817, where he lived until 1826, when he went to Pendleton, Niagara County, New York. He remained in that town until the Fall of 1833 when he emigrated to Lenawee County, Michigan, settling in the township of Raisin, where his sons had preceded him.†

He continued practising medicine there until his death on 10 August, 1852. We might add that Dr. Holloway is buried in the cemetery near the village of Holloway, Michigan, and that the inscription on his monument, besides giving his date of death as above noted, states his age was 71.

The work mentioned also gives the names of Dr. Holloway's first

*This note, now in the possession of the beneficiary's descendant and namesake, Josiah[9] Holloway, of New York City, has enabled us to reproduce the autograph signatures of the co-signers which appear thereon.

†It is likely Dr. Holloway had arrived in Michigan somewhat earlier than stated in the history quoted, for the county deeds show he purchased 160 acres of land there in Section 23 from William, Jr. and Edwin Holloway, in June, 1833. He sold this property to Silas and Butler Holloway in March, 1840.

two wives just as recorded in the records of Conway, Mass., states the second died in Pendleton, New York, and that he married for his third wife, Paulina Fairchild, of Lockport, New York.

While the registry of deeds for Niagara County reports that the name of William Holloway does not appear on its indexes of grantees and grantors, Pool's Landmarks of Niagara County, New York, published in 1897, notes that Dr. William Holloway was an early member of its Medical Society.

The Memoirs of Lenawee County, Michigan, which came out twelve years later, in giving an account of his grandson, George R. Holloway, seems to have borrowed largely from the 1880 history of the County in what it has to say of Dr. Holloway, except for stating he was probably the first physician in Raisin. Both histories agree in stating the doctor was married three times, and had nine children in all—five by the first wife, four by the second. Only the earlier history, however names his consorts.

The Memoirs of Lenawee County also states that Dr. Holloway, with his four sons, entered a large tract of land in sections 23 and 24 and that the place where the east and west road running through the property crosses the one running north and south "near the old residence, has been known as Holloway Corners for over seventy years". This locality now comprises the village of Holloway, Michigan.

The published vital records of Conway, Mass., note Dr. Holloway's first two marriages, but list none of his children although it has been stated his son, Butler, was born there. His intention of marriage with Sarah Tobey was entered 10 June, 1806. She was the daughter of Prince and Jane (Delano) Tobey, born at Conway, 27 May, 1783, and died there 4 May, 1814. She was buried in the family lot of her husband's uncle, Capt. William[4] Holloway, in the North Shirkshire Cemetery at Conway.

Dr. Holloway's intention of marriage with his second wife, Zelinda Farnham, was entered at Conway, 21 January, 1816. She was the daughter of Asa and Eunice Farnham (or Farnum), born there, 5 July, 1785 and died at Pendleton, New York.

His third wife, Paulina Fairchild, of Lockport, New York, died 2 February, 1878, probably in Raisin township, Michigan, her date of death appearing in the family Bible of his son, Butler Holloway. According to the Census of Raisin, Michigan, in 1850, she was then 58 years old, born in Vermont.

While his own Bible has not been found, nor any estate under his name in the probate records of Lenawee County, Michigan, yet from such data as we have we can list eight of Dr. Holloway's children as follows:

Issue by first wife, first two or three born probably in Vermont:

i. Adeline[6], b. ab. 1807. Immediately below the inscription on Dr. Holloway's monument, which gives his name and date of death, there is another reading "Adeline, wife of S. Seymour, died June 20, 1838, aged 31." No Seymour estates appear in the probate records of Lenawee County and there is no ref. to this marriage in the Seymour genealogy. We have been unable to ascertain if any ch. resulted.

62. ii. William, Jr., b. ab. 1809; m. Abigail Stocking.
63. iii. Edwin, b. 4 Apr., 1810; m. Mary A. Seeber.
64. iv. Silas, b. 14 Feby., 1812, Ashfield, Mass.; m. Sarah Atwater.
65. v. Butler, b. 14 Feby., 1814, Conway, Mass.; m. Ann Richard.

Issue by second wife, born probably York, N.Y. (order uncertain):

vi. Sarah, b. ; m. James L. Smith of Toledo, Ohio, and had issue (Smith): 1. McGill[7], 2. William, 3. DeMott [Clayton Dill data].

vii. Zelinda, b. ; m. Dr. Charles DeMott and had issue (DeMott) 1. Sarah[7], 2. William [Clayton Dill data]. The probate records of Lenawee County, Mich. (file 1601) show that Charles DeMott, of Tecumseh, died 25 Nov., 1860, leaving a will in which his wife, Zelinda, was sole legatee. Her petition for allowing the will stated she had ch. Sarah H.[7] DeMott, aged 12, and William H. DeMott, aged 10. As shown by the will of their uncle, William DeMott (Ibid., file 8189), William H. DeMott was living in Flint, Mich., in 1903, and his sister, Sarah, wife of ———— Urch in Clarkston, Mich. She is said to have a gr. dau. there, a Miss Fanny Irish—but N.D.I.O.

viii. George, b. ————; we have two accounts of him—one that he went to California after his father's death, the other that he entered the Union army in the Civil War and was never heard from again. We have not found his name as a grantor or grantee of land in Lenawee County, Mich., up to 1870, nor does it appear in the Census of Raisin, Mich., taken in 1850. He is probably the male between 10 and 15 listed in Dr. Holloway's family in the 1840 Census.

ix. Daughter, indicated by New York census noted (1825) but Mr. Dill's data says there was a son here named Monroe, who d. ae. 6 yrs. No daughters appear in the 1840 Census of Dr. Holloway's family.

34. George[5] Holloway (Peter[4], William[3], Malachi[2]), born 29 June, 1784, either at Dighton or Taunton, Mass., lived at Shelburne, Mass., from 1786 to about 1813 when he removed to New York state. It is quite likely his brother Cyrus went with him for they both were early settlers in the township of Bristol, Ontario County, George Holloway buying a tract of land there in 1813 and his brother a year later.

His stay in Bristol was not of long duration. The records show he sold his property there in 1816, but where he lived during the next nine years has not been established. His nephew, the late Peter[6] Holloway, 3rd, is authority for the statement that George Holloway went to Marion, Ohio. A history of that county published in 1883 says that Dr. George Holloway came there from Massachusetts (sic) in 1825, and was "the first physician who was able to stand the hardships here and live any length of time," the seven who had preceded him all having died within three years of their arrival.

At the time Dr. Holloway settled in Marion it consisted of only sixteen families besides his own. His practice, however, "soon extended for miles around as he was quite successful. The mode of travel was confined to the saddle." When Marion was incorporated as a town, Dr. Holloway served as one of the judges at the first election held there—15 March, 1830.

The History also notes that he bought three acres of land between Center and South Streets and that his frame dwelling "was where Henry True now resides." In conclusion the article states "Dr. Holloway was truly one of the pioneer physicians. He continued in practice until his death in Marion in 1867, aged 85. He was a surgeon in the War of 1812, located at Buffalo."

While Dr. Holloway's age as given here is two years out of the way, according to the date of his birth as noted in the Shelburne recoords, it seems quite obvious that whoever wrote up this sketch of the doctor, must have been in contact with some member of his family —or at least with some old friend who knew him well. It is unfortunate that the History makes no mention of Dr. Holloway's children, for up to date we are certain of the names of only three of them as given in the Census of 1850 and in his will.

This document, dated at Marion on 20 April, 1866, and proved there in the same month of the following year, names only two children, a daughter, Elizabeth C., who was to be his sole heir, and who was directed to support and take care of her sister, Julia E. In a codicil drawn on the same day, he named his daughter Elizabeth C. as executrix, and specified that if his wife, Elizabeth, survived him, she was to occupy the homestead until her death.

The married name of the daughter Elizabeth is not given although it is stated in the will, that if Julia should survive her the property should be divided between Julia and Elizabeth's children.

A comparison of this will with the U.S. Censuses of Marion in 1830 and 1850 indicates there had been a heavy mortality amongst Dr. Holloway's children despite his successful practice amongst others, and his own vigorous constitution. Furthermore, if the age given for his wife, Elizabeth, was correctly reported in 1850 as 56 years, the doctor may well have been married previously.

For in the 1830 Census there was listed in his family, besides his wife then in the 30-40 age group, a young woman, aged between 20 and 30, who, if his own child, could hardly have been Elizabeth's, for she, presumably, was born in 1794. In this connection it may be of some significance to note that Dr. Holloway was ten years older than his wife Elizabeth, a much greater disparity in ages than usually occurred with first marriages in those days.

The chances are that our George[5] Holloway was the man of that name who married Lois Street, born in 1784, daughter of Jesse and Lois (Cook) Street as noted by Jacobus in his Families of Ancient New Haven [Vol. 7, p. 1713]. While this work gives no further information regarding them, it does state that Lois Street had a brother, Benjamin, who lived at Deerfield, and a sister, Lucretia, who died at Charlemont, Mass., both towns being at no great distance from Shelburne where Dr. George Holloway lived before removing to New York state.*

The date and place of this Holloway-Street marriage are not given nor do we have this information concerning his marriage to Elizabeth. It was, however, prior to 26 September, 1816, when Betsey Holloway joined with her husband in signing the deed to his Bristol, N.Y., property as already mentioned. That she was born Elizabeth Parrott seems evident enough for in 1817 George Parrott, of Pittsford, Ontario County, N.Y., named his daughter, Elizabeth Holloway, as executrix of his will.

From the census records noted we can set down the family of Dr. George[5] Holloway as follows—assuming all the children listed in his family were his own.†

i. Daughter, aged between 20 and 30 in 1830. As her father was b. in 1784, this first dau. was born prob. bet. 1806 and 1810. She either d. unm. or if m. left no heirs, as indicated by her father's will.

Probably by second wife:

ii. Juliett (Julia), b. in 1814, prob. at Bristol, N.Y. The 1850 census gives her name as Juliett, and her age as 36. She prob. d. unm.

iii. Daughter, ae. bet. 10 and 15 in 1830; no further rec.

iv. Daughter, ae. bet. 10 and 15 in 1830; no further rec.

v. Son [Peter?] ae. bet. 10 and 15 in 1830; no further rec.

vi. Daughter, ae. between 5 and 10 in 1830—hence b. between

*That Lois Street could have married Dr. George Holloway's like named cousin and fellow physician, Dr. George Holloway, of Conway, who was born in 1777, and died in 1824, we consider a very remote possibility. As far as known, this other Dr. Holloway died a bachelor.

†It might be noted here that in our early census records the only ones named were those who were heads of families; the other members were merely enumerated in various age groups according to sex. It was not until 1850 that the names and ages of all members of a family were given.

In that census George Holloway's age was given as 66—which checks with his year of birth as we have it—his birthplace, Massachusetts, and his occupation, that of a physician.

1821 and 1825. This is prob. the Elizabeth C. Holloway who was a student at Granville [Ohio] Female College [now Dennison Univ.] in 1848. She may still have been there in 1850 as she is not included in the Census of her father's family taken that year. The Probate Court at Marion says her married name was Beam, but the History of Marion County [p. 538] notes a "Miss" Elis. Bean taught school in Marion in 1872-3 while Mrs. Elizabeth C. Bean also taught from 1880 to 1884.

vii. Augustus, b. 1830. Listed in 1850 Census of Marion as a "student in medicine," aged 20, he was no doubt the Augustus G. Holloway who bought an acre of land in Marion in April, 1860, and sold it fifteen days later. No further rec. Prob. pre-deceased his father leaving no direct heirs.

Up to the present time, despite repeated efforts, even to running an article in the Marion "Star" of 30 May, 1947, we have been unable to make contact with a single descendant of Dr. George Holloway. The only possibility of there being any would seem to lie with his daughter Elizabeth. The probate court at Marion stated they have no record of any estate under the name of Elizabeth C. Bean.

NOTE. Among the papers of the late George A. Holloway, grandson of Dr. George[5] Holloway's brother [35] Cyrus[5] Holloway, there is a memo. stating that Dr. Holloway had a daughter who married ——— Bean, and sons Augustus and Peter. This memo. probably came from Clayton Dill.

35. CYRUS[5] HOLLOWAY (Peter[4], William[3], Malachi[2]), born 29 December, 1786, at Shelburne, Mass., died 8 January, 1842, at Sylvania, Lucas County, Ohio. About 1814 he removed to Bristol, Ontario County, New York, where he bought land on the 29th of December in that year.

In October, 1816, he also bought some property in Canandaigua, New York, from his brother Gooding Holloway, but sold it a few months later. In December, 1816, he was a witness to the will of Benoni Beach of Bristol.

In June, 1817, he evidently entertained his brother, Dr. William Holloway, then on his way to western New York, for in that month they signed a joint note at Bristol for the benefit of their cousin, Josiah[5] Holloway, of Conway, Mass.*

Cyrus Holloway sold his farm in Bristol to Isaac Case in February, 1823, and removed to the western part of the state. Just where he settled here is uncertain. A history of Hillsdale County, Michigan, published during the lifetime of his son, Frederick M. Holloway, says that when the latter was about ten years old his father removed to Genesee County, New York, where during the next several years he cleared 200 acres of land, and erected buildings.

An obituary notice of his son, Harrison L. Holloway, however, says that he (Harrison L.) was born in Alden, "Genesee County", New York, and Alden is in Erie County just over the Genesee County line. While Cyrus Holloway's sister, Elizabeth, the wife of Dr. John Harrington, lived in that town, the Erie County records do not show Cyrus Holloway's name either as grantee or grantor, and those of Genesee County are equally blank regarding him as stated in letters received from their respective Registries of Deeds.

Late in March, 1833, Cyrus Holloway started out for the third time to seek a new home, his son, Frederick, accompanying him. They made Buffalo by wagon the first day, but finding the harbor full of ice and no steamer available, they went on to Dunkirk. It took them two days to make this forty mile trip, and when it was accomplished, they were delayed there three days more while waiting for a boat.

Finally they boarded the steamer Niagara for Detroit, but soon afterwards ran into such a furious storm of gale and snow that the vessel had to put into Erie which it made with much difficulty. Here two more days were spent waiting for the storm to subside, and in having certain repairs made on the steamer. At last the Niagara set forth again, only to run into a succession of gales with which it battled for six days before reaching Detroit.

After this trying experience Cyrus Holloway and his son spent about a month travelling through the area southwest of Detroit before they came to a place that suited them as the site for the new home. This lay in what was soon to be Sylvania, Ohio, but then known as Whiteford, Michigan. They camped in the woods there for six weeks while building a log house, and then the father returned to New York state to bring on his family.

It is likely the property he bought in Sylvania, in company with John Harroun early in 1834, included the ground on which he had built in the summer of '33. He took over Harroun's interest not long afterwards. That he was highly regarded by his fellow pioneers is evidenced by their selecting him as one of the first Commissioners of Lucas County when it was organized in 1835.

Cyrus Holloway, his wife, and several of their children are buried in the Association Cemetery at Sylvania. He left no will of record, and no administration of his estate appears. While he had ten sons, only two of them, as far as known, have carried the name along. His descendants are widely scattered, but are most numerous in Wisconsin. They include an unusual percentage of college graduates, and men who have achieved prominence in various lines.

Cyrus[5] Holloway married at Conway, Mass., 30 April, 1812, Pamela Tobey, who was born 23 March, 1789, and died at Sylvania, Ohio, 27 August, 1850, the daughter of Prince and Jane (Delano) Tobey—the youngest of their fifteen children.*

From our record of Cyrus Holloway's migrations it would seem that after the birth of his first child at Shelburne, Mass., the next six were born in Bristol, New York, the next five at, or near, Alden, New York, and the last one at Sylvania, Ohio.

Combining the records of this family now in the possession of Cyrus Holloway's descendants, Mrs. William H. Martin, of Seattle, Washington, and Mr. Harry Cyrus Holloway, of Glencoe, Illinois, we can set down the children of Cyrus[5] and Pamela (Tobey) Holloway as follows:

i. Thomas Delano[6], b. 20 Jany., 1813; d. 18 Mch. (or 17 May), 1871, Sylvania; m. (1), 30 Dec., 1841, in Richfield twsp., Ohio, Araminta Wood Wilkeson; (2), in Blissfield, Mich., in 1851, Harriet Southard; (3), Caroline Judd. No rec. of any ch. No estate under his name in Lucas County Probate rec.

66. ii. Frederick Madison, b. 18 Jany., 1815; m. Sybil B. Bassett.

67. iii. Oristen, b. 27 Aug., 1816; m. Elizabeth Wood.

iv. Alpheus S., b. 19 Feby., 1818. A soldier in the war with Mexico, he d. there in the hospital at Pueblo, in Sept., 1847.

v. Christina I., b. 13 July, 1819; d. 21 Aug., 1836, Sylvania, Ohio.

vi. Cyrus, Jr., b. 13 Mch., 1821; d. 1 Nov., 1874; m. 1853, Mary Lawrence. No issue.

vii. Elijah T., b. 23 Mch., 1823; d. 9 Mch., 1865, Penn Yan, N.Y.; m. 25 Mch., 1857, Ruth T. Weed. No issue. It is said he had gone to California as leader of a band of rangers, arriving there fifteen days ahead of Fremont. He returned via the Isthmus of Panama, and went into the gas and oil business. The surrogate's records of Yates County, N.Y. state his widow, Ruth T. Holloway, and his brother, Harrison Holloway, were appointed to administer his estate. In her petition the widow stated he "left no child nor descendant."

viii. George, b. 7 Oct., 1824; d. 16 Aug., 1838, Sylvania, Ohio.

ix. Pamela T., b. 15 July, 1826; m. David Long, 19 Oct., 1846. No further rec. except that he d. 21 Feby., 1882.

x. Albert, b. 26 Mch. (May), 1828; d. 5 Sept., 1860, Franklin Parish, La. He m. 22 Feby., 1854, Electa Allen, and had a dau. Addie[7], who m. George Bondman.

xi. Jane E., b. 12 Oct. 1830; m. 18 Oct. 1855, Stephen J. Springer of Toledo, Ohio. He was sheriff of Lucas County, 1855-57, and died in Toledo, 17 Aug., 1860. They had two ch. (Springer): 1. Lewis D.,[7] and 2. Elizabeth.

*As stated in the Tobey Genealogy. The work called American Ancestry, says she was the daughter of Elisha and Jane Tobey, but we believe this erroneous.

xii. Harrison Lewis, b. 8 Oct., 1832. He was enrolled as 1st. Lieutenant in Co. F, 47th Regt., Ohio Volunteer Infantry on 15 June, 1861. Resigned 23 Jany., 1862. Re-enlisted 19 Nov., 1862, as 1st. Lieut. in the 21st Independent Battery, Ohio Light Artillery, but resigned the following 23rd December. Harrison L. Holloway m. 7 Dec., 1871, Mrs. Mary Jane[7] (Holloway) Gilbert, widow of Dr. Alonzo Gilbert, and dau. of his cousin [58] Herbert[6] Holloway. No issue.

xiii. Joseph Tobey, b. 28 Aug., 1834. As in the case of his oldest brother, Thomas D. Holloway, we have been unable to get trace of his descendants, if any. Mr. Harry C. Holloway's record states he m. Elvira Hawkins, but Mrs. Martin's gives her name as Elvira Haskins, and goes on to say the wedding took place on 4 Feby., 1864, at Mokelumne Hill, Calaveras County, Calif. The Probate records there however, have no estate under his name and what became of him is at present unknown.

36. Gooding[5] Holloway (Peter[4], William[3], Malachi[2]), was born at Shelburne, Mass., 17 April, 1792. He bought land in Canandaigua, New York, in June, 1816, and sold it to his brother, Cyrus[5] Holloway, three months later. No wife appeared as a co-signer in passing this title.

Just when he removed to Ohio is uncertain. His nephew, the late Peter[6] Holloway, 3rd, stated years ago that Gooding Holloway settled in Miamisburg. The registry of deeds for that county—Montgomery—shows that he bought half of lot 60 in Miamisburg from J. Kreiger on 2 June, 1833.

He had evidently been there for some time previous however, for at the first election held in the town after its incorporation he was elected mayor on 7 May, 1832, receiving 86 of the 88 votes cast.

A year later, in the outlying township of Miamisburg he was chosen one of the fence viewers. Gooding[5] Holloway continued living there until sometime in 1839 when on 11 March, he sold his property to J. T. Janiver, his wife Maria joining with him in signing the deed.

What became of them afterwards is unknown. The Census records of Miamisburg in 1840 do not show this family and the county's probate records are equally silent. The late Clayton Dill said he had the names of some of their children, but we did not find them among his papers now with Harry Seymour Holloway of Whitehouse, Ohio.

37. JOHN[5] HOLLOWAY (Peter[4] William[3], Malachi[2]), born at Shelburne, Mass., 28 August, 1796, and died at Lancaster, Wis., 1 June, 1867. He was a prosperous farmer at York, Livingston County, New York, the greater part of his life, where he was a Supervisor of the town for several years.

An entry in the diary of Moses Long of York under date of 4 July, 1867, notes the death of Col. John Holloway at Lancaster, Wisconsin, formerly of York, and goes on to say "he was born in Massachusetts, coming to York in 1824 where he lived to 1864 when he emigrated to Wisconsin where all the family, except one daughter, already resided." Just how John[5] Holloway acquired his military title does not appear, but it was probably from service in the state militia.

The will of John Holloway on file in the Grant County Court, at Lancaster, Wisconsin, names sons, John C., and Lewis; daughters, Sarah, wife of Isaac Hayward; Elvira, wife of George W. Ryland, and Lucy M. Holloway. There were also named his grandchildren, Harriet and Lewis Hayward, and John, Frank, Adelaide and Theodore Holloway, the children of John C. Holloway.

John[5] Holloway's wife was Lucy E. — probably Chandler, if there is any significance to be attached to the name they gave their son, John Chandler Holloway, as shown by a deed they made him in 1848. She is buried in the Forks cemetery south of York Center, the inscription on her gravestone stating she died 20 January, 1864, aged 63 years, 1 month 5 days.

Issue, born in York, New York:

i. Sarah[6] was attending the Leroy (N.Y.) Seminary in 1842. She m. 30 Apr. 1844, Isaac L. Hayward. Issue (Hayward): 1. Harriet[7], 2. Lewis.

68. ii. John Chandler, b. ab. 1827; m. Mary E. Baldwin.

iii. Elvira, b. 1829; m. 9 May, 1860, George W. Ryland, of Lancaster, Wis. The probate records there indicate they had no ch.

iv. Lewis, b. 1833. His parents deeded him property in 1857 but no rec. exists showing what disposition was made of it. The 1860 census of York lists Lewis Holloway, farmer, aged 27, with family consisting of Cornelia Holloway, aged 26. They are said to have had no ch.

v. Daniel B., b. Sept., 1835; d. 14 Mch., 1837, aged 1 yr., 6 mos.

vi. Lucy M., b. 1839. (Aged 21 in 1860 census). She m. Dr. Ham. Barber, and d. in Lancaster, Wis. One dau. Elva[7] (Barber), who m. ——— Bailey, and left three sons.

SIXTH GENERATION

38. ELIZABETH[6] HOLLOWAY (Nathan[5], Nathan[4], Nathaniel[3], Samuel[2]), born at Middleboro, Mass., in the 1750's, died probably at Sutton, Mass.—no date.

The published vital records of Rochester, Mass., note the marriage of Timothy "Hewet" and Elizabeth "Holowell" on 18 August, 1774—five days after the deed already mentioned in which Elizabeth's father referred to Hewett as his son-in-law. No births or deaths of the Hewett's children are of record in Rochester.

The Hewetts removed to Worcester County, Mass., probably at the same time Nathan[5] Holloway went there (1777), and settled near him in the adjoining town of Sutton in 1780. At that time they were recorded as of Oxford. Elizabeth was living as late as November, 1814, when she joined her husband in passing title to land in Sutton to Nathan Hewett. These Worcester County deeds also note a Timothy Hewett, Jr., of Sutton.

We do not find Hewett's name in the published records of Massachusetts soldiers in the Revolution listed either as Timothy Hewett or under any of the variant spellings thereof.

The U.S. Census of Massachusetts in 1790 has but one Timothy Hewett. Recorded as Timothy "Hewet," of Sutton, he appears as the head of a family which besides himself and wife consisted of two males under 16, and four females.

The Worcester County probate records show that Leonard Pierce petitioned for administration on the estate of Timothy "Hewitt" of Sutton, 1 June, 1833.

The published vital records of that town while listing no births nor deaths of his children, have some marriages which no doubt relate to four of them as follows:

i. Timothy[7] (Hewett), Jr., m. (1), 16 Oct., 1796, Prudence Jones. She d. 25 June, 1809, and he m. (2), 27 Apr., 1810, Molly Blake. She d. 4 Jany, 1817, and he m. (3), int. ent., 12 Apr., 1817; Polly Hill, of Douglas.

ii. Nathan, m. 26 Mch., 1805, Polly Tracy. They had a son Enoch Winslow[8] Hewett, b. 8 July, 1811.

iii. Rhoda. The mar. int. of Rhoda Hewett, of Sutton with William Sprague were ent. at Douglas, Mass., 19 Apr., 1803.

iv. Dolly, m. 10 Sept., 1809, Ira Taft.

v. Daughter. No record beyond census listing.

vi. Daughter. No record beyond census listing.

39. Sarah[6] Holloway (Nathan[5], Nathan[4], Nathaniel[3], Samuel[2]), was born in the 1750's at Middleboro, Mass., and died, in all likelihood, at Wilmington, Vt.

The published vital records of Rochester, Mass., have the marriage of Sarah "Hollowell" (intentions as Holloway) to David Winslow, 14 December, 1774, and note the birth of David, son of Edward, 3rd, and Eleanor Winslow, on 12 October, 1756.

The Winslow Memorial [Vol. 1, p. 524 et seq.] gives his birth and his marriage to Sarah "Hollowell" as above noted, and states his mother was Eleanor Price. His wife's parentage is not mentioned.

According to this Memorial David and Sarah had issue (Winslow):

i. (Dea.) Enoch[7], b. 16 June, 1775, Rochester, Mass.; d. 30 June, 1856. He m. Polly Easton and had eleven ch. His dau., Susan[8] (Winslow), b. 1813, Wilmington, Vt., m. Hiram Thomas, b. 1808, Stamford, N.Y., son of Abraham and Lydia (Holloway) Thomas. They had a son, Holloway Winslow[9] Thomas, b. 1836, Stamford, N.Y., who was living at Athens, Pa. in 1873. We suspect the Lydia Holloway, mentioned here, was a sister of [39] Sarah[6] Holloway, but have no evidence to prove such was the case.

ii. Tisdale, b. 7 July, 1785, Douglas, Mass., d. 11 Feby., 18——, Wilmington, Vt., m. Philena Thrasher.

iii. Rhoda, d. ae. 27, Wilmington, Vt.

This list is probably far from complete. The Winslow Memorial gives much space to the descendants of Deacon Enoch Winslow, and of his brother, Tisdale.

The Worcester County, Mass., Deeds show that David Winslow, of Douglas, bought land there in 1786 and in 1787, an Edward Winslow witnessing one of the deeds. He sold the land there to Samuel Lee, Jr., in November, 1792, at which time he stated he was of Wilmington, Vt. No wife joined with him in this sale, although in a preceding one he had made two years earlier, while still a resident of Douglas, his wife, Sarah, was a co-signer with him. (Worcester County Deeds, Books 101, p. 481; 128, p. 542; 135, p. 366).

These deeds also note that Edward and Noble Winslow of Douglas sold land there to Samuel Lee, Jr., in 1793.

The Douglas Vital Records contain no references to the children of David and Sarah[6] (Holloway) Winslow.

The U.S. Census of Vermont in 1790 does not contain the name of David Winslow, and the only one in the Massachusetts census of that year was a resident of Freetown.

40. Asa[6] Holloway (Josiah[5], Josiah[4], Nathaniel[3], Samuel[2]), was born in Middleboro, Mass., in the section of the town afterwards set off as as Lakeville. The inscription on his gravestone in the Staples Burying Ground on Seekell Street in East Taunton, Mass., gives his date of birth as 4 July, 1768, and that of his death, as 15 January, 1850. He was a farmer by occupation.

The published vital records of Taunton note that Asa Holloway and Silence Dean, "both of Middleboro", were married, 23 April, 1797. Family records in the possession of their great-great-grandson, Mr. John W. Holloway, of Pleasantville, N.Y., state she was born 9 August, 1778, and died 11 March, 1866, a daughter of Isaac and Rachel (Staples) Dean.

The U.S. Census of Fall River, Mass., in 1850 notes Silence Holloway, aged 71, was living with John and Hannah Thurston, both aged 49—evidently her son-in-law and daughter. She is buried beside her husband in the Staples Cemetery. A road nearby bears the name of Holloway Street.

i. Mercy Dean[7], b. 30 Jany., 1798; no further rec. See Note.
ii. Hannah D., b. 1 June, 1799; m. 1827, John Thurston, b. 8 Dec., 1800; d. 17 Mch., 1873, son of Jonathan and Sarah (Luther) Thurston. No issue.
69. iii. John, b. 25 Jany., 1801; m. Meribah Shaw.
iv. Asa Patten, b. 9 June, 1804; No further rec. See Note.
v. Lorenzo Dow, b. 24 Mch., 1806; d. prob. before 1810. See Note.
70. vi. Betsey Allen, b. 3 Oct., 1807; m. Otis G. Keith.
71. vii. Sophronia, b. 26 Mch., 1810; m. Nathan B. Babbitt. viii. Eliphalet Dean, b. 24 Nov., 1811; d. in Taunton, 1833, when his father and his brother John requested that Ethan Pearce of Middleboro be appt. admr. of his est. No rec. of any mar.
ix. Rachel Dean, b. 26 Oct., 1814. No further rec. She was living in 1820.
x. Tiley Maria, b. 30 Apr., 1817; d. 13 June, 1818.
xi. Daniel Hix, b. 25 Nov., 1818; d. 9 Mar., 1819.
72. xii. Benjamin Francis, b. 16 Mch., 1821; m. Harriet L. Cole.
73. xiii. Edwin Martin, b. 28 Jany., 1825; m. Mary A. ————.

Note. The U.S. Census records of Middleboro, Mass., for the years of 1800, 1810 and 1820, credit Asa Holloway with two female children under 10 in his family in 1800; two under 10, and two from 10 to 16 in 1810; one under 10, two from 10 to 16, and two from 16 to 26 in 1820.

A comparison of these listings with his family record as noted indicate there had been no mortality among his daughters as far as concerns those counted in these three enumerations, so it is safe to assume the oldest one, Mercy Dean, was still living with her parents, and unmarried, as late as 1820.

A different condition exists among Asa Holloway's sons. In the census of 1810 only two males under 10 years of age are listed in his family although three had been born to him from 1801 to 1806. Evidently one of these must have been deceased before 1810, although we have no record of his death.

That this one was Lorenzo is indicated by the 1820 census which lists no male between 10 and 16 in the family, whereas Lorenzo, if he had lived, would then have been 14 years old at that time. Each of the other sons then, Eliphalet, Asa, and John, falls into his proper age group as carried in that enumeration.

Authorities besides those mentioned: Thurston Genealogies (Second Ed., 1892), p. 556. Hannah Holloway's parentage is not stated in this work. Bristol County, Mass., Probate records, Book 73, p. 325.

41. Isaac[6] Holloway (Josiah[5], Josiah[4], Nathaniel[3], Samuel[2]), was born in Middleboro, Mass., 10 July, 1770, for his age at the time of his death there—15 October, 1848,—is given on the town records as seventy-eight years, three months and five days. Those dates check exactly with those given on his gravestone.

Isaac Holloway seems to have been in fairly good circumstances for in the various land records we have found regarding him he is designated as "gentleman." In one of these, in transferring some property to Oliver Peirce in 1820, he describes it "as a part of the homestead farm of my father, Josiah Holloway, deceased."

The original of another deed in which he sold a tract of land to his brother Asa in 1818, bearing his autograph signature as well as his wife's, is now in the possession of Asa Holloway's great-great-grandson, Mr. John W. Holloway, of Pleasantville, N.Y.

Hurd's History of Plymouth County, Mass. [pp. 313, 1015], states that Isaac Holloway was commissioned Lieutenant of Middleboro's Seventh Company of Militia in 1802 but resigned about five years later when a man from the ranks was elected Captain.

Isaac[6] Holloway married at Middleboro, 15 May, 1793, Lois Peirce, daughter of Abraham and Priscilla (Reed) Peirce, her mother being a descendant of Richard Warren, one of the passengers on the "Mayflower." Lois (Peirce) Holloway died 3 March, 1842, aged 72 years.

Isaac Holloway, his wife, and their daughter, Lois, are buried in a neglected graveyard adjoining what is known as the Peirce, or Pierce cemetery, also called the Parris Hill cemetery, in South Lakeville, Mass., a few rods east of the main highway from Taunton to New Bedford. Substantial slabs of white mable mark their final resting places. That of Isaac Holloway, besides his name, bears only the dates of his birth and death, but that of his wife, inscribed "Lois, wife of Isaac Holloway," followed by the date of her death and her age as already noted, adds a passage of Scripture:

"Blessed are the dead which lie in the Lord," and then four lines of comfort and of hope,

"Oh weep not for her who has gone to her rest,
To the land of the faithful, the home of the Blest,
Where Joy knows no change, where the day knows no night,
Where the Glory of God is the fountain of light."

Isaac and Lois (Peirce) Holloway had issue, born in Middleboro, Mass., as noted in the town records:

i. Experience[7], b. 27 Feby., 1794; her int. of mar. with Nathaniel Haskins, of Berkley, was entered at Taunton, 9 July, 1814. He was son of Henry and Abigail (Townsend) Haskins, according to Peirce's Contributions [p. 161], which lists Experience's ch. [pp. 181-2] as Nathaniel (Jr.), Abigail, Jane, Elizabeth and Charles. The vital records of Berkley and of Taunton do not list this family, and the land and probate records of Bristol county are equally blank regarding them.

ii. Lois, b. 18 May, 1795; m. Benjamin Parris. Her gravestone, adjacent to that of her parents, states that "Lois Holloway, wife of Benjamin 'Parish,' died Nov. 12, 1858." We have no rec. of their ch., if any. The Plymouth County, Mass., Probate records have an intestate est. of Benjamin Parris, of Middleboro, in 1835. Inventory amongst the papers was signed by Lois Parris. No list appears of heirs-at-law and next of kin.

iii. Sabra, b. 16 May, 1799; m. Calvin Chase, of Middleboro. The vital records there list three children of theirs: 1. Marcus Morton[8] (Chase), b. 21 Dec., 1819. 2. Eunice Peirce, b. 3 Mch., 1822. 3. Sarah, b. 1 Jany., 1824. No further rec.

74. iv. Isaac Gerry, b. 17 July, 1801; m. Eliza Barden.

v. Almeda, b. 19 Sept., 1806; m. Seth Cummings at Middleboro, 20 Feby., 1824. No further rec. The intestate est. of a Seth Cummings of Middleboro was probated in 1844, but the papers filed do not name any heirs-at-law and next of kin.

Authorities besides those noted: Plymouth County, Mass., deeds, Books 140, pp. 156-7; 155, p. 244; Ebenezer W. Peirce's The Peirce Family of the Old Colony (1870), p. 154 (footnote), and p. 395. Middleboro vital records (Book 4, p. 173) for Isaac Holloway's marriage. Letters from Probate Registry at Plymouth regarding Benjamin Parris and Seth Cummings.

42. Seth[6] Holloway or Hallowell (William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), obviously named for his father's brother, Seth, who died in December, 1772, was born about 1773, probably in Bridgewater, Mass., where his parents had been married the year before. The U.S. Census of 1850 found him at Monmouth, Maine, living in the family of his son, William. At that time his age was given at 77, and his birthplace as Massachusetts.

As this statement was no doubt made to the census taker by Seth himself we may consider it more reliable than the one in the record of the death of his son, William, which says that Seth was born in Scarborough, Maine, or that in the like record of his son, George, which gives Leeds, Maine, as Seth's birthplace. While Maine was part of Massachusetts at the time Seth Hallowell was born, yet we think if his birth had occurred within the confines of the present state he would have so named it.

After his parents' removal to Hallowell, Maine, about the year 1783, Seth lived with them there until his marriage in 1794. Subsequently he may have lived in Sidney, Maine, for some years, then in Windsor until his first wife died when he removed to Leeds, Maine, and started another family.*

Seth Hallowell owned property on Three Mile Pond in Windsor, adjoining that of his father's as noted in a deed he made to his brother, John, in 1805. He sold some more land to Jonathan Tyler in 1809, and on 22 July, 1816, gave a mortgage deed on certain Windsor property to Benjamin Whitwell and John Pitts. His wife, Rachel, signed this deed with him. On the day preceding, James Hallowell and Jonathan Wight had executed a mortgage on the same property to James Brinley, payable to Benjamin Whitewell and John Pitts. So we have no hesitancy in setting down James Hallowell as a son of Seth. (Kennebec County, Me., Deeds, viii, 438-9; xvi, 19, xxv, 318, xxii, 474).

The records of Leeds, Maine, note that Seth Hallowell died there in 1852—which accounts for his not being included among his parents' surviving children who a year later were paid the little balance due their mother on her pension as the widow of a soldier in the Revolutionary War. The record of his death also notes that Seth Hallowell was husband of Mary Trask, and that he was buried in the Pine Plains Cemetery but without any marker.

Seth Hallowell and Rachel Tyler, both of Hallowell, Maine, had their marriage intentions entered there 15 March, 1794. A certificate was issued them two weeks later, and they were married, probably at Sidney, Maine, by the Rev. Asa Wilbur of that town, 31 March, 1794. (Hallowell and Sidney vital records, also Register, Vol. 87, pp. 231 & 240).

Mrs. Rachel (Tyler) Hallowell must have died not long after signing that deed with her husband in July, 1816, for his first child by his second wife, Mary Trask, was born in January, 1818. We do not have the record of this marriage but it no doubt took place in 1817.

The vital records of Leeds, Maine, note the death of Mary Trask, wife of Seth Hallowell, and daughter of "Biser" Trask, on 15 October, 1841.

It is of interest to note in this connection that the published vital records of Bridgewater, Mass. [Vol. 2, p. 373] in listing Trask marriages mention "Trask, Abizer (see Ebenezer)" and then note that of Ebenezer Trask "[int. Abizer] of Hallowell, Lincoln County [now Kennebec County, Me.] to Polly Downing, 10 December, 1788 [in Middleboro?]." List of their children does not appear, but they were undoubtedly the parents of Seth Hallowell's second wife, who from his family record must have been much younger than he.

That Seth[6] Hallowell had a third wife seems evident for the records of Windsor, Maine, show that Seth Hallowell married Mrs. Mary Trask, 21 June, 1842—less than eight months after the death of his second wife at Leeds.* As Seth Hallowell's mother was also a Mary Trask, this name seems to have had quite a fascination for him.

*The census taken there in 1820 calls him Seth "Hollowel," and indicates he had two of his youngest sons by his first wife with him. The Leeds census of 1830 lists him as Seth "Holoway".

Seth Hallowell left no will, nor is there any administration of his estate. While we have good record of his seven children by his second wife, we have not been so fortunate with those by the first. Only two of their names, John's and Hiram's, appear on the records of Windsor as children of Seth and Rachel. That their eldest son was James, we are very certain, and there can be no question as to Seth, Jr., whose name is so given in his marriage record. While Polly and Lydia Hallowell, from such information as we have regarding them, could not possibly have been the children of any of the brothers of Seth[6] Hallowell, Sr., the names we have suggested for the other two daughters he had, as indicated by the census of his family in 1810,† are entirely conjectural. More definitely, the Robert Hallowell of the Windsor record in 1839, would seem to belong here.

From such direct and circumstantial evidences as we have, we can set down the children of Seth[6] Hallowell as follows:

Issue by first wife, Rachel Tyler:

75. i. James[7], b. ab. 1795; m. Priscilla Robbins.

ii. Polly, b. ab. 1796. The rec. of China, Me., state that Aaron Davis and Polly Hallowell, both of China, were m. there, 22 Nov., 1846. The U.S. Census of China in 1850 lists Aaron Davis, ae. 50, with family consisting of Polly Davis, ae. 54, Aaron, Jr., 22, and two daus. Aaron and Polly Davis, Sr., do not appear in the 1860 Census of China. She was his sec. wf., his first having been Sarah W. Kinney—as stated by Mrs. Emma Wilson, of Saco, Me., gr. dau. of Aaron Davis, Jr.

iii. Lydia (under 10 in 1810). The rec. of Windsor, Me., note the mar. int. of John Rogers and Lydia Hallowell were ent. there, Jany., 1820, also those of John Bowen and Lydia Hallowell on the 16th of the following June. They were m. that year by William Hilton, Jr. No further rec.‡

76. iv. Seth, Jr., b. ab. 1802; m. Abigail Robbins.

v. Daughter (under 10 in 1810) [Ruth, m. ——— Whitney? See Note 1.]

*This marriage could not have been that of Seth Hallowell, Jr., who married Abigail Robbins in 1828, and with whom he was still living as late as 1870 as shown by the census records.

†The transcript of this Census at the State Library in Augusta credits Seth Hallowell, of Windsor, with family consisting of one male under 10, one between 10 and 16, and three females under 10, besides himself and wife. This record does not accord with what information we have regarding his family at that time for both his sons, Seth, Jr., and John were under ten years of age in that year, and the daughter, Polly, was fourteen. It also indicates he then had two daughters besides Lydia under ten, but their names are unknown to us at present.

‡As these two records of marriage intentions were sent me at different times there is the possibility here that two interpretations might have been made of the same poorly written original record.

vi. Daughter (under 10 in 1810) [Joanna, m. Nathaniel French? See Note 2].

77. vii. John, b. 8 Feby., 1808; m. Eliza Day.

78. viii. Hiram, b. 28 Jany., 1811; m. twice.

ix. Robert(?). The vital records of Windsor, Me., have the mar. int. of Robert Hallowell and Jane Peva entered 18-31 August, 1839. No further rec. We cannot place this Robert elsewhere. As Seth Hallowell's first wife was living as late as 1816 when she signed a deed with her husband, she might well have had one or two more children born after Hiram. It should be noted that John and Eliza (Day) Hallowell named a son, Robert R.

Issue by second wife, Mary Trask, from records of Leeds, Maine:

79. x. Rhoda, b. 12 Jany., 1818; m. Abner Burnham, Jr.

80. xi. William H., b. 9 Mch., 1820; m. Eliza Ann Fish.

81. xii. Betsey, b. 16 Apr., 1821; m. Uriah Libby.

xiii. Isaac, b. 29 Aug., 1822. No further rec. Prob. d. young, though Leeds census of 1830 indicates he was living then.

82. xiv. George Washington, b. 9 July, 1824; m. Martha Jane Sturtevant.

83. xv. Lafayette, b. 4 Apr., 1827; m. Nancy G. Fish.

xvi. Thomas Jefferson, b. 9 Apr., 1829, was living with his brother William in Monmouth, Me., in 1850. He was unm. at that time, and it is doubtful if he ever had a wife. The next U.S. census, taken in 1860, finds "Jefferson" Hallowell, insane, "aged 36," among the inmates of the almshouse at Leeds, Me. His name does not appear in the 1870 census of Leeds and it is probable he had died in the meantime.

Note 1. The Tyler Genealogy (1912) makes no mention of the marriage of Seth Holloway (Hallowell) to Rachel Tyler but in Vol. 1 [pp. 144-146 and 297-8] notes a Nathaniel Tyler, born about 1744, who married Rebecca Sherloc(k) and had fourteen children, the oldest born in 1785, at Sidney, Me. The eighth child, Rachel, it is stated, married Rev. Josiah Halloway. Neither the date of her birth nor of her alleged marriage is given, but in any case this Rachel must have been born seven or eight years after Seth Hallowell married his wife of the same name.

The Tyler Genealogy credits Josiah and Rachel (Tyler) Halloway with four children, Rev. James, John, Seth, and Ruth, who married a Whitney. There is evidently much confusion here for we know that Seth Holloway—or Hallowell—had sons so named and that James was a minister. The daughter, Ruth, could also have been his, although no such marriage appears in the Whitney genealogies.

The Kennebec County records make no reference to any Josiah Hallowell until 1842, when there is mention of him selling land to Jonas Proctor. Josiah's wife was Keziah Young.

Note 2. The published vital records of Belfast, Maine, note the marriage intentions of Joanna "Hollaway" and Nathaniel French were entered there between 15 July and 15 August, 1835.

John H. Hallowell, son of Hiram, and grandson of Seth, married Nancy French in Belfast in 1849.

Abigail "Hollaway", parentage unknown, married James H. Witham in Belfast in 1853.

Hiram Hallowell married a second wife in 1843. John H. Hallowell was his son by his first wife. Abigail may have been a daughter. It is just possible that after their mother's death these children were brought up in Belfast by an aunt, Joanna ("Hollaway") French.

John Hallowell

Mercy (Leonard) Hallowell

43. JOHN[6] HOLLOWAY—or HALLOWELL (William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born at Bridgewater, Mass., 1 October, 1780. When he was about three years of age, his parents removed to Hallowell, Maine, remaining there about ten years. The family then went up the Kennebec river some twenty miles and settled in the town of Sidney which was then but sparsely populated.

The earliest record we have of John[6] Holloway there is that of his marriage to Mercy Leonard on 4 November, 1802. According to the family record which lists their children, and his date of birth as above noted, she was born 25 February, 1786. That she was the daughter of Caleb Leonard, of Sidney, a Revolutionary War pensioner, formerly of Middleboro, Mass., is strongly indicated not only by Caleb and Lucy Leonard appearing as witnesses to a deed given John Hallowell by his brother Seth in 1805, but also by John and Mercy naming one of their sons Caleb, a name which had never appeared in the Holloway family before.

The Kennebec County, Maine, deeds show that John[6] Holloway continued living in Sidney until about 1811 when he appears as a resident of Malta (Windsor), Maine, as stated in the record of his purchase of land there from his brother Joel on the 15th of June in that year. In the previous October he was still recorded as of Sidney when purchasing two other tracts of land in Malta from his brother William "Halloway," Jr., and from his brother-in-law Jonas Proctor.

These two deeds, as well as some later ones, call him John "Halloway," so the transition of his name to "Hallowell" does not seem to have been established immediately. In fact, as late as 1853 when he signed receipt for the arrears of pension due his mother as the widow of a Revolutionary soldier, his name is written as "Halloway." This, however, may have been done for legal reasons, for his name appears as "Hallowell" in the census of 1850.

Record of John[6] Hallowell's death has not been found, but he was living as late as 1860 when he was listed in the U.S. Census of Windsor, Maine, as aged 79. As this census was taken in the summer of that year his age as then noted checks with his date of birth given in the family record, inasmuch as he would not have been eighty until the following October. This census shows but one member of his family left with him—Mercy Hallowell, whose age, given as 74 years, also checks with his wife's date of birth as above noted.

The census of Windsor taken ten years earlier gave his occupation as farmer, his age as 68, Mercy's as 64. Their three youngest sons were then living with them, and were listed as Caleb Hallowell, farmer, aged 28; Daniel Hallowell, blacksmith, aged 22; Enoch Hallowell, wheelwright, aged 20.

Both John[6] Hallowell and his son John[7], Jr., were deacons of the Baptist Church in Windsor.

According to a family record made by their grandson Millard F.[8] Hallowell, and now in possession of the present writer, John[6] and Mercy (Leonard) Holloway—or Hallowell—had the following children —surname Hallowell—first three born at Sidney, others at Windsor, Maine:

84. i. Nancy[7], b. 1 Mch., 1805; m. Ezekiel Peva.
85. ii. Mary, b. 19 Feby., 1807; m. Enoch Merrill.
86. iii. Mercy, b. 22 June, 1809; m. Dennis Trask.
87. iv. Leonard, b. 11 Nov., 1811; m. Mary Gaslin.
88. v. Lucy, b. 1 May, 1814; m. Nathaniel Merrill.
89. vi. Hannah, b. 1 Feby., 1817; m. Nathan Thorne.
90. vii. John, Jr., b. 12 Jany., 1820; m. Betsey Gaslin.
viii. Caleb, b. 1 Jany., 1822; m. 12 June, 1851, Emeline Jones, b. 1 Mch., 1824, d. 4 Mch., 1901, dau. of Michael and Fanny (Wright) Jones. His own death occurred the day following his wife's decease. The Prob. rec. of Kennebec County indicate they had no ch.,* and this is confirmed by the U.S. Census of Windsor in 1860 which lists him, aged 38, with no family besides Emeline, aged 35.
91. ix. Adeline, b. 25 Nov., 1824; m. George Linn.
92. x. Daniel Proctor, b. 30 June, 1827; m. Agnes Atherton.
93. xi. Enoch Merrill, b. 15 Nov., 1829; m. Mary Atherton.

Note. It is possible the above listing includes only those children who survived infancy and childhood, for the records of Windsor in noting this entire family at pages 92 and 397 of Volume 1—with the usual discrepancies in dates—adds George Wight—or Wright—born 15 July, 1815, died 13 January, 1820; Samuel Wight, born 3 April, 1820, or 1821(?), "died then," and Malinda Abigail—or Malinda and Abigail—born 15 May, 1821(?).

While George W. might have been a member of this family, coming between Lucy and Hannah, there is no room for the others if we have their correct dates of births, as well as those of John, Jr.'s, and Caleb Hallowell's. It has been suggested these problem children might have been Wights and not Hallowells.

44. William[6] Holloway or Hallowell, Jr. (William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), born probably late in 1781, Bridgewater, Mass., died at Windsor, Maine, 16 November, 1848, aged 67. Our earliest records of him are those of his purchase of land from his father in 1803 as already noted and of his marriage to Catherine Proctor at Windsor, Me., 21 August, 1807. Three years later he bought from the Plymouth Proprietors 106 acres of land on the west side of the western branch of the Sheepscot river, a tract which he sold to John

*The docket in regard to the estate of Caleb Hallowell is a valuable one, for it not only names his brother Daniel P. Hallowell, and gives his address as St. Paul, Minn., but it also lists twelve nephews and nieces as next of kin and gives their places of residence as well. Among those named are Florentius Hallowell, of Kearney, Nebr.; Frank Hallowell, of Newport, Me., and William Trask, of Windsor, Me.

Hunt in 1817. Both these deeds refer to him as William Hallowell, Jr., and the latter one was also signed by his wife, Catherine. In other deeds his name appears as William "Halloway", Jr.

William[6] Hallowell, Jr., was a farmer, and made his home at Windsor, Maine, for nearly all of his adult life. His wife, the daughter of Joel and Catherine (Blood) Proctor, was sister to Joel, Jr., and Jonas Proctor who married sisters of her husband. She died in Windsor, 22 August 1850, aged 60.

Under date of 30 April, 1849, Elijah G. Hallowell filed petition for the appointment of an administrator on the estate of William Hallowell, of Windsor, Maine, "who died last November," and Joseph Baker was so appointed in February, 1851.

Both William[6] Hallowell, Jr., and his wife are buried in the Baptist cemetery at Windsor, the inscriptions on their gravestones giving their dates of deaths, and ages, as above noted.

The U.S. Census of Windsor in 1810 lists William Hallowell, aged between 26 and 45, with family consisting of one female aged between 16 and 26, and one under 10. This well could have been a daughter, born about 1809, but oddly enough no such child is included in the list of nine children given in the Windsor records as those of William and Catherine Hallowell. As the first one named there was not born until four years after the parents' marriage it is more than likely there was an earlier child that died young, and failed to be recorded.

Other than this, the children of William[6], Jr. and Catherine (Proctor) Hallowell were as follows:

94. i. Elijah G.[7], b. 19 Apr. (or Sept.), 1811; m. Almira Studley.
ii. Betsey, b. 11 Oct., 1813; d. at Windsor, 10 Feby., 1890 (G.S.). She m. there, 22 Dec., 1832, Daniel Studley, Jr., who d. 30 Sept., 1877 (G.S.). That they had no ch.—or at least none that survived infancy, is indicated by the U.S. Census of Windsor in 1850, and by her will, dated 27 June, 1889. This document mentions only her brothers, Elijah G., and Lemuel; her sisters, Caroline V. Wyman, and Lucy Wyman, of Cedar Springs, Mich., and a son of Caroline's daughter Matilda.
iii. John H., b. 1 Jany., 1816; d. 26 Dec. 1835.
95. iv. William (3rd), b. 21 April, 1818; m. Rachel Merrill.
96. v. Lemuel, b. 25 Aug., 1820; m. Betsey Scates.
97. vi. Caroline V., b. 12 March, 1823; m. Daniel Wyman.
98. vii. Joseph Franklin, b. 1 (or 21) Dec., 1825; m. Sarah M. Wyman.
viii. Andrew, b. 8 July, 1827, d. 18 May, 1835.
99. ix. Lucy P., b. 15 Sept., 1829; m. Ora C. Wyman.*

*The three Wymans noted above do not appear in the Wyman Gen. They were brothers and sister, said to have been children of Edwin and Matilda (Gerrish) Wyman.

45. Molly[6] Hallowell (William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), born about 1784 (?) probably in Hallowell, Maine, had her marriage intentions with Joel Proctor, Jr., entered on the records of Vassalboro, Maine, 23 March, 1805. He was son of Joel and Caty (Blood) Proctor, born at Hollis, N.H., 28 June, 1784, and died 17 May, 1817.

Issue (Proctor), from records of Windsor, Maine:

i. Daniel[7], b. 13 Nov., 1805.
ii. Joel (3rd), b. 24 Apr., 1808.
iii. Mary, b. Jany., 1810.
iv. Betsey, b. 15 Mch., 1813.

46. Betsey[6] Hallowell (William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), born in 1786, probably in Hallowell, Maine, died 27 November, 1871, aged 85. (G.S.) She married, 23 July, 1809, Jonas Proctor, born 25 May, 1786, son of Joel and Caty (Blood) Proctor. He died 9 April, 1858. (G.S.)

Issue (Proctor), from records of Windsor, Maine:

i. Sally[7], b. 12 Nov., 1809; m. Elijah Robbins, 29 Aug., 1831.
ii. Lucinda, b. 4 Feby., 1812; m. James J. Trask, 10 Oct., 1830.
iii. William, b. 25 Feby., 1814; m. Saphrona Boynton.
iv. Jonas, Jr., b. 2 Sept., 1816; d. 12 Feby., 1869. (G.S.) He m. Catherine Peva, 12 Apr., 1839.
v. Asa Wing, b. 15 Mch., 1818; d. 30 Dec., 1852. (G.S.) He m. Hannah Strout, 12 May, 1838.
vi. Lemuel Jackson, b. 14 July, 1820; m. Naomi Field, 18 July, 1841.
vii. Abigail, b. 5 Jany., 1823.

Jonas Proctor, his wife, and their sons, Jonas, Jr., and Asa, are buried in the Baptist cemetery at Windsor, Me.

North's History of Augusta (1870), [pp. 373, et seq.], in an account of the "Malta War" in 1809, says that Jonas Proctor was suspected of being in the party that fired upon and mortally wounded one of the men who had been sent by the Plymouth Company to survey their lands. When called upon as a witness, however, at the trial of those who had been arrested for the crime he testified he knew nothing of the murder and had not seen two of the accused on the day it occurred.

47. Joel[6] Holloway or Hallowell (William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), according to the inscription on his gravestone, was born in 1788, for it is stated he died 6 December, 1869, aged 81.* His birth probably occurred at Hallowell, Maine, although Sidney is the place noted in the record of death of his son, Joel[7], Jr.

Joel[6] Hallowell served briefly in the War of 1812, as a private in Capt. Gideon Barton's Co. of militia, evidently on an alarm at Damariscotta, Maine. He was discharged there 12 September, 1814, having enlisted at Windsor, Maine, on September 3rd.

It is of interest to note that the early land records of Kennebec County, Maine, give his name as "Halloway" on several of the deeds in which he was a grantor or grantee.

Joel[6] Hallowell was married at Sidney, Maine, by Rev. Asa Wilbur, 27 March, 1811, to Rhoda Robinson, of Sidney. Their first nine children are listed on the records of Windsor, Maine. Later they removed to the adjoining town of China, where the United States censuses show them living in the years of 1850 and 1860. One account of Rhoda Robinson says she was born in Dartmouth, Mass., another that her birthplace was Sidney, Maine. She died 5 January, 1879, aged 88, according to the inscription on her gravestone.

Both Joel[6] Hallowell and his wife are buried in the Baptist cemetery at Windsor, Maine.

They had issue, born at Windsor:

100. i. Greenleaf[7], b. 1 Oct., 1811; m. Hannah Fowle.

ii. Watson, b. 1 May, 1813; d. 1 Aug., 1833. (G.S., Windsor)

101. iii. Ruel,† b. 15 May, 1815; m. (1), Emily Linn; (2), Annie M. Steward.

iv. Rhoda, b. 21 March, 1818; m. James Adams. They were living in China, Me., in 1870. Had sons (Adams): 1. Paul[8]; 2. Everett, m. three times; 3. Ruel, m. Jane Proctor.

102. v. Joel, Jr., b. 15 May, 1820; m. three times.

103. vi. George Washington, b. 14 Mch, 1823; m. Calista Reed.

vii. Lucy, b. 24 May, 1825; d. at South Portland, Me., in Nov. 1899. She m. George Burns, and had one ch., a dau., Georgianna[8] (Burns), b. at Portland, Me., in Jany., 1850; d. in So. *We think this date the most probable one although in 1850 he gave his age as 64, while in the China census of 1850 it appears as 52, and in that of 1860 as 68. His wife's age shows similar variations, which is understandable.

104. ix. Watson, (2nd), b. 1833; m. (1), Angeline Brewer; (2) Julia A. Jones.

48. Lydia[6] Hallowell (William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), born probably in the spring of 1790 at Hallowell, Maine, as indicated by the census taken there that summer, had her marriage intentions with William Seekins entered at Vassalboro, Maine, 14 June, 1807.

Issue (Seekins), from records of Windsor, Maine:

i. Lucy[7], b. 13 Apr., 1809.

ii. Nancy, b. 22 June, 1810; her mar. int. with William Wing was ent. at Windsor, 4 Nov., 1826.

iii. William, Jr., b. 15 June, 1812; d. 28 Dec., 1856. His mar. int. with Hannah Scates was ent. at Windsor 28 Oct., 1832. His will, on file in the probate registry of Kennebec County, Me. [Docket S-18], calls himself "merchant," names wife, Hannah; daughters Emily Bailey and Eliza Ann Seekins, sons Theodore and Reuel, and minor ch., Hannah Etta, William, Naomi, Warren, Helen, Addison, Charles B., and infant son not named. No punctuation appearing between any of these names in the original document makes it uncertain as to whether "Hannah Etta" represents one ch. or two.

iv. Hannah[7], b. 16 Oct., 1814; the mar. int. of Samuel Ward and Hannah Seekins were ent. at Windsor, between 22 Dec., 1839, and 1 Jany., 1840.

v. Margaret (twin with Hannah); m. Samuel Ward, of Augusta, 27 Aug., 1837. Evidently d. in about two yrs.

vi. Sarah, b. 3 Nov., 1819; the mar. int. of Asa Trask and Sally Seekins were ent. in 1840.

Note. The John Seekins whose marriage intention with Elizabeth Trask was entered at Windsor in August, 1840, may have been another son of William and Lydia[7] (Hallowell) Seekins.

49. Moses[6] Holloway (Benjamin[5], Elijah[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born in Morristown, N.J., 13 October, 1785, and died there, 17 May, 1821. There are numerous references to him in the land records of Morris County, New Jersey, where he was active in buying and selling farms. He seems to have been in comfortable circumstances for his time, a mortgage holder, a slave owner occasionally, and the posssessor of other evidences of prosperity which appealed to the tax assessors.

While the ratables of Morristown in 1809 and 1810 record him as a single man without property, those for 1811, following his marriage late in the preceding year, list him as the owner of forty acres of land, a horse, four head of cattle, a "chair," and a slave.

His name is missing from the town's ratables between 1813 and 1818. During this period he lived in Hanover, New Jersey, where he bought property in 1813 and 1814. His home there was evidently in the northern part of that large township, quite probably in the village of Boonton, where it is stated his son Hugh was born.*

Returning to Morristown in 1818, we find him listed there that year as the owner of 136 acres of land, one head of cattle, a "chair," and a stove, which was assessed at sixty dollars. An undated list of ratables for the adjoining township of Mendham, apparently for some year after 1815, shows that Moses Holloway also owned thirty acres of land there as well as a forge.

The ratables of Morristown in the year preceding Moses Holloway's death list him as the owner of eighty acres of land, one horse, and five head of cattle. None of the former luxury items appears this time. Perhaps they were no longer counted as such, but when his widow's property was looked over in 1821, the assessor meanly added "one dog" to the former holdings. Possibly the animal had bitten him.

Moses[6] Holloway married, 24 November, 1810, (Mrs.) Mary Ann Apthorp "of Long Island," who died 22 December, 1850, aged 66—hence born in 1784. As one of the heirs of Charles Ward Apthorp, of New York, she sold land in Kennebec County, Maine, in 1815, her husband, Moses Holloway, joining with her in passing the titles.

While these deeds, as far as examined, fail to state just what her relationship was to this wealthy New York merchant, she was the widow of his son James when Moses Holloway married her. The will of James Apthorp, "a Captain in the service of his Brittanic Majesty, now residing in New Utrecht, Long Island", probated in April, 1810, left all his property to his wife, Mary Ann. He named as his executor, "my kinsman, Charles McEvers, of New York City"—his first cousin in all likelihood, Charles Ward Apthorp having married Mary McEvers in 1755.†

A family record states that Moses Holloway's wife was born Mary Ann Cabel (or Cabell) "of Long Island."‡ That her first husband was

†Capt. James Apthorp died at New Utrecht (now a part of Brooklyn), on 27 March, 1810, as noted in the New York Evening Post two days later.

‡The U. S. Census of New York State in 1790 shows no Cabels, Cabells or Cables on Long Island as heads of families, and a careful search of the probate and land records of Kings County at Brooklyn failed to find a single person bearing any of those names there until about 1870. It is quite possible Holloway's wife may have been an English girl.

a British officer is explained by the fact that his father, in common with most of the wealthy New York and Boston merchants, was a loyalist during our Revolutionary War.

The will of Moses Holloway, made eleven days before his death, left all his property to his wife, Mary Ann. She remained his widow for thirty years, and in her own will, which was dated 3 July, 1847, and probated 6 January, 1851, she divided her property equally between her son, Hugh W. Holloway, and her daughter Mary, wife of Frederick Smith.

Both Moses Holloway and his wife are buried in the cemetery back of the Presbyterian church in Morristown, the inscriptions on their gravestones tallying with the church records of their mortality.

Issue, born in Hanover (Boonton), N.J.:

106. i. Hugh Williamson[7], b. ab. 1813; m. (1), Sarah A. Reeves; (2), Jane E. Headley.

ii. Mary Ann, b. ab. 1815; d. 26 Aug., 1849, ae. 34; m. 18 Dec., 1833, Frederick Smith, as his first wife. They had one ch.: 1. Grenville Apthorpe[8] (Smith), b. 1 October, 1834. He died in Wyoming, N.J., 20 March, 1911 (ae. 76-5-19). By wife Emma Ludlow he had eight ch., only two of whom were living in 1949. Among their grandchildren are Oscar Bryant Smith, architect, of Short Hills, N.J., and Arthur Grenville Baker, the Morristown attorney.

iii. Daughter, b. bet. 1813 and 1820.? See Note following.

Note. The U. S. Census of Morris County, N. J., in 1830 lists Mary Holloway with family consisting of one male aged between 15 and 20, two females between 10 and 15, one female between 20 and 30, and one—evidently herself—between 40 and 50. If the two extra females here were Mary Holloway's daughters, it is obvious the older one must have been by her first marriage. The younger one would have been Holloway's, but in any event if they were her children, they evidently pre-deceased their mother, having failed of mention in her will.

50. Jacob[6] Holloway (Benjamin[5], Elijah[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), born in Morristown, N.J., 29 November, 1794, died in Hanover, N.J., 16 April, 1870.

He was a farmer, a Justice of the Peace, and as noted in its history, a trustee of the Presbyterian church at Parsippany in the township of Hanover. The area in which his farm was situated now forms a reservoir for Jersey City's water supply.

Jacob[6] Holloway married, 7 May, 1818, Jane Elizabeth DeHart,* of Hanover, daughter of John and Jane (Dodd) DeHart. She was born 5 April, 1798, and died 21 February, 1891.

51. Charles[6] Holloway (Benjamin[5], Elijah[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born at Morristown, N.J., 30 November, 1801, and died, probably at Pompton, N.J., 7 May, 1878. As a young man he removed to West Milford, Passaic County, N.J., in company with his older brother, Seth. He continued to live in West Milford and the nearby town of Charlotteburg until his latter years which seem to have been spent in Pompton. He was engaged in farming nearly all his life.

There are several deeds of record in the Morris County registry in which Benjamin Holloway deeded these two sons small lots of land in Morristown and Randolph, and where Charles Holloway sold his brother, Seth, certain properties in Mendham and Morristown.

His name is of quite frequent occurrence in the land records of Passaic County also, between 1842 and 1875, but as nearly as can be determined therefrom he had disposed of all his properties before his death. He left no will of record, nor was there any administration ordered upon his estate.

Charles[6] Holloway married, 15 January, 1829, Elenor Beam Lines, born 30 June, 1809, died 25 August, 1875. Her name usually appears as Elen B. when she signed deeds with her husband. It is quite likely she was the daughter of Abraham Lines, of Pompton, for she was named among his heirs at law who transferred some of his property in January, 1838.

Elenor B. Holloway, of Bloomingdale, N.J., left an undated will which was probated on 22 September, 1875. In this document she left all her property to her daughter, Elmira Vreeland. Any real estate she may have inherited from Abraham Lines was evidently disposed of during her lifetime for the inventory taken of her possessions after her decease listed only furniture, live stock, and $290.00 in the Newark Savings Bank.

Charles[7] and Elenor (Lines) Holloway had issue, born in West Milford and Charlotteburg, N.J.:

52. John[6] Holloway (Benjamin[5], Elijah[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born at Morris Plains, N.J., 13 July, 1807, and died in Morristown, 15 October, 1862. He had carried on a successful cabinet making business there for years.

He married, 12 December, 1840, Elizabeth Strawway, born at Milton, N.J., 24 June, 1819, daughter of ———— and Mary (Hellar) Strawway. She married Jacob H. VanAuken as her second husband, 12 October, 1878, and died in Morristown, 2 January, 1914, in her ninety-fifth year.

Issue, born in Morristown, N.J.:

i. Georgianna Augusta[7], b. 27 Oct., 1841; d. unm. 10 Nov., 1899. Her will on file in the Surrogate's Court of Morris County, N.J., names her mother, Elizabeth Van Auken; brother, John Francis Holloway; deceased brother David Holloway, and sister Lizzie Quinby.
ii. Edwina C., b. 12 Feby., 1843; d. unm., 19 Dec., 1871.

*The probate record here erroneously calls Elmira Vreeland "one of the children of George Holloway." The attention of the Surrogate was called to this blunder made by some careless clerk, but there seemed to be considerable difficulty and red tape involved in getting the error corrected.

iv. Charles Milton, b. 13 Jany., 1847; d. at Brunswick, Ga., 12 Mch, 1881, unm. At the time of Lee's invasion of Pennsylvania he was enrolled as a private in the New Jersey militia, 2 July 1863, mustered into the Federal service that same day, and hon. disch. 24 July, 1863. In the following April he enlisted in the U.S. Navy for one year and served on different vessels.

53. Richard[6] Holloway (Elijah[5], Elijah[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born in Morristown, N.J., 23 November, 1795, and died in Chatham, N.J., 12 October, 1885, having almost completed his nintieth year.

He married, 15 October, 1817, Hannah Osborn, who was born in New Providence, N.J., 26 June, 1790, and died 28 January, 1848, daughter of Smith Stratton and Sarah (Burnet) Osborn.

Issue:

i. Smith Stratton[7], b. 11 Aug., 1827, Chatham, N.J.; d. 1 Jany., 1891. He m. 4 June, 1851, Nancy Elmira Waugh, who was b. at Monroe, N.J., 27 Aug., 1830, and died 9 June, 1925, ae. 94. No issue. 54. Eli[6] Holloway (Elijah[5], Elijah[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born in Morristown, 13 November, 1802, and died in Newark, N.J., 20 February, 1867. This latter date appears on his gravestone there in Mt. Pleasant cemetery, and is followed by the inscription "aged 64 years, 3 months, 7 days"—which checks exactly with the date of birth of the Eli Holloway noted in the family Bible of Elijah[5] Holloway (Jr.).

As a young man Eli Holloway established himself as a cabinet maker in the city of Newark, where he built up a large and successful business. In time he became the owner of considerable property on the west side of Broad street, just south of Central avenue, the disposal of which made a case for the Chancery Court in 1884.

Eli Holloway and his wife, Catherine, joined the First Church (Presbyterian) of Newark, April, 1831, and later transferred to the city's second Presbyterian Church, where he owned a pew.

His will, dated 6 February, 1867, and proved the following month, names wife Alethea; brother Daniel; daughter Jane B., wife of Sylvanus B. Sayre; son Ebenezer Cheever Holloway; daughter Catherine Holloway, and youngest son, Alfred Woodruf Holloway, for whom a trust fund was provided.

The Newark newspaper called the "Centinal" of Freedom in its issue of 3 April, 1827, noted the marriage of Eli Holloway and Catherine, daughter of Davis Hunt, in New York City, 29 March, 1827. She died 6 March, 1846, aged 38 years, 8 months, 16 days.

Record of his second marriage, which occurred 16 November, 1847, appears in the Newark Daily Advertiser the following day. This wife, Clarissa Wilcox, died 6 November, 1851, aged 36 years, 6 months, and 3 days. She was the mother of Catherine and Clarissa W. Holloway "minor children under 14," over whom Samuel P. Smith was appointed guardian soon after her death.

Newark's New Jersey Journal of 14 December, 1852, records Holloway's third marriage. This event took place, 7 December, 1852, the bride being Alethea Woodruf. She was born 16 September, 1818, and died 25 November, 1882.

Issue by first wife, Catherine Hunt:

i. Evelina Mayo[7], b. 8 Apr., 1828; d. unm. 26 Sept., 1847, ae. 19.

ii. Jane Bouton, b. 25 Feby., 1830; d. 19 Apr., 1896; m. Sylvanus B. Sayre. Shortly after her dec., her husband applied for adm. of her est. naming their two ch., a son, Frederick C.[8] (Sayre), whose address was then unknown, and a dau., E. Louise. As late as 1932, the latter was living in Newark, unm., where she had been a school teacher for years.

iii. Joseph Thorpe, b. 6 Mch., 1834; d. 30 Sept., 1841.

119. iv. Ebenezer Cheever, m. Jessie Jackson.

Issue by second wife, Clarissa Wilcox:

120. v. Catherine, b. 14 August, 1847; m. Robert C. Ryerson.

vi. Clarissa Wilcox, d. 29 Mch., 1852, ae. 5 mos., 12 days.

Issue by third wife, Alethea Woodruf:

vii. Alfred Woodruf, d. 22 June, 1875, ae. 21 yrs., 2 mos., 29 days.

55. Cephas[6] Holloway (Elijah[5], Elijah[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), born at Chatham, N.J., 10 February, 1808, died in Newark, N.J., in January, 1858. He became a member of the First Presbyterian Church in Morristown on 21 May, 1829, and married Catherine M. Badgely* there, 10 January, 1830.

The church records show they were dismissed to Paterson two years later. They returned to Chatham within a short time, and in 1842 joined the South Street Presbyterian Church in Morristown on certificate from the one in Chatham. Their affiliation here lasted until 1856 when they were certified to the Central Presbyterian Church of Newark.

*This is the spelling of her surname as it appears on her husband's monument. The published church records have it as "Badgeley," while the Morris County, N. J., marriage records shorten it to "Badgly."

They had evidently taken up their residence in that city some years earlier for Cephas Holloway's name appears in the Newark directory of 1853-4, his occupation that of a carpenter.

Cephas[6] Holloway, his wife, his son, John M., and several of the latter's children are buried in their family lot in Newark's Mt. Pleasant cemetery, a handsome granite monument bearing his name and the dates, 1808-1858, marking the site. The cemetery records note he was buried 25 January, 1858,* and his wife Catherine, on 26 August, 1874, aged 63.

As far as known they had but two children, viz.:

121. i. John Meeker,[7] b. 20 Oct., 1831; m. Mary E. Humes.

ii. Gertrude Almira, d. 9 Feby., 1842, ae. 3 yrs. This is the inscription given on her gravestone beside those of her Holloway grandparents in the cemetery back of the Presbyterian Church in Morristown. The published records of the church, however, call her Catherine Amelia, and give her age as 38. The Newark "Centinal" of Freedom in noting her death at Morristown, aged 3, calls her Gertrude Amelia, "only daughter of Cephas Holloway." Both the church record, and the newspaper notice, however, tally with her date of death as given above.

56. Daniel[6] Holloway (Elijah[5], Elijah[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), born 17 July, 1813, Chatham, N.J., died at Newark, N.J., 11 July, 1891. He is buried in the same lot with his brother, Eli, in the Mt. Pleasant cemetery in Newark.

These brothers were closely associated in their earlier years, carrying on a cabinet making business on Broad Street, Newark. Later, Daniel Holloway opened a wareroom on Market Street for the sale of caskets, and after disposing of this he resumed his cabinet making at 145 Ludlow Street, New York City. Afterwards he engaged in various other occupations in Newark where for years he was an active member of the North Reformed Church.

This organization was probably known as the Dutch Reformed originally, for the pastor of that church, Rev. Mr. Wells, performed the marriage service of Daniel Holloway and Phebe Hunt, "both of Newark," on 9 September, 1835.

The Newark newspaper called the Sentinel of Freedom in its issue of 15 September, 1835, also noted the marriage but set the date as 10 September.

*The published records of the Morristown Presbyterian Church give his date of death as 5 May, 1858, at age of 77—which brought about considerable waste of effort.

Mrs. Phebe Holloway died at the age of 39, and was buried, 27 May, 1851, in the lot jointly owned by Eli and Daniel Holloway in Newark's Mt. Pleasant cemetery. The 1850 Census of Newark says she was born in New York. It is quite possible she was a sister of Catherine Hunt who had married Daniel Holloway's older brother, Eli, in New York City eight years earlier.

Another burial in Mt. Pleasant is that of Daniel Holloway's second wife, Harriet, who died in Newark, to July, 1873, aged 58 years, 11 months, and 1 day. Record of their marriage has not been found, nor has her maiden name been ascertained. The only other record we have of her is her appearance as a witness to the will of her husband's brother, Eli Holloway.

As far as known, Daniel[6] Holloway left but one son:

122. i. Edward Payson[7], b. 16 Dec., 1846, Newark, N.J.; m. (1), Eleanor Garrett; (2), Margaret S. Carkhoff.

An older son, Joseph, died 30 July, 1842, ae. 1 month, 19 days, as noted in the Newark "Centinal" of Freedom.

Daniel[6] Holloway also had an adopted daughter, his niece, (Mary) Anna[7] Alward, daughter of Jonas and Mary[6] (Holloway) Alward, already mentioned in our account of the family of her grandfather, [29] Elijah[5] Holloway, Jr.

57. Timothy[6] Holloway (Josiah[5], William[4], William[3], Malachi[2]), was born in Conway, Mass., 9 February, 1805, and died there, 10 January, 1881. He inherited his father's farm in 1834, and through various sales and purchases, owned nearly four hundred acres of land there at one time. Some of this property remained in the family as late as 1909.

Timothy[6] Holloway died intestate leaving as next of kin, his sons, John of Seymour, Conn., Charles and William, of New Orleans, La., his daughter, Belle Holloway of Conway, and a minor son of his son Frank[lin] of Suffield, Conn.

Timothy[6] Holloway married in June, 1832, Adeline Mather, born at Ashfield, Mass., 22 July, 1804, died at Conway, Mass., 12 October, 1868, daughter of Cotton and Anna P. (Norton) Mather.

Issue, born at Conway, Mass.:

i. Lydia Maria[7], b. 17 Feby., 1835; d. 22 Mch., 1836.

123. ii. Franklin, b. 14 June, 1836; m. Louise J. Pomeroy.

iii. George, b. 5 Aug., 1837; no further rec.; evidently d. young.

58. HERBERT[6] HOLLOWAY (Peter[5], Peter[4], William[3], Malachi[2]), was born in 1806, probably in Bloomfield, N.Y., and died in 1846, at Holland, Ohio. He removed to Ohio with his father and brothers in 1833. Five years later his name appeared in a list of the inhabitants of Springfield Township, Lucas County, who paid taxes on their horses and cattle. In 1843 he took up 80 acres of land there, buying it from the state.

He was a trustee of the town from 1841 to 1843, town clerk in 1846, and a delegate to the County convention of the Whig party in 1843. His name also appears in a militia roll of Springfield in 1844, at which time his age was given as 38 years.

Herbert[6] Holloway married Sarah Wood in 1835. Her second husband was Dennis Sage, by whom she had four more children.

Herbert[6] and Sarah (Wood) Holloway had issue, born in Springfield township, Ohio:

i. Edwin[7], d. young.
ii. Mary Jane, b. 29 Oct., 1839; d. in Toledo, Ohio, 17 Oct., 1896. She m. (1), as his sec. wf., 20 Nov., 1862, Dr. Alonzo W. Gilbert; (2), 7 Dec., 1871, Harrison L.[6] Holloway, son of [35] Cyrus[5] Holloway. Issue by first husband (Gilbert): 1. Luella May[8], b. 12 Nov., 1863; m. Latimer J. Thompson, of Toledo, and has a dau. Doris[9] living there, wife of Theodore Reeves. 2. Helen L., b. 28 Dec., 1866; m. George Webber. Her dau., Mrs. Kenneth C. McRae, lives in Detroit, Mich.
127. iii. George Washington, b. 3 Jany., 1844; m. Barbara A. Arnn.
iv. Herbert, Jr., b. 1846, was town clerk of Springfield in 1868. Adm. on his estate was taken in 1872, George W., and Mary J. Holloway being named as the only next of kin.

59. PETER[6] HOLLOWAY, 3RD, (Peter[5], Peter[4], William[3], Malachi[2]), was born 7 May, 1815, in Caledonia (York), N.Y., and died at Monclova, Ohio, 30 November, 1905, thus making him one of the few nonogenarians in the family. He went with his parents when they migrated to Ohio in 1833, and in later years had a farm next to his father's in the township of Springfield, Lucas County, and on the Monclova line. In the meantime it would appear he had lived in Illinois for awhile, as the U.S. Census of 1850 while listing him in Springfield township, states that his first child was born in that other state.

His will, made in 1892, is on file in the probate court of Lucas County, Ohio—docket no. 4658—the legatees being his wife, Nancy; sons, "J.P.," "B.S.," "R.C.," "C.B.," and daughter, Alice Dill.

Peter[6] Holloway, 3rd, married (1), Ann Phillips, and (2), Mrs. Nancy Jane (Phillips) Ray, widow of Thomas Ray. Ann and Nancy Phillips were sisters, born in Kentucky, daughters of Joseph Phillips.

Both Peter[6] Holloway, 3rd, and his second wife are buried in the Swan Creek Cemetery, Monclova, Ohio. She was born 1 July, 1817 (or 1819) and died 14 (or 4) February, 1907.

Issue by first wife, born in Illinois:

128. i. John Phillips[7], b. Feby., 1844; m. Mary Ann Taylor.

Issue by second wife, born in Monclova, Ohio:

ii. Ira C., d. inf.

129. iii. Belden Seymour, b. 28 Sept., 1849; m. (1), Hortense McFillen; (2), Mrs. Kathryn E. Packer.

iv. Robert Chester, b. 28 April, 1852; d. Nov., 1938, Wauseon, Ohio. He m. (1), Alice Blystone, who d. in Kansas in giving birth to their dau. Alice who d. young. He returned to Ohio, and made his home in the town of Delta of which he became mayor. His second wife was Marion Fay Slater by whom he had no ch.

v. Alice, b. 28 Sept., 1854; d. Aug., 1897, Monclova, Ohio. She m. George Adam Dill, b. 20 Aug., 1856; d. 15 Feby., 1904. Issue (Dill): 1. George Clayton[8], b. 24 Sept., 1884, Spencer twp., O.; d. unm., Monclova, O., 1 Apr. 1939.* 2. David Seymour, b. 16 July, 1886, Winfield, Kans.; d. 26 Aug., 1887, Spencer twp., O. 3. Oliver Peter, b. 30 June, 1888, Spencer twp., O.; m. Almeda Fry. Res., Mt. Vernon, Iowa. One son, Donald Seymour[9] (Dill), b. 21 Mch., 1927, Mechanicville, Iowa. He was grad. in June, 1948, from the State University of Iowa, with the B.S. degree in commerce with a major in accounting, and is now an accountant with the Quaker Oats Company in Chicago.

130. vi. Charles Byron, b. 16 July, 1858; m. Mary Whitehead.

Note. The U. S. Census of Springfield Township, Ohio, in 1850, credits Peter Holloway [3rd] with three boys in his family named Holloway—Julius, aged nine, John, Aged six, and Belden, aged one. The one named Julius, however, should have been listed as Julius Ray, for he was the son of Peter Holloway's second wife by her first husband, Thomas Ray.

60. Chester Seymour[6] Holloway (Peter[5], Peter[4], William[3], Malachi[2]), was born in York, N.Y., but we lack record of the date, nor do we know when and where he died. We think this latter event occurred in Williams County, Ohio, just west of Lucas County to which he had migrated with his father's family in 1833. The only record we have found of him there is the appearance of his name in a militia roll in 1844. His descendants have been most difficult to trace.

Chester S.[6] Holloway was married twice. His first wife was Mary Caroline Wood, and his second, Mrs. Juliana (Culver) Culbertson, whose daughter, Mary A. Culbertson married his son, James Chester Holloway.

Issue by first wife:

131. i. William Lawrence[7], b. 3 Aug., 1848, Maumee, O.; m. Emma Boyer.
132. ii. James Chester, b. 31 Mch., 1851, Williams Co., O.; m. (1), Mary A. Culbertson; (2), Mrs. Harriet White.

61. (Col.) Charles Byron[6] Holloway (Peter[5], Peter[4], William[3], Malachi[2]), was born in York, Livingston County, N.Y., 14 June, 1826, and died in Springfield township, Lucas County, Ohio, 27 July, 1903. He was a farmer, cultivating the same farm his father had bought in 1834.

Active in politics he was town clerk in Springfield in 1852-1855, 1858, and 1861, a trustee of the township from 1863 to 1867 inclusive, and represented Lucas County in the Ohio State legislature from 1879 to 1881. Here he was an active and efficient member, gaining much credit for his bill to prevent railroad companies giving exclusive rights to any one telegraph corporation for the use of their lines.

During the Civil War he was active in raising Co. C, in the 4th Regiment of Ohio militia, serving as its Captain until he was commissioned Lieut. Colonel of the regiment on 30 August, 1863. In the following year he also served on a committee to correct the enrollment lists of soldiers to be raised in his township according to the draft act passed by Congress in 1864.

Charles B.[7] Holloway married, 3 May, 1855, Nancy Ann Gunn, born in Damascus, Ohio, 1 August, 1829, died 17 August, 1909, in Springfield township, daughter of Asman and Eliza (Scribner) Gunn.

62. William[6] Holloway, Jr. (William[5], Peter[4], William[3], Malachi[2]), was born in Vermont about 1809, according to the U.S. Census taken in York, Livingston County, N.Y., in 1860, which gives his age at that time as 51, and his birthplace as the Green Mountain State.* He died in York, 8 November, 1862.

Reared in York he removed to Michigan late in 1832, where with his brother Edwin he bought 320 acres of land in Lenawee County.† They sold half of this to their father in the following June.

In 1842 William Holloway, Jr., was living in the town of Tecumseh, that county, when as a resident there he sold some land to his brother Butler on the last day of that year. His wife, Abigail, joined with him in passing the title.

The census taken in Raisin township, Michigan, in 1850, lists William, Jr., and Abigail Holloway, together, but without any children. They probably returned to York, not long after this, for the census taken there ten years later notes their two children were born in New York state. Some years after his death his widow took them to Michigan where they rejoined her late husband's kindred still living in Lenawee County.

William[6] Holloway, Jr., married, prior to 1843, Abigail Stocking, daughter of Roswell Stocking, probably by his first wife, Rosanna Bow, as indicated in the history of York [page 25]. Mrs. Abigail Holloway died 28 March, 1895, and is buried with her daughter in the Oakwood Cemetery in Adrian, Michigan. The census records show that she was born in 1815.

Issue, born in York, N.Y.:

i. William J.,[7] b. 1852 (aged 8 in 1860); d. ab. 1934. He m. Ella Todd, of Adrian, Mich. No. ch. Was in partnership with his cousin, [142] Lucius L.[7] Holloway, in operating drug stores in Kalamazoo and Hastings, Mich.

ii. Rosanna, b. 1855 (aged 5 in 1860); d. unm., 9 May, 1878. There is a puzzling statement in the petition filed on 30 May, 1864, for adm. of William Holloway's estate, the heirs named being his widow, Abigail Holloway, William J. Holloway, and Rosanna—or Roxanna—E. Olp. As Rosanna was only eight or nine years old at this time the record here is obviously in error. We doubt if her full name could have been Rosanna E. Olp Holloway. The census record gives her no name other than Rosanna, and that of

*The 1850 Census taken in Raisin, Mich., in 1850 gave his birthplace as Massachusetts, and his age as 40—this latter impossible unless he was his brother Edwin's twin. It is unfortunate from a researcher's viewpoint that our census records do not give birthplaces more specifically.

†The Memoirs of Lenawee County, Mich. (1909) [Vol. 2, p. 152] states that William Holloway, Jr., with his three brothers made this purchase but the land records of the county are as given above.

the Oakwood cemetery merely calls her "Rose, daughter of William and Abigail Holloway."

63. Edwin[6] Holloway (William[5], Peter[4], William[3], Malachi[2]), was born 4 April, 1810,* probably in Vermont. His boyhood was spent mostly in the State of New York where his father had settled in 1817. In 1832 in company with his brothers—except George—he removed to Lenawee County, Michigan. Here, on the 7th of November in that year, Edwin and William[6] Holloway, Jr., bought 320 acres of land.

They sold half of this to their father in the following June, these transactions being the first of quite a number in which Edwin[6] Holloway appears as grantee or grantor in the land records of Lenawee County. Those of Lucas County, Ohio, also show he bought 200 acres in the town of Monroe, Lenawee County, from the United States Government prior to 15 September, 1835, when the deed was recorded at Toledo.

Despite his age at the time the Civil War broke out and the fact that two of his sons had volunteered as soldiers, Mr. Holloway was not content to remain at home. Having had considerable experience as a vetenarian he thought he might be of some service to his country in that capacity and so enlisted as such in a Michigan cavalry regiment. He was on active duty at the front, and while so engaged was taken by the enemy and died in the Confederate prison at Florence, South Carolina, 26 November, 1864.

Edwin Holloway married, probably at York, N.Y., 9 October, 1832, Mary Ann Seeber, who was born in that state, 28 March, 1813, and died 24 March, 1891.

64. Silas[6] Holloway (William[5], Peter[4], William[3], Malachi[2]), was born in Ashfield, Mass., 14 February, 1812, and died at Adrian, Mich., 8 September, 1896. Reared in York, Livingston County, and in Pendleton, Niagara County, New York, he went to Michigan in the Fall of 1832, settling in the township of Raisin with his brothers, William, Edwin, and Butler.

During the following Winter he built a log house and cleared eleven acres of land of its heavy growth of timber. In 1840, in company with his brother Butler, he bought from their father, William Holloway, 160 acres in Section 23, and later bought an additional tract from Daniel G. Ludlum on his own account.

He continued living in Raisin until 1844, when he sold his properties there, and bought a farm in Dover, Michigan. He lived there for ten years when he again sold and then bought another farm in Adrian township. In 1866 he purchased a house and lot on State Street in Adrian where he lived the rest of his life and where his granddaughter, Mrs. Henry L. Wilson, now resides.

Silas[6] Holloway married (1), 9 February, 1839, Sarah Atwater, born at Burlington, Vt., 14 April, 1818, died at Adrian, Mich., 15 April, 1882, daughter of Phineas and Nancy (Fairchild) Atwater. Her picture appears at page 84 in the fourth volume of the Atwater Genealogy.

Silas[6] Holloway married (2), Mrs. Mary Allen, who died 7 May, 1910, and is buried in the Newhard lot in the Adrian Cemetery.

Butler[6] Holloway (William[5], Peter[4], William[3], Malachi[2]), was born in Conway, Mass., 14 February, 1814, and died in Raisin township, Mich., 17 February, 1882.* The fifth and youngest child by his father's first marriage he was reared in the town of York, Livingston County, and in Pendleton, Niagara County, N.Y.

In 1833 he once more accompanied his father on his final removal —this time to the township of Raisin, Lenawee County, Michigan, then mostly a wilderness. Here in time, after many hardships and privations, he became the owner of a large and prosperous farm. His will, dated 16 July, 1881, is on file in the Lenawee County Probate Court.

66. (Col.) Frederick Madison[6] Holloway (Cyrus[5], Peter[4], William[3], Malachi[2]), was born in Bristol, Ontario County, N.Y., 18 January, 1815, and died 9 September, 1891, at Hillsdale, Michigan, where for many years he had been one of the state's most prominent citizens.

His boyhood was spent in western New York where he worked on his father's farm in summers and attended the district schools at other seasons. In his seventeenth year he suffered a nearly fatal sunstroke which prostrated him for over three months. When he was able to get about again he tried school teaching for a time but was in no condition to continue it for more than a trial term.

It was then decided his health would improve more rapidly in a new environment, and as a result the journey to Ohio, already mentioned in our account of his father, Cyrus Holloway, was undertaken late in March, 1833.

Detroit was finally reached fifteen days after they had left home. Then followed the month's prospecting tour already noted and the selection of the site for the new home. The active outdoor life young Holloway led with his father during the next six weeks while they were erecting their log house and camping in the woods so much improved his health and strength that the older man had no hesitancy in leaving his son to rough it alone, while he himself returned to New York to bring on the rest of the family.

During the next fifteen or sixteen years Frederick M. Holloway followed the trade of a carpenter and joiner; also, in 1830, he had a contract for building several miles of the Toledo and Adrian railroad. Following his marriage in 1837 he spent a year in Sylvania, Ohio, then two years at Tecumseh, Lenawee County, and the next ten at Jonesville, Hillsdale County, Michigan.

While a resident of Jonesville he became interested in politics, served on the school board of the town and in 1850 was chosen the county's Recorder of Deeds. This election necessitated his removal to the county seat at Hillsdale and he took up his residence there in the Spring of 1851.

He held this office for two years, during which period he installed an indexing system for the records, and then in 1852 exchanged his property in Jonesville for a partially developed farm in Fayette township not far from Hillsdale. In the following year he was elected a Supervisor of the township which then included both Jonesville and Hillsdale, and soon afterwards was appointed Postmaster of the latter town, a position he held for nine years.

On the 4th of July, 1853, he was one of the two Marshalls who conducted the ceremonies at the laying of the corner-stone of Hillsdale College. During this early period he served as one of the College's trustees, and when it was regularly incorporated two years later he continued to be re-elected to that office from term to term during the rest of his active life. The original college building was destroyed by fire in 1874, and the new one, as stated on a tablet at its main entrance was erected under his supervision.

Besides his duties as postmaster, and trustee of the college, Col. Holloway, as he was soon to be known, took on several other activities during his third year in Hillsdale. He first started an insurance business, holding several agencies, and then in 1854 he organized and was elected Secretary of the Hillsdale County Agricultural Society, and also founded its sponsored County Fair which has continued ever since and become a famous institution largely due to his untiring efforts and excellent judgment during its first thirty years. In recognition of its debt to him the Society has placed a portrait of Col. Holloway in the Grange building on the Fair grounds.

This title came to him in 1856 when he was appointed Colonel of the 15th regiment, 2d brigade of Michigan militia. When the Civil War broke out he made strenuous efforts to obtain authority to raise a regiment for the Union army, but met with disappointment in this endeavor.

At about this time he disposed of his business enterprises in Hillsdale, and removed to the farm he had been developing a few miles from town. During the next several years while continuing the work that had been going on there, he also acted as a traveling and adjusting agent for the Aetna Insurance Company in the western states. He continued to fill this position until 1868, and then for the next fifteen years devoted himself principally to his farm, and to the improvement of his livestock.

During this period he was active in the State Grange, served as Chairman of its Executive Committee, and contributed many articles on farm problems and stock raising to the agricultural papers of the country.

He also organized the Pioneer Society of Hillsdale County and served as its historian—no idle honor but one which resulted in his writing some 500 manuscript pages regarding the county's early years. At the time of his death only one of its chapters had been published, this one in the first volume of the State Pioneer Society's Collections. The remainder seems to have been used subsequently, however, for four chapters dealing with its early history are credited to him in a Compendium of the county published by A. W. Bowen & Company, of Chicago, in 1903.

All these varied activities brought Col. Holloway into state wide prominence, and as a result he was made the Democratic party's candidate for Auditor General both in 1874 and 1876, and for Governor of Michigan in 1880. The formal notification of his selection as the Gubernatorial nominee and his acceptance read as follows:

"Detroit, August 14, 1880"

Fayette, Hillsdale Co., Mich.

My Dear Sir—I have the honor to inform you that at a convention of delegates of the Democracy of the State, held at Detroit on the 12th inst., you were unanimously nominated as the Democratic candidate for Governor of the State of Michigan at the approaching election. We were well aware that you neither sought nor desired the nomination. It was conferred upon you because of our respect for your sterling qualities and high abilities as a man, and was also meant to be a testimony of our respect for and our appreciation of the great interest which has made Michigan what she is to-day, the interest of agriculture, of which you are a conspicuous and worthy representative. Trusting that you will accept the nomination, and feeling proud in being the medium of officially conveying it to you,

I am, with sentiments of great respect,

Your obedient servant,

WILLIAM D. WILKINS
President of the Convention.

In accepting this nomination Col. Holloway wrote:

"Hillsdale, Mich., Sept. 15, 1880."

"Colonel Wm. D. Wilkins, Detroit.

Dear Sir—Your very kind note of August 14, conveying to me the official action of the Democratic Convention of the State, in council assembled on the 12th of August, has been received by me, in which I am put in nomination by that body for the high and responsible office of Governor of this, our beloved State.

Permit me through you to express my profound thanks to the Democracy of the State for the high honor conferred; it is highly appreciated from the fact that the nomination has come unsolicited by me.

Weighing well the duties and responsibilities attaching to the office, and considering the fact that this is but the second time in the history of our State where the nomination for the office has been tendered to one actively engaged in tilling the soil, I accept the nomination so gracefully tendered in the spirit in which it was made, and I assure you, as I do the conservative representatives of the people in that convention assembled, that in placing me before the electors of the State for that honorable position, it was intended to honor, not me, but the large class of our fellow citizens, that I, in an humble way, represent.

Should I be elected to the exalted position of Chief Magistrate of this great State, it will be my endeavor to emulate those who have preceded me in that high office, and approach as near as may be to their virtues.

In a time of profound peace like the present, the duties of the Executive of the State of Michigan as defined by the constitution are mostly embraced in sections 5, 6 and 8 of article 5; and it is in the discharge of the duties defined in those sections that the happiness and prosperity of our people of all classes, conditions and industries are brought more directly under his care.

It will be my study while in the performance of the duties defined in those sections to so conduct the affairs of State that no industry shall suffer at the expense of another. "That the laws be faithfully executed" in the spirit of liberality, justice and equity, constantly bearing in mind that the true excellence of all government is that which brings the greatest good to the largest number.

The declaration of principles adopted by the convention recently held at Cincinnati, as well as those adopted at Detroit by the convention that placed me in nomination, have my most cordial support.

I am, with sentiments of great respect,

Your obedient servant,

F. M. HOLLOWAY"

In the election that followed Col. Holloway ran far ahead of his ticket in that Presidential year but the state was too strongly Republican at that time to permit of his being chosen, in spite of the general recognition of his outstanding merit and abilities.

Three years later Col. Holloway sold his farm and moved into Hillsdale once more. He was elected mayor of the city the following year and subsequently served another term as well, besides being a member of the School Board. In 1884 he was a delegate to the National Democratic Convention and later helped to organize the Hillsdale Savings Bank of which he became a director.

During all these years he had continued as a trustee of Hillsdale College, and except for a couple of terms had served as Secretary of the Hillsdale County Agricultural Society, besides putting in a great deal of time and effort to make its County Fair the outstanding one in Michigan. Late in life he was elected a Vice President of the State's Pioneer and Historical Society.

At the time of his death the Detroit Free Press gave an extended account of his career, and in an editorial regarding him stated:

"Frederick M. Holloway, of Hillsdale, who died yesterday morning, was one of the best known democrats of the state and an active and prominent citizen during all his long life in Michigan. He was known as one of the most extensive farmers in Southern Michigan. While he did not hold civil office during the later years of his life, it was only due to the fact that his party was in the minority in Michigan. He was frequently honored with nominations for prominent positions. He was several times upon the state ticket and was the democratic candidate for governor of Michigan in the Garfield campaign, making an excellent canvass and running ahead of Hancock in the state nearly 8,000 votes. Col. Holloway was one of the best of the long line of excellent men who headed the democratic tickets in this state in the years when the consciousness of duty done was the only reward of party service. It is a rather remarkable fact that nearly all of the democratic candidates for governor since the republican party was founded are still living, and Col. Holloway's death is the first among the candidates since and including 1868. The democratic party has reason to be proud of the men that it presented for the chief magistracy of the state in the long years of forlorn hope campaigns. And of none of them should it be more proud than of the sturdy old farmer of Hillsdale county, who passed away yesterday."

Frederick Madison[6] Holloway married in Nottawa Township, Michigan, 5 February, 1837, Sybil Bacon Bassett, born 10 September, 1815, Gorham, New York, died 18 February, 1895, Greenwich, Ohio, daughter of Fortunatas and Sybil (Bacon) Bassett. Her father was a soldier in the Revolutionary War.

67. Oristen[5] Holloway (Cyrus[5], Peter[4], William[3], Malachi[2]), was born at Bristol, N.Y., 27 August, 1816. He removed with his parents to Sylvania, Lucas County, Ohio, about 1833 where nearly all the rest of his life was spent. His father deeded him land there at about the time of his marriage, and there are records of several other purchases which he made in later years.

The U.S. Census of Sylvania in 1860 lists him as a carpenter and joiner, with wife Elizabeth aged 38, and son Alvin, aged 15. His name here appears as "Orista" Holloway.

In the second year of the Civil War he was a delegate to the Union county convention, and later was enrolled on 14 August, 1862, as 2nd Lieutenant of Co. H, 111th Regiment, Ohio Volunteer Infantry, resigning as of the 17 December following. It is said he served in Kentucky during this period.

Cloverdale, Calif., in 1916, where the last thirty years of his long life had been spent.

A reference to his youth is found in the diary of Moses Long of York under date of 6 November, 1846: "Counted game at squirrel hunt. Chan Holloway and Eli Root, masters. Root's side won by 10."

His parents deeded him land in York in November, 1848. He sold it to James McNab in 1856, his wife, Mary E., joining with him in passing the title, and removed to Lancaster, Wisconsin, where he lived until 1886.

Petition for letters of administration on his estate were filed 17 August, 1916, the only heirs mentioned being his son John and daughter Adelaide.

John[7] Holloway (Asa[6], Josiah[5], Josiah[4], Nathaniel[3], Samuel[2]), was born in the part of Middleboro, now Lakeville, Mass., 25 January, 1801, and died in Taunton, Mass., 25 May, 1871. He was a carpenter and builder. His unrecorded will, dated 23 December, 1856, now in possession of his great-grandson, Mr. John W. Holloway, of Pleasantville, N. Y., names only his sons, John D. and George H. Holloway as legatees.

Both John[7] Holloway and his wife are buried in the Staples cemetery in East Taunton. It seems likely the adjacent Holloway street was named for him.

He married at Dighton, Mass., 23 November, 1823, Meribah Shaw, daughter of Oliver and Meribah (Pierce) Shaw of Dighton.* She was born there, 12 June, 1798, and died in Taunton, 30 November, 1872, according to the dates given on her gravestone.

*The Genealogy of the Southworths (1905), p. 129, states that John Holloway's wife was Meribah Paddleford and that their younger son was John K. Holloway —a double error here. John[7] Holloway's mother-in-law, had a second husband, Capt. John Paddleford (as noted in the family Bible of Mrs. Asa Holloway), but the daughter, Meribah, was by her first husband, Oliver Shaw. Her gravestone in the Staples burying ground in East Taunton names her as Meribah Shaw Paddleford.

The reverses suffered by the Federal armies in Virginia during the spring and summer of 1862, and the drawn battle at Antietam, Maryland, on the 17th of September in that year may have had much to do with the action taken by Benjamin F. Holloway two days later. And then too the fact that his younger brother was serving with the Confederates may have been preying on his mind.

At any rate, although he was then forty-one years old, and the father of seven children, he enlisted nevertheless on the 19th of September in Co. C, 4th Regiment, Mass. Volunteer Infantry, for a term of nine months.

This regiment served under General Banks at the siege of Port Hudson, Louisiana. While in the trenches before the Confederate fortifications there, Mr. Holloway was mortally wounded and died 16 June, 1863—three days before his term of enlistment would have expired.

Benjamin F.[7] Holloway, married at Middleboro, 7 April, 1844, Harriet Leonard Cole, born 2 November, 1823, died 23 December, 1908, daughter of Samuel and Sarah (Leonard) Cole. In September, 1863, she petitioned the Plymouth County, Mass., Probate Court to appoint her as guardian of her children, the sons and daughters of her late husband, Benjamin F. Holloway, deceased. Her application named these children, with their dates of births, as follows:

i. Harriet F.[8], b. 23 Apr., 1847; d. unm. 9 Nov., 1865.
ii. Sarah J., b. 15 July, 1849; d. unm. 29 May, 1873.
150. iii. Benjamin F., b. 30 Mar., 1852; m. (1), Elizabeth Weaver; (2), Sarah J. Holden.
151. iv. Elbridge C. (Elbridge Samuel Cole), b. 11 Nov., 1855; m. Agnes T. Savery.
v. John T., b. 6 Feby., 1857; d. 29 Sept., 1863.
vi. Cassius M., b. 1 July, 1859; d. at Ellsworth, Me., 21 Mch., 1946. He m. (1), at Ellsworth, 25 June, 1884, Mary Ann Thomas, dau. of Isaac and Cordelia Thomas. She d. in Brockton, Mass., 21 Jany., 1916, and he m. (2), also at Ellsworth, Me., on 22 Mch., 1931, Mrs. Velma B. Haynes, ae. 69, dau. of William A. and Ruth M. (Galley) Atherton. She d. there, 28 Nov., 1936. Cassius M. Holloway had no ch.
152. vii. George Henry, b. 6 June, 1862; m. Eliza E. Thresher.

73. (Major) Edwin Martin[7] Holloway (Asa[6], Josiah[5], Josiah[4], Nathaniel[3], Samuel[2]), was born in Middleboro, Mass., 28 January, 1825, and died in Selma, Alabama, 8 September, 1885. A newspaper obituary, now in possession of his grand-nephew, Mr. Henry C. Babbitt, of Buffalo, N. Y., says of him:

"The subject of this sketch was born in Middleboro, Mass., 1825, afterwards removed to Wyoming County, New York, where he was graduated with distinction from the college at which he was then placed. In 1844 he entered the National Military Academy at West Point, which he left in 1846 to join the army then preparing for the invasion of Mexico.

"He served with distinction through the memorable campaigns of

Gen. Winfield Scott, being immediately under the command of McClellan who was then a young officer in the United States army.

"Returning home he was married in 1849, and soon afterward removed to Alabama, which state he made his home the remainder of his life. Before the late war he was a popular and successful teacher in this city and afterwards in Pleasant Hill, from which place he enlisted early in the struggle and was soon appointed to the important command of the escorts of the different commanders of the Army of Tennessee, serving in this capacity to Generals Bragg, Joseph E. Johnston, and Hood, as they successively took charge of this army.

"After the war he engaged in planting until made deputy sheriff in which capacity he served for several years."

While Edwin M. Holloway was known as Major after the war this title was probably his by brevet, his military rank having been that of Captain. He entered the service on 16 November, 1861, as 2nd Sergeant of Company K, 3rd Alabama Cavalry Regiment, and was elected Captain of his Company on 26 May, 1862. Subsequently the outfit was always referred to as Holloway's Independent Company, although recorded as the Crocheron Light Dragoons. His service as a Confederate officer is particularly interesting in view of his older brother, Benjamin Holloway, having been a soldier in the Union Army.

Some little account of Major Holloway as a teacher is given by a former pupil of his at Pleasant Hill, the late Rev. Washington B. Crumpton. In his Book of Memories, published in 1921, Rev. Crumpton states that the Major, "a northern man," was "probably the first teacher in that town in whom the boys found more than a match." He was a strict disciplinarian, and did not spare the rod. As a result the boys "got down to business," and Crumpton doubts "if any school ever taught in Alabama did better work than Holloway's." He also states that upon the outbreak of the Civil War, Holloway raised a cavalry company, "many of his own students joining it."

Major Holloway, his wife, his daughter and a son, are buried in the Live Oak Cemetery at Selma, Alabama; such dates as we have regarding this family were taken from their gravestones by the City Sexton there.

Major Holloway's wife, Mary A., was born 5 September, 1833, and died 20 September, 1890. We have not ascertained her maiden surname, nor their exact date and place of marriage.

Issue:

i. E. Cecille[8], d. at Selma, 2 Feby., 1876, ae. 17 yrs., 7 mos., 20 days. She m. Reeson Lanford, a former pupil of her father, and one of the thrashed. They had one ch. 1. Emma (Lanford, a former pupil of her father, and one of the thrashed. They had one ch. 1. Emma[9] (Lanford), now dec'd. She m. (1), Rolland Lee; (2), Julian Smith. No issue.

ii. Edwin ("Little Eddie" on g.s.), d. ae. 10 mos., 5 days.

There may have been other children in this family who died in infancy for the obituary notice from which we have quoted goes on to say that his daughter had been his "last remaining child."

Authorities besides those mentioned: State of Alabama's Department of Archives and History; Reeson Lanford's niece, Mrs. Addie Harrison, R.D. 1, Selma, Ala.; Mrs. John B. Mayo, do.

74. Isaac Gerry[7] Holloway (Isaac[6], Josiah[5], Josiah[4], Nathaniel[3], Samuel[2]), was born at Middleboro, Mass., 17 July, 1801, and died at Taunton, Mass., 15 February, 1883.

In 1825 he bought fourteen acres of land in Taunton with the buildings thereon, and made his home in that city the rest of his life. He was a carpenter and builder, and in his time erected some of Taunton's finest residences.

The entry of his death as noted in the vital records there states he was born in Middleboro, the son of Isaac and Lois Holloway, and gives his date of decease exactly as it appears in his family Bible and on his monument in Taunton's Mayflower Hill Cemetery.

This unusual agreement in different records of mortality also occurs in those of his date of birth, which are identical in the records of Middleboro, in his family Bible, and on his monument.

This memorial, a tall granite shaft, besides carrying his own vital statistics, as above noted, also bears those relating to his wife, his son, Isaac N. Holloway, and that son's wife; his daughters, Harriet Eddy and Lois Marston, with their respective husbands; his grandsons, George A. L. and Hiram W. Holloway; the granddaughters, Cora E. Marston, and her second husband, Daniel M. Dennis, and Mrs. Alice M. Foss (1866-19——), and her son, Chester L. Goodwin.* The name of Isaac's daughter, Emily J., also appears but without dates, although those of her husband, Gustavus L. Dean, are given. In all, sixteen people are recorded on this monument, a most unusual collection of genealogical material.

Isaac G.[7] Holloway married in Middleboro, Mass., 6 November, 1823, Eliza Barden, daughter of Joseph and Mary (Trouant) Barden. She was born in Middleboro, 27 August, 1803, and died in Raynham, Mass., 13 October, 1894, in her ninety-second year. Her mother, "Polly Truent," as her name is recorded in the family Bible, was a widow when Joseph Barden married her, her first husband having been James Pickens.

This Holloway-Barden Bible now in the possession of the compiler of this genealogy, gives the following names and dates of births of the children of Isaac Gerry and Eliza (Barden) Holloway:

i. Harriet[8], b. 13 May, 1824; d. 1 Jany., 1913. She m. Benjamin J. Eddy. No issue. He was a soldier in Co. C., 22nd Regt. Mass. Vol. Inf. in the Civil War and was killed at the battle of Gaines' Mills, 27 June, 1862.

ii. Eliza Ann, b. 9 Dec., 1826; m. 9 Mch., 1844, Charles Dean.

*These latter two inscriptions enabled us to find Mrs. Foss.

Issue (Dean): 1. Eliza[9], m. (1), Pardon B. Case; (2), ——— Holmes. 2. Julia Ann, m. George Packard, of Brockton, Mass.

153. iii. Almira, b. 18 Dec., 1828; m. (1), George S. Pendleton; (2), George H. Baker.

154. iv. Lois Pierce, b. 7 Jany., 1831; m. Charles A. Marston.

v. Angeline, b. 30 May, 1833; m. (1), int. ent. 22 Dec., 1849, Jared B. Allen, of Bridgewater, Mass.; (2), 18 Oct., 1862, Lewis M. Chase, son of Calvin and Sebra H. Chase. She is said to have had several sons, one of whom, Nahum[9], with a brother, (or half brother), Galen (Allen), formed the Allen Bros. Corp. of Boston, dealers in stationery.

155. vi. Isaac Newton, b. 12 Apr., 1835; m. Eliza W. Cain.

156. vii. Charles Henry, b. 25 Mch., 1837; m. Othelia Butterfield.

157. viii. Marcus Morton, b. 8 Aug., 1839; m. three times.

ix. William Otis, b. 12 Sept., 1843; d. at Stoughton, Mass., 10 Nov., 1901. Although married three times, we have found no rec. that he had any children. He m. (1), at East Bridgewater, Mass., 12 Mch., 1861, Margaret C. White, dau. of Isaac and Deborah C. White; (2), at Bridgewater, Mass., 3 Feby., 1871, Emma J. Morrison, and (3), at Braintree, Mass., 10 Sept., 1891, Mrs. Sarah Alice (Morrison) Clark, dau. of Charles and Abbie (Long) Morrison of Montville, Me. She d. 20 June, 1901, ae. 43.

x. Emily Jane, b. 6 May, 1845; m. 8 Nov., 1861, Gustavus L. Dean, b. 4 Nov., 1840, d. 9 June, 1913, son of Elbridge G. and Caroline (Briggs) Dean. He was a Captain in a Mass. regt. during the Civil War. His wife d. in Los Angeles, Calif., in her ninetieth year. They had two sons, Gustavus Franklin[9] (Dean), b. ab. 1863, and Eugene Baylis[9] (Dean), b. 30 Mch., 1870, who m. Annie L. Moore, and lives in Brockton, Mass. They have two daus., May (Mrs. George Perry), and Lotta (unm.), both of whom live with their parents. A third dau., Doloris, d. in inf. Gustavus F. Dean was living in Los Angeles at last accounts but his brother has not heard from him in years. He was m. and had a dau. Geneva, and sons Forrest, Ralph, Frank, and one other, all living in or near Los Angeles. Efforts to find them were unsuccessful.

75. (Elder) James[7] Hallowell (Seth[6], William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), born probably in Sidney, Maine, about 1795, died at Windsor, Maine, 16 March, 1843. The record of his death refers to him as Elder James Hallowell.

While no record of James[7] Hallowell's birth has been found, it probably occurred early in the year noted, or late in 1794, for as already mentioned in our account of his father, James[7] Hallowell was of sufficient age to mortgage property on 21 July, 1816, the same property or a part of it—Lot No. 4 in Windsor—on which his parents also placed a mortgage the day following. Incidentally this obligation was discharged in 1836. (Kennebec County, Me., Deeds, xxii, 474; xxv, 318.)

The vital records of Windsor, Maine, note the marriage intentions of James Hallowell, of "Malta", and Priscilla Robbins of Augusta, were entered 12 September, 1818. She was probably a sister of Abigail Robbins who married James[7] Hallowell's brother, Seth[7] Hallowell, Jr., in 1828.*

The Windsor vital records list the following children of James and Priscilla Hallowell, but give the dates of births of only two, viz., Priscilla and Sally.

i. Josiah[8], b. 1819. The U.S. Census of Windsor in 1850 lists him as an Ind. Baptist preacher, aged 31, with family consisting of Keziah Hallowell, aged 27, and Helen V., aged 2. The vital records of China, Me., note the mar. int. of Josiah "H." Hallowell, of Windsor, and Keziah W. Young, were ent. 11 Aug., 1842, while those of Windsor record their mar. on the 6 Sept. following.

In the cemetery back of the Friends' Meeting House in South China there are gravestones of Rev. Josiah R. Hallowell who d. 21 April, 1892, ae. 73-2-15 (hence b. 6 Feby., 1819), and of Keziah, who d. 19 July, 1897, ae. 75-2-15. They are buried in the lot of Benjamin D. and Mahala Young. The record of her death calls her dau. of "P. D." and Mahala Young.

Rev. Josiah's dau. Helen V., b. 2 June, 1848, evidently d. young. That there were no other ch. who survived is indicated by the will of Keziah W. Hallowell dated in 1889, which mentions only three nieces besides her husband. (Kennebec Co., Me., Probate rec. Docket H-19).

ii. James, Jr. No further rec.

iii. Priscilla ("Orilla"), b. 18 Nov., 1824. No further rec.

158. iv. Jonas [P.], b. [3 April, 1826]; m. Mary Ann Jones.

159. v. William [Fisher], b. [20 June, 1828?]; m. Sarepta Scates.

vi. Sally, b. 5 April, 1830; no further rec.

vii. Lucy. No further rec.

NOTE. Josiah Hallowell, above noted, is the only member of this particular family that we have found is the U.S. census of Windsor and of China, Me., in 1850. He appears in the U.S. Census of Palermo, Me., in 1870, listed as a farmer, aged 51, his family consisting of Keziah "Hollowell" aged 48, Wilda J. "Hollowell" aged 13, and Sarah L. "Hollowell," aged 9. These two children were evidently the nieces of Mrs. Hallowell named in her will as Wilda J. Bickmore, and "Lalie"(?) S. Fitzgerald, the latter name being no doubt the reverse of Sarah L.

*Record of the death of James[7] Hallowell's son, Rev. Jonas P.[8] Hallowell, at Blaine, Me., states he was son of "Jonas" and ———— (Robbins) Hallowell. It seems evident that a poorly written "James" on the death certificate was mistaken as "Jonas" by the clerk who entered the record.

76. SETH[7] HALLOWELL, JR. (Seth[6], William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born about 1802, probably in Sidney, Maine, the U.S. Census of China, Maine, in 1850 giving his age as 48. We have no record of his death. He left no will, no administration of his estate appears of record, and no list of his children, if any, has been found. Such as he may have had were probably few in number, and must have been either married or deceased prior to 1850, as indicated by the census taken that year.

The published vital records of Augusta, Maine, note the marriage intentions of Seth Holloway, Jr., and Abigail Robbins were entered there, 15 January, 1828. The transcript of the vital records of Windsor, Maine, state they were married 10 January, 1828, by William Hilton, J. P.

It would appear they lived in Windsor for awhile after their marriage and then removed to the adjoining town of China where the rest of their lives seems to have been spent.

The U.S. Census of 1840 finds them there, both aged between 30 and 40, with only one child, a boy, aged between 10 and 15, to complete their family.*

Ten years later the China census shows they still had only one child living with them, a girl this time, aged three years. And as this was the first census that began to name instead of number all the members of the family in addition to its head, we find this child's name was Ella V. Murray—in all likelihood one of the town's orphans who were boarded out in those days at the town's expense.

The China censuses of 1860 and 1870 still found Seth and Abigail Hallowell living together but with no other person under their roof. They were no longer there in 1880 and probably had died in the meantime.

77. JOHN[7] HALLOWELL (Seth[6], William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born at Windsor, Maine, 8 February, 1808. Record of his death has not been found, nor has any list of his children come to light except in the U.S. Census records.

He seems to have lived nearly all his life in China, Maine, where he was a farmer as late as 1870. He left no will, and no administration was taken on his estate.

The China records note his marriage intentions with Elizabeth Day were entered 13 January, 1834. Her name in other records always appears as Eliza. She was born at Monmouth, Maine, 1 September, 1807, daughter of Joseph and Deborah (Blake) Day, and granddaughter of Phineas and Ruth (Dearborn) Blake. Ruth Dearborn was a sister of General Henry Dearborn of the Revolutionary War.*

The U.S. Census of China in 1850 notes John and Eliza Hallowell, each aged 42, living in a house next door to that of Seth Hallowell [Jr.], their residences being numbered 367 and 368 in the order canvassed. From the list of his family there given, together with the record in the Census of 1860, from gravestone inscriptions in the cemetery at Weeks Mills, China, and from the state's vital records, and other sources, we have the following record of the children of John[7] and Eliza (Day) Hallowell, born at China, Maine.

160. i. Robert Riley[8], b. 1834; m. Sarah Cooper.
161. ii. John Phineas Blake, b. 30 Mch., 1837; m. three times.
iii. Deborah M., b. [4 May, 1841]; d. 29 Sept., 1842, ae. 1-4-25.
iv. Deborah P., b. [8 July, 1844]; d. 3 Oct., 1860, ae. 16-2-25.
v. Hannah M., b. [8 Jany., 1850]; d. 23 Nov., 1861, ae. 11-10-15.
vi. Sarah, d. young.

Note. As Hannah M., aged 10, was the last child recorded in this family in the 1860 census, it is reasonable to assume that any others born between 1850 and 1860 must have died young.

78. Hiram[7] Hallowell (Seth[6], William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born at Windsor, Maine, 28 January, 1811, and died probably at Etna, Penobscot County, Maine, between 1847 and 1850. No record of his children has been found, either at Windsor, China, or Etna, Maine, nor does anything appear regarding him in the probate registry of Penobscot County. The first reference to him we have come across after that of his birth is in the U.S. Census of China, Maine, in 1840 in which he appears, aged between 20 and 30, but without any family with him. As we know he already had several children then it is presumable their mother had died and that some of her relatives—or his—were taking care of them.

Record of Hiram[7] Hallowell's first marriage has not been found, but his second, as reported by the Clerk of Courts of Penobscot County at Bangor, Maine, took place in Etna, on 7 December, 1843, the bride being Lucinda Durgin.†

Probably as a sequel to this marriage we find in the records of the Probate Court of Kennebec County, Maine (Docket H-9), that John H. "Halloway" of Augusta, a minor, "over fourteen years old," child of Hiram "Halloway" of "Etney," Penobscot County, chose Ebenezer Freeman, of Hallowell [Maine], as his guardian on 3 June, 1844.*

As the U.S. Census of Etna in 1850 omits the name of Hiram Hallowell but lists Lucinda Hallowell, aged 28, as the head of a family of three daughters, the youngest born about 1847, it is reasonable to assume—barring desertion—that Hiram Hallowell had died in the meantime.

From such records as we have we can credit Hiram[7] Hallowell with the following children:

By first wife (name unknown), born probably at China, Me.:

162. i. John H(iram)[8], b. 4 June, 1828;† m. Nancy French.

ii. James H., twin with John H., was a master mariner of Belfast, Me. He m. (1), at Bangor, Me., 30 Sept., 1847, Christina M. Blake, of that city, as noted in Clarence Day's abstracts from the Maine Farmer. The pub. vital rec. of Belfast, Me., state she d. 11 Feby., 1870 (dup. rec. 1874), also that the mar. int. of James H. Hallowell and Mrs. Jennie Smith were ent. there, 1 Dec. 1874, and that he d. in Belfast, 22 Jany., 1879, ae. 50 yrs., 7 mos. Mrs. Faustie A. Hallowell, of Belfast, widow of John H. Hallowell's son, Violento, states James H. Hallowell had no ch. There is no est. under his name in the Probate rec. of Knox County, Me.

iii. Miranda, m. ——— Warren of Scarsmont, Me., according to Mrs. Faustie Hallowell. No further rec.

iv. Irena(?) listed in the China census of 1850, as aged 17, could well have been Hiram Hallowell's dau. If so, she must have joined her twin brothers in Belfast not long afterwards for the pub. vital rec. of the city note the mar. int. of Irene A. "Holway" and Francis A. Glidden were

*Possibility that Ebenezer Freeman may have been John H. Hallowell's uncle or maternal grandfather was explored. It was found that Frederick Freeman's Freeman Genealogy, published in 1875 noted an Ebenezer Freeman, born in 1788, son of Samuel and Achsah (Crocker) Freeman, who removed to Hallowell, Maine. The vital records there note the marriage of Ebenezer Freeman, son of Samuel, to Lucy White on 11 Sept., 1814. No daughter of theirs could have been old enough to have had a son born in 1828, as John H. Hallowell seems to have been, and no sister of Ebenezer Freeman could have been Hiram Hallowell's first wife.

†Despite his father's extreme youth at the time, this date of John H. Hallowell's birth, as inscribed on his gravestone in Belfast, Me., checks almost exactly with his age as given in the records of Brooks, Me., at the time of his death (82 y.—4 m.—29 d., on 1 Nov., 1910), with that of his twin brother's on the date of his decease as noted above, as well as with that recorded for them—22 years—in the census of 1850.

A like agreement, however, is not found in the records with respect to John H. Hallowell's birthplace. The record of his death names Waterville, Me., while those of his son's two marriages list China and Belfast respectively.

ent. there 12 Apr., 1852. Their names do not appear in the Knox County Probate rec.

By second wife, Lucinda Durgin, born at Etna, Maine, from census of 1850:

v. Charlotte, b. 1844 (ae. 6 in 1850.
vi. Lydia E., b. 1846 (ae. 4 in 1850).
vii. Ruth, b. 1847 (ae. 3 in 1850).

We have no further record of these daughters. Their names were not found in the Etna censuses of 1860 and 1870, and the Town Clerk there stated she could find nothing about them.

NOTE. The unidentified Abigail G. (or J.) "Hollaway" who married James H. Witham in Belfast on 25 October, 1853, as noted in the published vital records of that city, may also have been a daughter of Hiram Hallowell by his first wife, as both his sons were living there at the time.

79. RHODA[7] HALLOWELL (Seth[6], William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born at Leeds, Maine, 12 January, 1818, and died there, in all probability between the years 1861 and 1870.

The History of Leeds, Maine (p. 337), states that the marriage intentions of Rhoda Holloway and Abner Burnham were entered there in 1837, and certificate of marriage issued that July. It is also stated in this work [p. 232] that Abner Burnham was an early settler of Leeds, having sons Daniel and John, and probably Azel and Abner, Jr. That Rhoda Hallowell's husband was the latter is shown by the U.S. Census of Leeds taken in 1850 which includes with the family of Abner Burnham, Jr., aged 35, and Rhoda Burnham, aged 32, an older Abner Burnham, aged 78, and Susannah Burnham, aged 72.

List of the children of Abner and Rhoda[7] (Hallowell) Burnham, Jr., does not appear in the vital records of Leeds, nor in the history of the town, but the U.S. Censuses taken there in 1850, 1860, and 1870 enable us to give their names and their approximate years of birth as follows, while the town's history provides the Civil War records and the marriage data noted.

Issue of Abner and Rhoda[7] (Hallowell) Burnham, Jr.:

i. William Abner[8] (Burnham), b. 12 Aug., 1838; m. Lucinda Sturtevant, 17 June, 1858.
ii. Seth F., b. 1840; private Co. I, 23rd Maine Vol. Inf.; d. 8 Mch., 1863.
iii. Mary J., b. 1842; m. Rufus Trask, 16 Aug., 1862.
iv. Milton W., b. 1844 (22 Feby.); soldier in Civil War—Co. I, 23rd Maine. He m. (1), 29 Sept., 1863, Maria B. Farrington; (2), 15 Aug., 1899, Vilina J. Anderson. He had one son, Eugene M.[9] (dec.) who has a son, Horatio[10] (Burnham), of Sabattus, Me.
v. Sarah E., b. 1847; m. 20 Nov., 1868, Charles A. Wing, of Franklin, Me.
vi. Betsey E., b. 1848; prob. d. young. Not listed in 1860 census.
vii. Augusta, b. 1849; d. young.

viii. Rufus F., b. 1851; m. 2 Nov., 1869, Mrs. Rosilla Burnham, widow of Joseph H. Burnham.
ix. Betsey Ann, b. 1853; m. 10 May, 1886, Austin H. Wing. They have a son, Sanford[9] (Wing), of Leeds Jct., Me.
x. Susanna S., b. 155; d. young.
xi. Priscilla, b. 1857; d. young.

80. William H.[7] Hallowell (Seth[6], William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), according to the records of Leeds, Maine, was born 9 March, 1820, but the inscription on his gravestone in the Pine Plains cemetery there gives the date as 23 February, 1823. The record of death of his son, Rufus, says that William H. was born at Dexter, Maine. He died at Wayne, Maine, 18 February, 1877.

The census of Monmouth, Maine, in 1850, lists William Hallowell, aged 29, with family consisting of Eliza Hallowell, aged 23, Rufus Hallowell, aged 3, evidently his wife and their son; Lafayette, aged 23, and Thomas J. Hallowell, aged 21, his brothers, obviously; and Seth Hallowell, aged 77—his father, beyond any doubt.

William H.[7] Hallowell married at Leeds, Maine, 21 July, 1844, Eliza Ann Fish, daughter of Jirah, Jr., and Joanna D. (Irish) Fish. She died at Monmouth, Maine, 12 February, 1892, aged 63 years, 11 months.

William H. and Eliza Ann (Fish) Hallowell had but one child:

163. i. Rufus Henry[8], b. 5 Jany., 1847, Leeds, Me.; m. (1), Sarah Jacobs; (2), Mrs. Julia Hussey.

Authorities: Maine Vital Statistics; History of Leeds, Me., p. 331.

81. Betsey E.[7] Hallowell (Seth[6], William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born at Leeds, Maine, 16 April, 1821, and died in August, 1894.

The History of Leeds, Maine (p. 340), states she married Uriah Libby, 25 November, 1841. The Libby Family of America (1882), [p. 330], notes he was born 28 April, 1817, the son of Solomon and Dorcas (Foss) Libby. Neither work lists any of the children of Uriah and Betsey[7] (Hallowell) Libby, but the U.S. Census records of Leeds for the years 1850, 1860 and 1870 give us their names as follows (perhaps incomplete) together with the approximate years of birth of the last three:

i. Elmira Jane[8] (Libby), b. 13 July, 1842; m. Amos Phillips Grant. They had seven children of whom four survive, viz., Joseph L.[9] (Grant), of Turner, Me.; Bertha A. (Waite); Arthur W., and Linwood S. (Grant) of No.

Leeds, Me., b. 5 Jany., 1886. Those dec'd were Harry A., Edward L., and Rose E. (Addison).

ii. Eliza Ann, b. 10 May, 1844; m. [164] Thomas J.[8] Hallowell.

iii. Mary, d. young.

iv. Lucinda, b. 1848; d. young.

v. Uriah Francis, b. 1858; d. 6 June, 1915, Mexico, Me.; m. (1), 24 July, 1880, Lucy Ann Sumner; (2), Mrs. Ada Falls. He was the only member of this family recorded with his parents in the census of 1870, at which time his age was given as 12 years. He had two ch. by his first wife: 1. Charles A.[9] (Libby), b. Jany., 1882, of Ridlonville, Me. 2. Florence Elizabeth, who m. Albert Rose.

vi. James H., b. 1860; d. young.

NOTE. It is quite possible there may have been other children in this family, who either died in infancy or were living with neighbors when the censuses were taken. This was the case with Eliza Ann, who while recorded with her parents' family in 1860, was living with that of Salmon Elms in 1850. The 1860 census notes a Charles Libby, aged 10, in the family of Mathias Hanscome and an Eveline Libby, aged 6, in that of Agnes Ballou. These two children could have been born to Uriah and Betsey (Hallowell) Libby in the ten year gap between their daughter Lucinda and their son, Uriah Francis, but whether or not this was so could not be determined.

82. GEORGE WASHINGTON[7] HALLOWELL (Seth[6], William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born 9 July, 1824, and died at Leeds, Maine, 5 February, 1907. As in the case of his brother, William, while the date of his birth is given in the town records there, it is quite likely the event occurred at Dexter, Maine.

This is so stated in the rolls of Maine's soldiers in the Civil War which show that George W. Hallowell, aged "41", enlisted in Co. D, 15th Regt. Maine Volunteer Infantry, 26 September, 1864, and was honorably discharged 30 June, 1865. He is described as just under five feet tall, light hair and complexion, blue eyes.

His residence at the time of his enlistment is not given, but it may have been at Howard, Maine, then known as Township 8, Range 8. He was living there for some few years as shown by the census records. That of 1860 lists him as a resident there, while the one of Leeds ten years later, when recording him again, notes that his two youngest daughters were born in Howard.

Just when he returned to Leeds is uncertain but it was probably between 1865 and 1870 for his name does not appear in the list of the town's Civil War soldiers as given in its history. He left a will—on file in the Probate Registry at Auburn, Maine.

George W.[7] Hallowell married at Leeds, 4 December, 1845, Martha Jane Sturtevant, daughter of David and Betsey (Burnham) Sturtevant. She died at Leeds, 6 August, 1889, aged 67. The record of their marriage gives his name as Holloway.

Issue, first three born at Leeds, last two at Howard, Maine:

164. i. Thomas Jefferson[8], b. 4 Feby., 1847; m. (1), Eliza Ann[8] Libby; (2), Mrs. Arlette B. Williams.
ii. Benjamin F., b. 1848—ae. 2 in 1850 Census; not listed in later; d. young.
iii. Christianna Victoria, b. 1852—ae. 8 in 1860 census. She m. Charles Merrill, and had one son Delmar[9] (Merrill), now dec'd., who was m. twice. Two ch. who d. young, by first wife—none by second.
iv. Lilla Etta, b. 1855—ae. 5 in 1860 census; m. at Leeds, 20 Sept., 1874, William H. Wing, son of George Washington Wing. She d. in 1887, and her ch. were brought up by their Hallowell grandparents. Issue (Wing): 1. George Herbert[9], b. 6 Apr., 1876; m. Celia Wing. Res. (1947), R.F.D., North Leeds, Me. 2. Rose Eva, b. 1879; d. 1891. 3. Hattie May, b. 3 Sept., 1884; m. Elwood Richards. Res. (1947), Auburn, Me.
v. Ellen Frances, b. 1858—ae. 2 in 1860 census; d. at Mexico, Me., in 1912. She m. at Leeds, 15 May, 1874, James S. Wing, b. 11 Dec., 1853, Franklin Plantation (Peru), Me.; d. Jany., 1934, Greene, Me., son of Stephen P. and Mercy (Andrews) Wing. Issue (Wing): 1. Josie M.[9] b. May, 1875, Leeds, Me.; d. 1921; m. Isaac S. Wing. 2. Florence E., b. Mch., 1884, Wales, Me.; d. 1936; m. Eugene Rideout. 3. James B., b. 1888, Leeds, Me.; d. 1920; m. Lovine Webber. 4. Alton L., b. 25 June, 1892, Monmouth, Me. Res., New Gloucester, Me.; thrice m. Eleven ch.

83. Lafayette[7] Hallowell (Seth[6], William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born at Leeds, Maine, 4 April, 1827, and died at Leeds, 16 October, 1878. He was a farmer and stone mason.

Lafayette[7] Hallowell married Nancy G. Fish, daughter of Jirah and Joanna D. (Irish) Fish, Jr. She was born at Littleborough Plantation, Maine, 4 January, 1833, and died at Leeds, 30 July, 1871.

Issue, first two from Leeds records:

i. Laura Ella[8], b. 17 Sept., 1853. No further rec. Probably d. young.
ii. Flora E., b. 1854; m. George Tarr, of Brunswick, Me. No issue. The Brunswick records give the date of this marriage as 13 July, 1872, while the History of Leeds [p. 352] has it 20 Aug., 1872.
165. iii. Willard Dumont, b. 17 Apr., 1857;* m. Sadie Gorman.
166. iv. Elizabeth Estella, b. 16 May, 1859, Brewer, Me.; m. William F. McNerney, Jr.

*Another account says 25 April, 1855, which cannot be reconciled with his sister Flora's date of birth—late in 1854, as it must have been, if in that year at all.

167. v. Charles A., b. ab. 1860, Dexter, Me.; m. Hattie A. Smith.

84. Nancy[7] Hallowell (John[6], William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born at Sidney, Maine, 1 (or 5) March, 1805. She married at Windsor, Maine, between 14 December, 1825, when their intentions were entered, and 9 April, 1826, Ezekiel Peva. He was born 14 September, 1804, and died 28 May, 1843.

Issue (Peva), all but the last from Windsor records:

i. John Hallowell[8], b. 8 Feby., 1827; d. 26 Mch., 1847.
ii. Sarah Tolman, b. 29 May, 1829; m. Joseph W. Springer, 30 Nov., 1851.
iii. Rachel, b. 30 April, 1831; m. Eben G. Reed, of Boothbay, Me.
iv. Amos James, b. 27 May, 1833; m. Eliza A. Dean, 18 Nov., 1853.
v. Mercy E., b. 30 Mch., 1835; m. Seth Moody, 5 Jany., 1852.
vi. William, b. 10 Feby., 1837 (or 10 Dec., 1837); d. 2 Sept., 1888.
vii. Ezekiel, Jr., b. 29 May, 1839; d. young.
viii. George, b. 8 May, 1841; m. Annie Pratt.
ix. Nancy Jane, b. ; m. Alexander McCausland at Augusta, Me., 8 Dec., 1860.

In the administration of Ezekiel Peva's estate in June, 1846, Nancy J. "Peavy" is the last one named of the minor children of Ezekiel "Peavy", deceased. (Kennebec County, Maine, Probate records, Docket P-3). As a niece of Caleb[7] Hallowell she appears as Jane McCausland, of Augusta, when petitioning that Nathan F. Thorn, of Richmond, be appointed administrator of her uncle's estate. (Ibid., Docket H 21). Her marriage as above noted is from the Vital Records of Augusta, Maine (Vol. 1, p. 470).

85. Mary[7] Hallowell (John[6], William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), called by her descendants Mary Cobb Hallowell, was born at Sidney, Maine, 19 February, 1807, and died at Windsor, Maine, 7 May, 1876.

She married there between 9 December, 1825, when their intentions were published, and 9 April, 1826, Enoch Merrill, born 17 March, 1802 (or 1803), died 9 March, 1882, son of John and Mary (Jewell) Merrill.

Issue (Merrill), from family Bible in possession of her great-granddaughter, Mrs. Frank T. Holmes, of Augusta, Maine:

i. Florentius[8], b. 7 May, 1827; m. Jane Linn. Their grandson, Dr. Merrill A. Bigelow, Ph.D., B.A., Colby, M.A. and Ph.D., Columbia), is principal of two grade schools in Bloomfield, N. J., and also of the Senior High School there during the summer sessions.

ii. Mary Jane, b. 25 Mch., 1829; m. (1), John Dearborn; (2), Andrew Nichols.
167A. iii. Mercy, b. 27 Mch., 1831; m. Jeremy M. Hussey.
iv. Enoch, Jr., b. 14 Mch., 1833; m. Mary Ann Caswell.
v. Jefferson, b. 21 Mch., 1835; m. Elvira Barnett.
vi. James F., b. 17 (or 19) Mch., 1838; m. (1), Angeletta Pierce; (2), Anabel Haskell.
vii. Ruel, b. 13 Nov., 1840; m. Anna Pierce.
viii. Melvin (Melville) A., b. 24 May, 1843; m. Martha Haskell.
ix. Leonard, b. 28 Oct., 1844; m. Elizabeth Tibbetts. Their grandson, LeRoy S.[10] Merrill, of Augusta, has a dau. who is a member of the D.A.R. through descent, among others, from Sgt. [27] William[5] Holloway.
x. Maria Anna, b. 1 Oct., 1848; Ruel A. Haskell.
xi. Melissa, b. 26 Sept., 1849; m. (1), Abner Haskell; (2), Fred Haskell. She d. at Augusta, Me., in March, 1942, aged 92 yrs., 6 mos., 6 days.
xii. Marietta, b. 21 Jany., 1851; m. Benjamin McFarland.

The History of Kennebec County, Maine [p. 1191], says that six of these seven Merrill brothers served in the Union Army during the Civil War and that all six lived to return.

86. Mercy[7] Hallowell (John[6], William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]),was born at Sidney, Maine, 22 June, 1809. We have not found the date of her death.

She married Dennis G. Trask, of Sidney. His gravestone in the Baptist cemetery at Windsor, Maine, gives his date of death as 16 March, 1884, and his age as 67 years, 19 days.

Issue (Trask), first five from Windsor records:

i. Mary A.[8], b. 30 Apr., 1841; d. 22 Oct., 1870.
ii. Sumner D., b. 1 Nov., 1842; d. 10 Feby., 1860.

iv. Mercy D., b. 23 Dec., 1845. No further rec. Prob. d. young.
v. Adelia H., b. 25 Apr., 1848; d. 5 Mch., 1932; m. Napoleon B.[8] Hallowell, a sec. cousin, son of [94] Elijah G.[7] Hallowell. No issue.
vi. William. Living in Windsor, Me., in 1901, when named as a nephew of Caleb[7] Hallowell, dec'd, in the probating of that estate. A William S. Trask, whose wife was Etta H., d. there 30 Sept., 1933. His foster son, Samuel A. Trask, of West Milan, N. H. (1947), believes William S. identical with William Trask above noted.

87. Leonard[7] Hallowell (John[6], William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born at Windsor, Maine, 11 November, 1811, and died 9 February, 1895, aged 83 years, 3 months, as stated on his gravestone in the Baptist cemetery at Windsor.

The U.S. census records of Windsor list him as a farmer. As far as known he spent all his life in his native town.

Leonard[7] Hallowell married at Windsor, 6 November, 1831, Mary W. Gaslin, of Vassalboro, Maine, born 6 June, 1808, died 7 November, 1890, "aged 82 years, 5 months." (G.S.)

The Kennebec County, Maine, Probate records [Docket H-17] note that Lorenzo Hallowell, of East Pittston, Maine, Hannah M. Merrill, of Malden, Mass., Vesta I. Studley of No. Windsor, Maine, and Millard F. Hallowell, of St. Paul, Minn., signed petition in March, 1895, requesting that Jacob Merrill, of Malden, Mass., be appointed administrator on estate of their mother, Mary Hallowell, of Windsor, Maine, who died on the date noted above.

Leonard[7] and Mary (Gaslin) Hallowell had issue, born at Windsor, Maine—first seven from the town records:

i. Harrison C.[8], b. 22 Aug., 1832; d. 29 Janv., 1833.

168. ii. Lorenzo L., b. 30 Nov., 1833; m. Hannah C.[8] Hallowell.

170. v. Vesta I., b. 13 Feby., 1840;* m. John A. Studley.

vi. Levander, L., b —— Feby., 1843; d. 1844.

vii. Orren L., b. 12 Sept., 1846; d. 20 Mch., 1876; m. Emily[8] Hallowell, dau. of [96] Lemuel[7] Hallowell. Int. ent. at Windsor, 10 Feby., 1872. She d. 6 Nov., 1873. No issue.

viii. Millard F., b. 6 Apr., 1852; d. at St. Paul, Minn., 31 Oct., 1935. He m. (1), at Augusta, Me., 27 July, 1873, Emma Louise Folsom, b. 13 Apr., 1853, d. 19 Feby., 1883, dau. of Andrew B. and Rebecca (Beal) Folsom. He m. (2), at Windsor, Me., 6 July, 1884, Mary E. Wiley, of Searsmont, Me., who d. at Silver Springs, Md., 20 July, 1946. He had no issue by her, but a ch. by his first wife d. in infancy.

Some family records made by Millard F.[8] Hallowell are now in the writer's possession. These included the names and dates of births of the children of Leonard[7] Hallowell, and of those of his father, John[6] Hallowell, also the latter's date of birth, and his wife, Mercy Leonard's, as well, together with some mortality data.

There was evidently another child in this family for these latter records include a "John, born July 26, died one week later." No year was noted.

90. John[7] Hallowell, Jr. (John[6], William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born at Windsor, Maine, 12 January, 1820, and died 12 February, 1901, according to the inscription on his gravestone in the Baptist cemetery at Windsor.

The records of the Adjutant General of Maine state that John Hallowell, Jr., aged 42, farmer, born at Windsor, married, light complexion, blue eyes, enlisted in Co. G, 19th Maine Volunteer Infantry on 7 August, 1862, and was discharged at Falmouth, Virginia, for disability, 10 April, 1863.

On 20 February, 1901, Helen M. Caswell, of Windsor, Maine, requested that Daniel "F." Burrill—probably her brother-in-law—be appointed administrator of the estate of her father, John Hallowell, late of Windsor, deceased, the other heirs at law being her sister, Nancy

"B." Burrill, and the three brothers named below. (Kennebec County, Me., Probate records, Docket H-21.)

John[7] Hallowell, married, intentions entered at Windsor, Me., between 24 January and 7 February, 1841, Betsey W. Gaslin, a sister of his brother Leonard's wife. She was born 13 August, 1814, and died 5 March, 1890. (G.S.)

93. Enoch Merrill[7] Hallowell (John[6], William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born at Windsor, Maine, 15 November, 1829, and died at St. Paul, Minn., 6 August, 1893. He had been a carriage manufacturer there for many years in company with his brother Daniel, had built up a large and successful business, and left a considerable estate.

Enoch M.[7] Hallowell married at Lowell, Mass., 12 July, 1853, Mary A. Atherton, born in England, daughter of Thomas and Alice Atherton. She died in St. Paul five days after her husband's decease.

Issue, first child born in Windsor, Maine, last two in St. Paul:

i. Henri[8], b. 18 May, 1855; d. 28 Mch., 1856. (G.S. Windsor).

174. ii. Charles Atherton, b. ab. 1858, Augusta, Me.; m. Katherine Nolan.

175. iii. Willis Elmer, b. 10 June, 1861; m. Margareta E. Schaub.

iv. George Worthington, d. ——— May, 1920, San Francisco, Calif. He m. Mary Chase Pepper, who d. in Oakland, Calif., 23 Sept., 1947. They had a child that died young.

94. Elijah G.[7] Hallowell (William[6], William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born at Windsor, Maine, 19 April, 1811, or 19 September that year, as given in another record. We lack the date of his death but it is believed to have occurred about 1890. He is said to have been buried with several of his children in the Baptist Church cemetery at Windsor, but only his son Napoleon has a gravestone there.

The U.S. Census of China, Maine, in 1840 lists Elijah G. Hallowell with wife and three children. The census taken at Windsor, Maine, ten years later, lists him there as a farmer, and credits him with a family which checks with that given him in the town records; this was the first census that began to name all the different members of a household and note their ages instead of merely enumerating them as formerly.*

The 1860 Census at Windsor lists him as a baker, and gives the names of two more children in his family than were included in the town records. We do not find him in the censuses of the town that were taken in 1870 and in 1880, although he was living there as late as 27 June, 1889, when his sister, Mrs. Betsey Studley, made her will and called him of Windsor when naming him among her legatees.

Elijah G.[7] Hallowell was active in the state militia, reaching the rank of Captain. He received his discharge as such in 1851.

His intention of marriage with Almira (Elmira) Studley was entered at Windsor, 31 May, 1834. She is said to have been a sister of Daniel Studley, Jr., who married Elijah's sister, Betsey[7] Hallowell.

Issue, born at Windsor, Maine, first eight from the town records:

i. Hannah Catherine[8], b. 10 Mch., 1835; m. [168] Lorenzo L.[8] Hallowell.

176. ii. John A., b. 21 Sept., 1836; m. (1), Mrs. Laura A. Dudley; (2), Mrs. Abigail A. Richardson.

iii. Reuel H., b. 18 Mch., 1839; no rec. after 1860 census when he was listed in the family of "E. G." Hallowell.

iv. Sarah A., b. 2 Jany., 1841; no rec. after 1860, as above.

v. Napoleon B., b. 22 Feby., 1843; d. at Whitefield, Me., 19 Apr., 1908. He m. at Windsor, 2 Apr., 1874, Adelia H.[8] Trask, dau. of Dennis and [86] Mercy[7] (Hallowell) Trask, a second cousin. No issue. She d. in Windsor, 5 Mch., 1932.

vi. Joseph S., b. 9 Mch., 1845; no rec. after 1860 census.

vii. Nancy F., b. 8 Jany., 1848; d. 1 Nov., 1848.

viii. Benjamin Franklin, b. 13 Nov., 1849; no rec. after 1860 census.

ix. Eugene, b. 1851 or '52—"aged 8" in 1860 census. In Dec., 1877, Eugene Hallowell, together with his father and James P. Trask, took inventory of the personal estate of Daniel Studley, late of Windsor, dec'd. The Census of 1880 finds him living in Augusta, Me., with his brother, Lorenzo, seemingly unm. We have no later rec. of him.

x. Lorenzo, b. about 1855—"aged 5" in 1860 Census. Lorenzo S. Hallowell and Ella F. Lowden, both of Windsor, were m. in China, Me., 10 June, 1876. No rec. of any ch. This mar. does not seem to have lasted very long for the U.S.

*This innovation has been of the greatest value in genealogical research, particularly in districts that kept no vital records at all, or only partial ones, until comparatively recent years.

Census of Augusta in 1880, shows "Alonzo" Hallowell living with Eugene Hallowell, but with no Ella present. His death must have occurred soon afterwards, for while the Kennebec County records do not show him as divorced, they do show the marriage of Mrs. Ella F. Hallowell, of Windsor, to George H. Freeman, of China, 15 July, 1882. The rec. of her death at China, 17 Nov., 1901, states she was dau. of Rufus and Betsey I. (Casey) Lowden.

xi. Hattie E., b. 1861, undoubtedly the Hattie E. Hallowell, of Windsor, who m. George H. Freeman, of China, in that town, 20 Feby., 1878. We cannot place her elsewhere, and the mar. of Freeman to Lorenzo S. Hallowell's widow four years later would seem to have some significance here. The U.S. Census of China, Me., in 1880 lists George H. Freeman, aged 22, as head of a family consisting of Hattie, aged 19, and another Hattie, aged one. There being no rec. of this young couple's divorce, it would appear that Mrs. Hattie E. (Hallowell) Freeman must have died sometime between the summer of 1880, when the census was taken, and that of 1882, when Freeman re-married. It is possible they mave have had another child but if such was the case rec. of it has not been found to date.

NOTE. There is a belief amongst the grandchildren of Elijah G.[7] Hallowell's son, John A.[8], that one of Elijah's sons, Reuel, and perhaps some other members of this family, settled in Nova Scotia but just where is unknown.

Authorities, besides those mentioned: Kennebec County, Me., Probate records, Dockets S7-2830; S16-5370; Marriage records, Vol. 6, pp. 70, 76; Supreme Judicial and Superior Court records.

95. WILLIAM[7] HALLOWELL, 3RD (William[6], William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born at Windsor, Maine, 21 April, 1818. We have no record of the date and place of his death as he left home in 1847 and was never heard from again.* He had been engaged in farming at Windsor.

William[7] Hallowell, 3rd, married there, 3 March, 1836, Rachel Merrill, daughter of John and Hannah [or Mary] (Palmer) Merrill. Some years after her husband's disappearance she obtained a divorce at the sitting of the court held at Augusta in April, 1854, and on the 14th of the following November, married Hendrick Smart. She had one child by him, a daughter, Alice, who married a Mr. Chadwick, of Waterville, Maine.

The U.S. Census of Windsor, Maine, in 1850 lists five children of William and Rachel Hallowell but only one of their ages as given

*In her suit for divorce Mrs. Hallowell stated her husband left her in April, 1847, but the Census of 1850 lists him and his family as living in the house of John Merrill, no doubt his father-in-law. Possibly he was counted in, though missing, as may be indicated by the fact his wife bore him no children after 1847.

therein checks with their dates of births as received from members of their families.

These children, besides an earlier one that died in infancy,* were as follows, born at Windsor, Maine:

i. Weston[8], b. 14 Apr., 1839; d. at Vassalboro, Me., 14 Feby., 1899. Weston Hallowell, aged 22, enlisted on 16 Sept., 1861, as a private in Co. B, 9th Regt. Maine Volunteer Infantry, for three years' service, and was honorably discharged, by reason of disability, 26 March, 1863. He m. at Augusta, Me., 14 Nov., 1869, Irene Warren, of Augusta, dau. of Levi and Mahala (Dearborn) Warren. She d. in Vassalboro, 28 Jany., 1908. No issue.

177. ii. Daniel, b. 9 Mch., 1841;† m. (1), Mary Fleming; (2), Mrs. Hannah ———.

iii. Betsey, b. prob. in 1842 (ae. "9" in 1850 census); m. at Augusta, Me., 16 Aug., 1862, James G. Nash, and lived in Waterboro, Me. Issue (Nash), perhaps incomplete: 1. Annie[9], m. ——— Engley, of No. Nobleboro, Me. 2. Mary, m. ——— Linscott, of Damariscotta, Me. 3. George, of Nobleboro, Me. NDIO.

178. iv. Orren Freeman, b. 15 Aug., 1845;‡ m. Sarah A. Gerald.

179. v. Nathan Tolman, b. 12 May, 1847; m. Etta C. Trask.

Authorities: Kennebec County, Me., Clerk of Courts Records; Probate records, Docket H-19 for 1899 (which mentions the Nash children); Adj. General's records, State of Maine; Maine Vital Statistics.

96. Lemuel[7] Hallowell (William[6], William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born at Windsor, Maine, 25 August, 1820, and died in Augusta, Maine, 7 March, 1901, "aged 83," according to the entry of his death in the Vital Statistics of Maine. This records calls him "Lemuel Halloway, son of William." His gravestone in the Baptist cemetery at Windsor is inscribed "1822-1902."

Lemuel[7] Hallowell was a farmer living in Windsor and in Pittston, Maine. The records of the Adjutant General of the State note that Lemuel Hallowell, "aged 35," married, five feet, eleven inches tall, dark complexion, blue eyes, and dark hair, enlisted in Co. B, 11th Regt. Maine Volunteer Infantry, on 12 October, 1861. Record of his discharge does not appear.

Lemuel[7] Hallowell married at China, Maine, 9 November, 1840,

*Included without name as a child of William Hallowell, "Jr.," in the Windsor records of those who had died in 1838-39.

†The Census of 1850 gives his age as 11, while he gave it as 21 when he enlisted in the army, 19 June, 1861.

‡A family records says 1846, but census of 1850 gives his age as 5 years, probably nearer right in view of Nathan Tolman's date of birth which checks with his age in 1850 census record.

Betsey Scates. She died 20 February, 1885, "aged 58," according to the inscription reported on her gravestone in Windsor.*

Issue—first three from the Windsor records:

180. i. Betsey Ann,[8] b. 24 Nov., 1842; m. Benjamin Pearl.

ii. Lydia, b. 6 Sept., 1846; m. at Pittston, Me., 20 Nov., 1862, John F. Little, b. 4 Nov., 1835, son of John and Eliza (Heath) Little. They rem. to Calif. One son, John Truston[9] (Little), b. —— July, 1877. No further rec. There may have been other ch.

iii. Emily, b. 9 (or 29) Jany., 1849; d. —— Mch., 1850.

iv. Emily (2d), b. [—— Feby., 1853]; d. 6 Nov., 1873, ae. 20 yrs., 9 mos. (G.S.); m. Orren L.[8] Hallowell, son of [87] Leonard[7] Hallowell. No issue.

181. v. James H., b. 17 Jany., 1854; m. Lucy E.[8] Thorne.

vi. Edward S., b. 28 Feby., 1857; d. 8 Nov., 1920; m. (1), int. ent. at Windsor, 15 Apr., 1888, Emma Pierce. They were divorced in April, 1895, and he m. (2), at China, Me., 3 July, 1906, Mrs. Aurilla Haskell, dau. of Walter and Betsey (Tyler) Haskell. She d. at China, 23 Sept., 1918. Edward S. Hallowell had one ch. by his first wife, a son, Guy P.[9], b. 10 Sept., 1889, at Windsor; d. 14 Apr., 1906.

vii. Angeline, b. 1859; m. John McCurdy. From two of her nephews we learned she had four ch. (McCurdy), viz., order uncertain: 1. Elmer, who is dec'd, leaving a large family. 2. Alice, who m. (1), Frank Pierce; (2), Cecil Davis. Res. (1947), Pownal, Me. Two daus. by first husband. 3. Harry, who is m. and lives somewhere in Maine. 4. Roxy (Ellen), who was reported to have been m. to a Coburn, also to a Joseph Walsh, and to live near Boston. [NDIO.

viii. Minnie M., b. 1861; m. (int. ent. at Windsor, 10 June, 1876), Daniel F.[8] Merrill, a second cousin, son of Nathaniel and [88] Lucy[7] (Hallowell) Merrill. Issue (Merrill). 1. Asa[9] (dec'd). 2. Mattie, dec'd; m. George Doe. 3. Wallace D., d. 12 Apr., 1900, ae. 17 yrs. 4. Pearl A., b. 16 June, 1889. He is unm. and lives at Weeks Mills, Me. 5. Minnie E., d. 10 Jany., 1896, ae. 10 weeks.

ix. William, b. 24 Apr., 1865, Togus, Me.; m. (1), at Augusta, Me., 25 Nov., 1886, Ida M. Allen; (2), 10 June, 1900, Mary Cushing, b. Rockland, Me., 22 Feby., 1867; d. at Windsor, Me., 12 Feby., 1917, dau. of McCobb and Helen P. (Marshall) Allen. No issue. He was still living at Week's Mills, Me., in 1948, the last survivor of this family.

*Obviously an error in view of her date of marriage. The Windsor census of 1850 gives her age as 26, which is probably nearer correct.

He states there were four other children born to his parents, but who died in infancy.

97. Caroline V.[7] Hallowell (William[6], William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born at Windsor, Maine, 12 March, 1823. She was living in Cedar Springs, Michigan, in 1889, as noted in the will of her sister, Mrs. Betsey[7] Studley.

She married at Windsor, 31 August, 1843, Daniel G. Wyman, whose sister, Sarah M., is said to have been the wife of Caroline's brother, Joseph F.[7] Hallowell, and whose brother, Ora C. Wyman, married Caroline's sister, Lucy P.[7] Hallowell.

Issue (Wyman), from Windsor records, perhaps incomplete:

i. Matilda W.[8], b. 12 Nov., 1844; m. ——— Studley. They had a son, William F.[9] (Studley), named in will of Matilda's aunt, Betsey[7] (Hallowell) Studley.
ii. Emily E., b. 22 July, 1846.
iii. Daniel G., Jr., b. 18 June, 1848.
iv. Caroline V., b. 31 Aug., 1849.

No trace of this family could be found. They do not appear in the Wyman Genealogy, and there are no estates of record under the names of Daniel G. or Caroline Wyman in the Probate Court of Kent County, Mich.

98. Joseph Franklin[7] Hallowell (William[6], William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born at Windsor, Maine, 1 (or 21) December, 1825, and died at Boothbay, Maine, 2 December, 1862.

The records of the Adjutant General of the State of Maine note that "Franklin J." Hallowell, married, aged 36, born at Windsor, mariner, enlisted for three years in Co. C, 14th Maine Volunteer Infantry, on 4 December, 1861. He left the service at Carrollton, Louisianna, and died of disease at Boothbay on the date above noted.

His military record is mentioned in the History of Boothbay.

Joseph F.[7] Hallowell married at Windsor, 19 October, 1846, Sarah Matilda Wyman, born in Vassalboro, Maine, 15 June, 1827, died at Boothbay Harbor, Maine, 7 April, 1899, daughter of Edwin and Matilda (Gerrish) Wyman. The probate records of Lincoln County, Maine, indicate she left a will, but for some reason it failed to be recorded and is no longer to be found in the Registry's pending files.

Joseph F.[7] and Sarah M. (Wyman) Hallowell had issue:

182. i. Angelia Isobel[8], b. 19 Sept., 1849, Augusta, Me.; m. Alonzo Meader.

Authorities, besides those mentioned: Vital Records of Augusta, Me., Vol. 1, p. 64; Mrs. Herbert R. Conant, of Augusta, Me., for parentage of Sarah Matilda Wyman.

99. Lucy P.[7] Hallowell (William[6], William[5], Jonathan[4], Ma- lachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born at Windsor, Maine, 15 September, 1829. We do not have her date of death, which probably occurred in Cedar Springs, Michigan. She was living there in 1889, as mentioned in the will of her sister, Mrs. Betsey Studley.

She married at Windsor, Maine, 23 January, 1844, Ora Chester Wyman,* said to have been brother of Sarah M. Wyman who married Lucy Hallowell's brother Joseph.

Issue (Wyman), born in Windsor, Maine, first three from the town records:

i. Andrew H.[8], b. 12 Nov., 1844; d. 25 Sept., 1847. (G.S.)
ii. Salome W., b. 11 Nov., 1847; d. 28 June, 1866. (G.S.)
iii. Cynthia B., b. 11 Mch., 1850; d. unm.
iv. Carrie; m. Jacob Wiley. It is said they rem. to Calif. to be with their sons Clarence and Lewis at Van Nuys. Letter addressed to these sons there was ret. uncl.
v. Edward; m. Louisa Bailey. Has son, Bert, of Sand Lake, Mich., R.D. 2.
vi. Chester. Was in Sault St. Marie, Mich., at last account, but letter sent to his address there was ret. uncl.

Authorities besides those mentioned: Kennebec County, Me., Probate records, Docket S16-5370; Gravestone inscriptions, Baptist Cemetery, Windsor, Me.; Mr. Bert Wyman.

100. Greenleaf[7] Hallowell (Joel[6], William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born at Windsor, Maine, 1 October, 1811, and died in Jefferson, Maine—no date.

Shortly after their marriage Greenleaf Hallowell and his wife removed to Jefferson, Maine, where they put up and lived in a log cabin until he had cleared enough land to farm. He then built a frame house there and made it his home for the rest of his life.

The Kennebec County, Maine, deeds show that Greenleaf Hallowell bought land from Joel Hallowell and conveyed to Ruel Hallowell, his brother.

Greenleaf[7] Hallowell married Hannah Fowle, of Whitefield, Maine. Their intentions were entered at Windsor, 7 February, 1835.

Issue, born at Jefferson, Maine:

i. Sarah[8]. She is undoubtedly the Sarah Hallowell, "of Jefferson," whose mar. int. with Elbridge Tyler, of Windsor, were ent. at Windsor, 9 Jany., 1856, although her niece, Mrs. Chester Nash, of Waldoboro, Me., believes his name was Leyer. Mrs. Nash says they had two sons, 1. Elbridge[9], Jr., and 2. Albion, of whom nothing further is known.
183. ii. George W., b. 24 Aug., 1840; m. Lorania Heath.
iii. Julia A. B., b. 1841; d. 1915. She m. (1), George W. Andrews, who was b. 2 July, 1836, and was killed at the battle of Gettysburg, 2 July, 1863, while serving as a Lieut. in Co. G, 19th Regt. Maine Vol. Infantry. Issue (Andrews): 1. George Franklin[9], b. 10 Oct., 1860; d. at Augusta, Me., 25 July, 1934. He m. Emma Kelly and has a son, Leo K.[10] Andrews, of Augusta.

*Given as "Ira C." in marriage record, and as "Ora C." in that of their intentions, both dated the same day.

Julia[8] (Hallowell) Andrews m. (2), Samuel W. Heath who had his name changed to Andrews at her insistence. They had one ch. (Andrews): 2. Annie M.[9], b. 17 Feby., 1869, d. in 1916, at Gardiner, Me., unm.

184. iv. Loren Willis, b. 15 June, 1850; m. Clara E. Orff.

185. v. Frederick Dana, b. 5 July, 1851; m. Ida M. Bowman.

101. Ruel[7] Hallowell (Joel[6], William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born at Windsor, 15 May, 1815, and died at Sumner, Iowa, 23 October, 1877. His death was the result of over exertion in helping to fight a prairie fire while visiting his son LaRoy.

Ruel[7] Hallowell as a young man began going to sea as a means of livelihood and in time became master of deep water sailing ships. His career as such was an adventurous one, two of the vessels he commanded foundering, while another was lost by fire.

Ruel[7] Hallowell married, 4 August, 1838, Emily Linn (Lynn), born at Windsor, Maine, 24 September, 1816, died at Thomaston, Maine, 26 April, 1907, daughter of Nathaniel and Abigail Grover (Wight) Linn. Her will, on file in the Lincoln County, Maine, probate registry, names sons, "Leroy, of Iowa," and William B. Hallowell of Thomaston, grandson, George Hallowell, of Rockland, Maine; daughters Emily F. Thompson (no address); Abbie L. Foster, of San Francisco, and Susan Werner, of New York.

Ruel[7] and Emily Hallowell had issue, born at Windsor, China, and Thomaston, Maine:

186. i. LaRoy[8], b. 23 Mch., 1840; m. Annie D. Fox.

187. ii. George Orette, b. 15 May, 1842; m. (1), Mary Gilley; (2), Emma Mallett (or Marlett).

iii. Emily Frances, b. 19 Apr., 1844; d. 5 July, 1926; m. (1), William [Miles] Robins, of Barnstable, England, a mate on her father's ship; (2), H. John Thompson. One ch. William Eugene[9] Robins, b. 4 Jany., 1863, Thomaston, Me.; m. Addie Maud Spaulding. No ch. Lived in San Francisco. His widow still lives there.

188. iv. Abgail Lynn, b. 17 Sept., 1945; m. Dr. Seth B. Foster.

v. Ruel H., b. 25 Aug., 1847; d. unm. at San Francisco about 1876.

vi. Ellen Thomas, b. 27 Mch., 1850; d. 27 Apr., 1874; m. ———

Hilton. No further rec.

vii. Nathaniel Lynn, b. 19 Jany., 1852; he was a mariner all his life; d. of a fractured skull during a storm at sea, 17 Feby., 1905. He was unm.

189. viii. Susan Watts, b. 19 Dec., 1853; m. Henry C. Werner.

190. ix. William Blood, b. 12 Dec., 1859; m. Alice P. Gonia.

According to the record in his family Bible, now in the possession of his daughter, Mrs. Annie L. Guptill, of North Vassalboro, Maine, Capt. Ruel[7] Hallowell was married, by Rev. Henry Parsons in Portland, Maine, on 4 November, 1866, to Antoinette (Annie) M. Steward. She was born there, 17 October, 1836, and died at Augusta, Maine, 27 March, 1927.

Upon receiving word of Capt. Hallowell's decease, his brother Levi went out to Iowa and brought the widow and her four children back to Maine with him. She subsequently married Jonas Orren[8] Trask as his second wife and had three more children by him. His first wife was [192] Christina[8] Hallowell, daughter of Capt. Hallowell's brother, Joel[7], Jr.

Issue of Capt. Ruel[7] and Annie M. (Steward) Hallowell, first two born in New Orleans, La.:

x. Henry J., b. 12 Aug., 1869; unm. He lived in Maine the greater part of his life, and in his latter years spent his winters in Florida. He has not been heard from since 1946 when he left his lodgings in South St. Petersburg carrying a suit case—and disappeared.

xi. William, b. 16 Feby., 1874; m. at Augusta, Me., 6 Oct., 1904, Mrs. Mary L. Booker, dau. of Abitha and Susan (Richardson) Hutchinson. No issue. He d. at East Holden, Me., 2 Feby., 1949.

xiii. Ruel, b. 2 Mch., 1878, Carroll, Ia.; d. 26 Feby., 1911, unm.

102. Joel[7] Hallowell, Jr. (Joel[6], William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born at Windsor, Maine, 15 May, 1820, and died at China, Maine, 14 May, 1899. He was a mariner in early life, making his home at Boothbay, Maine; later he became a farmer living for various periods in China, Sidney, and Windsor, Maine. The Kennebec County Probate records have no estate under his name.

Joel[7] Hallowell, Jr., was married three times. His first wife, whom he married at Boothbay, 24 September, 1843, was Almeda King Reed, daughter of Andrew and Sarah (Moore) Reed. She died at Sidney, Maine, 16 October, 1875, aged 52 [G.S.], and he married (2), at Sidney, 5 February, 1876, Mrs. Vesta Wyman, who died there, 6 March, 1878, aged 34. Her gravestone is in the Getchell burying ground at Sidney. It is quite likely she was a daughter of William and Vesta Getchell who are also buried there.

Joel[7] Hallowell, Jr.'s third wife was Mary Ennis who is said to have survived him and to have remarried. Date of his third marriage has not been found, but it was probably not long after the death of his second wife, for the U. S. Census of Windsor in 1880 records Joel and Mary A. Hallowell together. Her age at that time was given as 26, his as "58." No children were listed with them.

No full list of the children of Joel[7] Hallowell, Jr., has so far come to light, and whether or not the names of those we have obtained from various sources represent a complete roster, we could not say.

Nor do we know if he had issue by his second wife. She made a will on 4 November, 1876, in which she named her husband, Joel, and "each of surviving children," but without naming any. They could have been hers by a previous marriage, as well as his. The date of this will, short just one day of being nine months after the marriage, might indicate she had either just delivered a child or was momentarily expecting to do so, but we have no evidence that such was the case.

As far as we know at present all but one of the children of Joel[7] Hallowell, Jr., were by his first wife and were as follows, first three born at Boothbay, Maine:

192. i. Christina R.[8], b. 4 Feby., 1844; m. Jonas O.[8] Trask.

ii. Cyrus Granville, b. 22 Nov., 1845; d. at Augusta, Me., 19 Dec., 1930. He m. (1), at Augusta, 23 Dec., 1870, Ella M. Shaw, dau. of Samuel and Mary (Taylor) Shaw. She d. at Windsor, Me., 26 May, 1899, and he m. (2), 13 Oct., 1900, Mrs. Clara B. (Cottle) Shaw, dau. of George and Lydia (Packard) Cottle. She was living as late as 1947, aged 94, but had no memory of her late husband's sisters. Cyrus G.[8] Hallowell had no ch.

iii. Mary Elizabeth, b. 13 Dec., 1847; m. (1), Hezekiah Bean, at Belgrade, Me., 31 Oct., 1866; (2), Emery Blaisdell. By her first husband she had one son, William[9] (Bean), b. 14 Nov., 1868; d. 21 Mch., 1932. He m. Lettie Merrill, and has dau. Maude[10], who m. Robert Hanson and lives in Winthrop, Me. By second husband there was also one son, Albert[9] (Blaisdell), dec.

iv. Amanda J., b. 6 July, 1852; d. 10 Mch., 1853, ae. 8 mos. (G. S., Windsor).

v. Isabella, b. 1853; d. 12 Sept., 1855, ae. 2 yrs. (G. S., Windsor).

vi. Harriet Florence, b. 1854 or 1856—ae. 6 in 1860 Census of China, ae. 14 in 1870 Census of Sidney, Me. As Florence Hallowell she had her mar. int. with George H. Cunningham ent. at Augusta, Me., 23 Oct., 1872; the wedding did not take place until 16 August, 1873, her name then appearing as Harriet F. Hallowell. They are said to have had two ch. who d. young.

vii. Ella E., b. 1857; d. 20 Dec., 1867, ae. 10 yrs., 7 mos. (G. S., Sidney).

viii. Charlotte (Lottie), b. 1860—ae. 10 in 1870 Census of Sidney. No further rec. Said to have married, borne ch. and d. young.

ix. Charles P. (or R.), b. 1862; d. 20 Dec., 1864, ae. 2 yrs. (G. S., Windsor).

By third wife (?):

x. Hannah S., d. 16 Aug., 1885. While recorded as "child of Joel and Mary Hallowell," yet its age as given in the Augusta vital statistics—9 yrs., 7 mos., 9 days—would set the date of birth as 7 Jany., 1876—even before Joel[7], Jr., had married his second wife. Obviously there are errors here, but whether in the name of the child's mother, in its date of death, or in its age, we could not say. The record given was from a gravestone inscription in the Cottle Cemetery—and such inscriptions are sometimes erroneous, or if correct are copied wrong.

NOTE. In the gap of some four and a half years between the third and fourth child above noted there could have been others of whom we have no record. One of these may have been the unidentified Ellen Halloway whose marriage to Woodward Brann on 12 April, 1874, is noted in the published vital records of Augusta, Me. We cannot place her elsewhere. A descendant of one of Woodward Brann's brothers says she believes Woodward and Ellen Brann had a son, George, who died young.

103. GEORGE WASHINGTON[7] HALLOWELL (Joel[6], William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), born 14 March, 1823, at Windsor, Maine, died at Waterville, Maine, 7 July, 1903. He lived at Boothbay, Maine, for several years, while engaged in seafaring, also at China, Maine, but after being shipwrecked off Cape Cod he bought a farm in Sidney, Maine, which he operated successfully the rest of his life.

He left a will which named his wife, Calista, their surviving children, and several grandchildren.

George W.[7] Hallowell married at Boothbay, 6 September, 1846, Calista K. Reed, daughter of Andrew and Sarah (Moore) Reed. She died at Waterville, Maine, 17 August, 1907, aged 79 years, 4 months, 28 days.

Issue born at China, Maine:

i. George Elliott[8], b. 19 July, 1848; d. at Augusta, Me., 26 Mch., 1925. He was a farmer at Waterville, Me. His wife, Hattie Dunham, d. in 1916. They had no ch. He left a will in which his four surviving brothers are named.

ii. Royal Reed,* b. Oct. or Nov. 1849; d. ae. 17.

193. iii. Burnette E., b. 29 Sept., 1852; m. Charles Holton.

iv. Albion K., b. 16 Aug., 1854; d. 27 Nov., 1913, Cliftondale, Mass. He m. at Boothbay, Me., 14 Nov., 1883, Hattie M. Holton, dau. of John and Mary Holton. No issue.

v. Albert, twin with Albion, d. at Sidney, Me., 10 Aug., 1873.

194. vi. Annette V., b. 15 Aug., 1856; m. John H. Swift.

vii. Christa, b. 1859; d. young.

195. viii. Melville Burns, b. 16 Aug., 1861; m. Mary F. Titcomb.

196. ix. William Orette, b. 16 Oct., 1863; m. Fanny Cosgrove.

Authorities: Maine Vital Statistics Kennebec County, Me., Probate records, Dockets H-23, and 18536; U.C. Censuses, China, Me., 1850, 1860; Sidney, Me., 1870. The wills noted, as recorded, make several errors in the names of the heirs, the worst blunder being in the case of the granddaughter, Florence Holton—"Clarence" Holton in the Probate record.

104. Watson[7] Hallowell (Joel[6], William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born at Windsor, Maine, about 1833, and died 8 October, 1871, aged 38 years. (G. S., Windsor).

He married (1), at Windsor, 18 June, 1855, Angeline Brewer, of Boothbay, Maine; (2), at Augusta, 11 July, 1860, Julia A. Jones.

In 1871 his brother, Gideon[7] Hallowell, petitioned to be appointed administrator on estate of Watson Hallowell, deceased, who left widow, Julia A. Hallowell, and daughter Fannie W., aged ten years.

This daughter, Fannie W., is undoubteadly the one of that name who married George W. Hutchinson at Augusta, 29 May, 1880.

The Augusta records also note the marriage of Mrs. Julia A. Hallowell to James Rumney 14 October, 1877. She was still living in Augusta in 1901 when she petitioned for the appointment of Nathan F. Thorne as administrator on estate of her sister, Emeline Hallowell, wife of Caleb Hallowell, "who has since died."

We have been unable to make contact with the descendants, if any, of Fannie W.[8] (Hallowell) Hutchinson. Her cousin, Gideon[8] Hallowell of Augusta, recalls her name as Fannie Marble, which if correct would indicate a second marriage.

105. Levi[7] Hallowell (Joel[6], William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), born at Windsor, Maine, in October, 1838, died at China, Maine, 27 January, 1918, where he had been a farmer nearly ail his life. His wife was Roselinda[8] (Rosalinda) Proctor, a second cousin, daughter of Jonas[7], Jr. and Catherine (Peva) Proctor and granddaughter of Jonas and [46] Betsey[6] (Hallowell) Proctor. She was born in Windsor, 12 April, 1840, and died in China, Maine, 9 February, 1916.

*The Census of China, Me., taken between 6 August and 16 Sept., 1850, lists Payson Hallowell, aged ten months in the family of George and Calista. The census taken there between 2 June and 13 July, 1860, omits Payson, but lists Royal Hallowell, aged ten years, in this family. It seems evident these names applied to the same boy.

106. Hugh Williamson[7] Holloway (Moses[6], Benjamin[5], Elijah[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born in Boonton, N. J., about 1813, and died at Warren, Ohio, 25 February, 1861, "in the 48th year of his age," according to the inscription on his gravestone there.

The earliest record we have of him is on 23 May, 1833, when he became a communicant of the First Presbyterian Church of Morristown, N. J. It is interesting to note that his widowed mother who had reared her son since her husband's death when the boy was only six or seven years old, became a member of this same church herself only ten days later although she had been an Episcopalian originally.

As he grew to manhood young Holloway took up the study of dentistry, and it is likely his first practice was in Morristown. Later he was in Warren, Ohio, returning to New Jersey about 1845 when he opened an office in Newton.

After spending several years there he decided to go back to Warren. At that time the four physicians in Newton joined in giving him the following recommendation under date of 30 March, 1852:

"We the subscribers, Physicians and residents of Newton, Sussex County, and State of New Jersey, do certify that Mr. Hugh W. Holloway has resided amongst us for the last seven years as a Dental Operator of good standing and steady habits, and we can cheerfully recommend him to the public wheresoever he may locate as worthy of their patronage. He has operated with us and given entire satisfaction of his skill as a Dentist."*

Dr. Holloway did not live long to enjoy his practise in Warren, his death occurring only about nine years after his arrival and before he had had much opportunity to build up an estate.

At some time in his twenties he had gone on a visit to some old friends—possibly relatives, as their name was Ewalt—who had removed from Morristown to Warren, Ohio. While there he met Sarah A. Reeves who became his first wife on 9 June, 1840. They had no children and were soon divorced.

His second wife, whom he married on 18 November, 1843, at Newton Falls, a village near Warren, was Jane Eliza Headley. She was the daughter of William and Elizabeth (Baily) Headley, born at Bazetta, Oiho, about 1825, and died at Warren, Ohio, 24 June, 1904, "in her 80th year," as stated on her gravestone there. She was evidently a descendant of the Headley family of New Jersey as her great-grandfather, Joseph Headley, Jr., was a Revolutionary soldier of that state.

Dr. Hugh W.[7] and Jane Eliza (Headley) Holloway had issue:

200. i. James Woods[8], b. 28 June, 1845, Newton, N. J.; m. (1), Cora A. Bennett; (2), Angeline Beery.

When Catherine[7] Holloway was a little over three years old her mother died, and Samuel P. Smith, who had married her mother's sister, was appointed her guardian. Upon her father's re-marriage, Mr. Smith adopted the child, which accounts for her name appearing as Catherine H. Smith in a deed of some property made by the heirs of Eli Holloway in 1869. In a later deed of his Broad Street property she appears as Catherine Ryerson, "formerly Catherine Holloway, daughter of Eli Holloway, and wife of Robert C. Ryerson."

Catherine[7] Holloway married Robert Colfax Ryerson, born 26 September, 1847, at Ringwood, N. J., son of Hon. Martin John and Marianna (Falls) Ryerson. He was in the real estate business in Montclair, N. J., where he died, 6 November, 1905. His widow applied for administration on his estate, naming their children.

in which—except for a Civil War interlude—be continued successfully all his life.

His first employment was with the Cincinnati office of the Aetna Fire Insurance Company. After a year with that organization he joined the Western Department of the Home Insurance Company at St. Louis, and continued with them until he entered the Union army.

On 17 August, 1862, he was commissioned 1st Lieutenant and Adjutant in the 33rd Regiment Missouri Volunteer Infantry, and in the following December was assigned to duty as Assistant Adjutant General on the staff of Brig. General Clinton B. Fisk of the 13th Army Corps. He was promoted to a Captaincy on 11 March, 1863. During that year he had served with his regiment in Missouri and Arkansas, and then had taken part in the 13th Army Corp's expedition up the White River and in the Yazoo Pass campaign in defense of Helena, Arkansas.

After serving as Assistant Adjutant General in St. Louis, Pilot Knob, St. Joseph, and Macon, Missouri, he was engaged in the defense of Glasgow, that state, during October, 1864. At that time a small Union force was surrounded and taken prisoner by Gen. Sterling Price's Confederate army. Capt. Holloway was released on parole and soon afterwards exchanged.

On 27 December, 1864, the war in the West being virtually over he handed in his resignation and re-embarked in his chosen career, as Missouri State Agent of the Aetna Fire Insurance Company. He held this position until after the great Chicago fire in 1871, when he was made a Commissioner with the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

From 1878 to 1884 he was with the Traders' Insurance Company at Chicago, and then became Assistant Manager there of the Western Department of the Niagara Fire Insurance Company. For the last twenty years of his life he held a responsible position with the Western Department of the Hartford Fire Insurance Company.

In 1885 Capt. Holloway was elected an original companion of the Illinois Commandery in the Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States. In concluding a memorial they published regarding him at the time of his decease, they stated he "was a man of lofty ideals, high intelligence, and a genial presence, irradiated by a quaint and kindly humor. This was well illustrated at the time of his capture at Glasgow in 1864 when he wired a friend for some necessary clothes, adding 'We have met the enemy and are out on parole'."

Capt. George A.[7] Holloway married at Farmington, Mich., 25 May, 1865, Olive Melissa Tibbits, born there 5 (or 6) August, 1838, died at Chicago, Ill., 12 December, 1920, daughter of George and Therina Hyde (Ward) Tibbits.

157. Marcus Morton[8] Holloway (Isaac G.[7], Isaac[6], Josiah[5], Josiah[4], Nathaniel[3], Samuel[2]), was born at Taunton, Mass., 8 August, 1839, and died at Kingfield, Maine, 10 July, 1920. Like his father before him he was a carpenter and builder, following those trades in various cities and towns in Massachusetts and Maine.

During the Civil War he served in the 32nd Regiment, Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry, enlisting 10 November, 1861, and reenlisting 1 January, 1864. He was wounded 10 May, 1864, at Laurel Hill, Virginia, on the same day and in the same engagement when his brother Isaac was first wounded although serving in a different regiment. He was mustered out with his company 29 June, 1865.

Mr. Holloway took much pride in his Civil War service, and record of it is inscribed on his gravestone in the Mayflower Hill cemetery at Taunton where his remains were brought for burial.

*Her name erroneously appears as Bouldry in the Taunton record of this marriage and as "King" in the Brockton record of the death of her son George.

Marcus M.[8] Holloway was married three times. His first wife, whom he divorced, was Annie McGee of Warwick, R. I. He married (2), at Belfast, Maine, 21 May, 1881, Arabella F. Patterson, daughter of George F. and Frances J. (Bird) Patterson. She died in Middleboro, Mass., 19 September, 1894, aged thirty-one years, and he married (3), at Middleboro, 30 October, 1895, Alfreda M. E. Erickson, aged nineteen, born in Sweden, daughter of Alfred and Matilda Erickson. She married (2), Jerry Wilbur, of Phillips, Maine, and died in Strong, Maine, 25 June, 1931.

i. Marcus[9], b. 14 Feby., 1858; d. 7 Mch., 1858.
ii. Agnes Jewett, b. 4 Mch., 1860; d. 28 June, or 16 July, 1860.
iii. Nellie Sanford, b. 27 May, 1861; d. 29 July, 1861.
iv. Myrtle A., b. 5 Oct., 1864; d. 23 July, 1865.

158. (Rev.) Jonas P.[8] Hallowell (Elder James[7], Seth[6], William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born at Windsor, Maine,* presumably on 3 April, 1826, for his age at the time of his death at Blaine, Maine, 14 May, 1904, was given as seventy-eight years, one month and eleven days.

*While the records of Blaine in noting his date of death give Windsor as his birthplace, they also state in recording his son's death, that Rev. Jonas was born in China, Me. These records also note he was son of Jonas (sic) and ——— (Robbins) Hallowell.

The entry of his death in the records of Blaine is an unusual one for after noting the date and his age as above noted, it goes on to say he was a veteran of the Mexican War, serving in Co. I, 1st Regt., North Carolina Volunteers. We have no information regarding the details of his service nor do we know how long he was in North Carolina, nor when he returned to Maine, and entered the ministry.

Rev. Jonas P.[8] Hallowell married Mary Ann Jones, daughter of Alexander Jones. She died at Blaine, 23 April, 1909, aged eighty-eight years, four months, five days.

Issue:

i. Eva A.[9], b. 1853; m. Julius Ackroyd. She is said to have gone to England where she died. One report also says she had a dau., Dorothy[10], now decd.

260. ii. Gardiner, b. 19 June, 1855, Damariscotta, Me.; m. Anna W. Joy.

261. iii. Mary Augusta, b. 1858, Bristol, Me.; m. Lora Bowman.

iv. Nettie Fosett, b. in Waldoboro, Me.; d. in Washington, Me. (no dates); m. at Blaine, Me., 15 Sept., 1896, Shepherd Buber, b. 19 Oct., 1848, d. at Damariscotta, Me., in Jany., 1928. One ch. (Buber): 1. Kathleen Joy[10], b. 23 Oct., 1899, Blaine, Me.; m. 22 Feby., 1922, Winfield F. Cooper. Res., Damariscotta. Two ch. (Cooper), i. Llewellyn[11], who served for two years in the U. S. Navy during World War II, and was a junior in Tufts Medical College in 1947, and ii. Marjorie.

159. William Fisher[8] Halloway (Elder James[7], Seth[6], William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), adopted that variant spelling of his name because it had been so entered on his military record in the Civil War.

He was born in Windsor, Maine, and died 25 April, 1880. The inscription on his gravestone in the Baptist cemetery at Windsor gives his date of birth at 20 June, 1831, but it probably should have been 1828. He gave his age at 34 when he joined the army in 1862 and the records of Windsor in listing his father's family, place him—although without date of birth—between Jonas, who we know was born in 1826, and Sally, born in 1830.*

William F.[8] Halloway, then of Windsor, enlisted 10 September, 1862, in Co. E, 21st Regt., Maine Volunteer Infantry, for nine months' service, and was honorably discharged 25 August, 1863. In the month following his death his widow applied for a pension on account of his service in the war, her application naming her surviving children and their dates of birth.

William F.[8] Halloway was a farmer and lived at various times in

*Two more contenders for the year of his birth appear in the U. S. Consuses of 1860 and 1870 for Windsor and Albion Me., respectively. The former gives his age as 30, while ten years later he was reported as only 38.

Windsor, China, and Albion, Maine. He married at Windsor, 14 December, 1854, Sarepta Scates, born 12 August, 1837, daughter of Simon and Lydia (Clark) Scates. She died at China, Maine, 4 February, 1908, and is buried with her husband and their first two children in the cemetery noted above.

William F.[8] and Sarepta (Scates) Halloway had issue:

i. George E.[9], b. (—— May, 1858); d. 8 Mch., 1861, ae. 2 y. 10 m. (G.S.).

ii. Theda M., b. (—— May, 1860); d. 10 Aug., 1878, ae. 13 y. 3 m. (G.S.).

262. iii. Lilla B., b. 10 Jany., 1865; m. Edward Pierce.

263. iv. Alice Eldora, b. 18 Feby., 1867; m. Howard Chadwick.

v. Georgia E., b. 20 Sept., 1869; m. George F. Weeks, of China, Me. No issue.

264. vi. Forrest Burton, b. 6 Nov., 1873, Albion, Me., m. Ida E. Coburn.

160. Robert Riley[8] Hallowell (John[7], Seth[6], William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born in China, Maine, in 1834, and died there, 10 April, 1906, aged 72. His gravestone in the cemetery at South China bears the dates 1834-1906. He was a cooper by trade.

Robert R.[8] Hallowell married in Jefferson, Maine, in 1862, Sarah S. Cooper, daughter of Thomas and Marian (Jarvis) Cooper. She died at Vassalboro, Maine, 3 April, 1907, aged sixty-two years, five months, and eighteen days.

Issue, born in China, Maine:

265. i. Annis Mahitable[9], b. 20 May, 1865; m. Alvah Howe.

266. ii. Alice Torsey, b. 27 Jany., 1868; m. Edward Howe.

267. iii. Eliza Temperance, b. 25 Nov., 1870; m. Frank D. Haskell.

iv. Stella May, b. 21 July, 1874; m. (1), William E. Anderson; (2), Alvah Howe. No ch. Res., Windsor, Me.

268. v. Harris Edward, b. 6 (or 26) June, 1877; m. Vina Pouliotte.

161. John Phineas Blake[8] Hallowell (John[7], Seth[6], William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), whose name was evidently a combination of his father's with that of his maternal grandfather—Phineas Blake—was born in China, Maine, 30 March, 1837, and died in Rockland, Maine, 29 March, 1908.

Records of his marriages have not been found. His first wife was Hannah McDonald, as shown by the Rockland records when noting the parentage of her son Fred D. Hallowell in recording his second marriage. The records of Somerville, Maine, referring to her as Hannah Hallowell, state she was born 26 October, 1842. She was divorced from her husband at the sitting of the Lincoln County Court in October, 1879.

John P. B. Hallowell's second wife was Mrs. Naomi Sophia (Boynton) Brann, formerly the wife of Levi Brann. The Somerville records in giving her date of death as 5 July, 1893, aged forty-five years, two months and two days, state she was born at Palermo, Maine, the daughter of Asa and Eunice (Bran) Boynton.

A third wife succeeded, for the Rockland records in noting the death of "Phineas B." Hallowell state he was the husband of Josephine McKenzie.

Issue, by first wife:

i. Fred D.[9], b. 12 Aug., 1866, Somerville, Me.; d. at Rockland, Me., 30 Jany., 1943. He m. (1), Emma ———, whom he divorced in Sept., 1889. He m. (2), 10 Dec., 1898, Mrs. Mary E. Dodge, dau. of Samuel H. and Rebecca Cargill. She divorced him in Sept., 1919, and he m. (3), 7 Sept., 1928, her sister, Mrs. Clara (or Delia) (Cargill) Briggs. There was no issue by any of his marriages. His will on file in the Probate Court of Knox County, Me., left all his property to one Charles F. Cargill whom he had brought up.

Issue by second wife:

ii. Effie Sophia, b. 18 Apr., 1882, China, Me.; m. Willis Gray. No issue. She d. at South Thomaston, Me.

269. iii. Frank Maurice, b. 14 Oct., 1884, Rockland, Me.; m. Mabel S. Weed.

NOTE: The U. S. Censuses of China, Me., taken in 1850 and in 1860 list "John P." Hallowell living in the family of John and Eliza Hallowell, his age, given as 13 in the former year, and as 23 in the latter, both setting the year of his birth in 1837.

The records of Somerville, Me., give 30 March, 1839 as that of the date of birth of "Phineas B." Hallowell, while those of Rockland—which also call him "Phineas B."—state he was 67 years old when he died in 1908—hence born in 1841.

Just to complicate the matter a little further, the Vital Statistics of Maine, presumably taken from a record sent in from Rockland, give "John T." Hallowell and Naomi "Bornheim", as the parents of Frank M. Hallowell above when reporting his marriage to Mabel S. Weed.

These changes of names and ages in various records created much confusion, but this was readily cleared up when Mr. Frank M. Hallowell gave us his father's full name and stated he was generally known as Phineas B. Hallowell—"Uncle Phin." to his niece, Mrs. Alice T. Howe.

162. JOHN H(IRAM)[8] HALLOWELL (Hiram[7], Seth[6], William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born 4 June, 1828, probably at China, Maine, and died at Brooks, Maine, 1 November, 1910. He was a master mariner and farmer, making his home at Belfast, Maine, for many years. He is buried in the Grove Cemetery of that city together with his wife, Nancy, and his twin brother, James H., and the latter's wife, Christina. They were all living in the same house at Belfast when the U. S. Census was taken there in 1850, their names appearing as "Holowell."

John H.[8] Hallowell married Nancy French at Belfast, 29 Decem-

Issue, born at Belfast:

i. Ella[9], b. 28 Aug., 1851; m. at Belfast, 7 Nov., 1872, Samuel S. Hersey, and d. at Portland, Me., 6 Oct., 1921. Her will on file there mentions only dau., Ethel[10] (Vannah), who was wife of Edward Vannah of Portland, and is now dec'd. They had no ch. Another dau. Flossie[10] (Hersey) evidently pre-dec'd her mother.

270. ii. Erminna B., b. 23 Feby., 1864; m. (1), Walter J. MacFarland; (2), Joseph M. Flagg.

iii. Grace D., b. 19 Aug., 1867; d. unm. 31 Mch., 1887.

271. iv. Vilento Tresalton, b. 17 June, 1870; m. (1), Delia Grant; (2), Faustie A. Hanson.

v. Calvena A., d. 2 Apr., 1934; m. (1), at Belfast, 16 Mch., 1889, Fred Alexander; (2), Llewellyn Bruce. No ch.

Several other children in this family died young but their names are not of record.

172. Florentius Merrill[8] Hallowell (John[7], John[6], William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born at Augusta, Maine, 12 November, 1852, and died at Placerville, Calif., 26 March, 1937.

He attended Oak Grove Seminary at Vassalboro, Maine, and was a student at Farmington, Maine, in 1870, as noted in the U. S. Census taken there that year. Later, he entered Colby College from which he was graduated in 1877 with the B.A. degree.

Shortly after his graduation he went to Kearney, Nebraska, and took up the study of law in the office of his uncle, Judge William Gaslin. Upon his admission to the bar he practised law in Kearney until his own elevation to the bench in later years.

Following his retirement, Judge Hallowell made his home in Cranford, New Jersey, until his wife died, after which he spent a number of years in Maine. His latter days were passed in California.

Judge Hallowell established a fund at Colby from which an annual prize is awarded to the four best speakers in the men's division.

Florentius M.[8] Hallowell married at Portland, Maine, 25 December, 1876, Etta Kilbreth, daughter of William and Abigail (Hanson) Kilbreth. She was born 26 August, 1850, and died at Cranford, New Jersey, 7 July, 1918.

174. Charles Atherton[8] Hallowell (Enoch M.[7], John[6], William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born about 1850 in Augusta, Maine, and died in Susanville, Calif., 7 November, 1920. He had been a hardware dealer there for years.

He married at Wahpeton, No. Dak., 27 January, 1885, Katherine Nolan, daughter of Andrew and Mary Ann (Hayfron) Nolan. She was still living in Susanville at last accounts.

Issue, born in St. Paul, Minn.:

280. i. Charles Willis[9], b. 6 Aug., 1886; m. Marie Emerson.

ii. Francis Clement, b. 10 June, 1888; d. in St. Paul, 7 May, 1893.

175. (Dr.) Willis Elmer[8] Hallowell (Enoch M.[7], John[6], William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born 10 June, 1861, at St. Paul, Minn., and died there, 4 April, 1896. He received his M.D. degree from the University of Michigan on 29 June, 1882, then was Junior Assistant, and later, Senior Assistant House Physician at Randall's Island and Infants' Hospitals in New York City from 1 October, 1883, to 1 April, 1885.

Following this experience he went abroad and spent two years doing post-graduate work at the Universities of Berlin and Halle, Germany, and at the University of Vienna, Austria.

Before returning to St. Paul in the summer of 1887 he took a brief vacation in Italy and while in Rome met a very attractive German girl from Weidenthal who was also touring Italy. A year later, as the result of this meeting, he went back to Germany and there, Dr. Willis E.[8] Hallowell married at Weidenthal, 10 July, 1888, Margarete Elisabeth Schaub, born at Mainz, Germany, 6 June, 1865, daughter of Johannes Georg and Elisabeth Katharina (Laux) Schaub. She returned to her old home in Germany after her husband's decease, married Conrad Kohl in 1905, and died in Weidenthal, 13 April, 1938.

Dr. Willis E.[8] Hallowell and his wife had issue, born in St. Paul, Minn.:

281. i. Ernest Merrill[9], b. 21 Nov., 1889; m. Charlotte Keibel.

176. John A.[8] Hallowell (Elijah G.[7], William[6], William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born at Windsor, Maine, 21 September, 1836, and died there, 10 February, 1905. He was a farmer. Both his wives had been married previously.

The first, Mrs. Laura A. Dudley, died at Windsor, 25 November, 1862, aged thirty-four. We have not been able to learn her maiden surname, nor the full name of her first husband. She evidently had had two children by him, for Ellen M. Dudley, aged thirteen, and Allen Dudley, aged six, are included in John A. Hallowell's little family as listed in the U. S. Census of Windsor in 1860. We could find no reference to them however in the genealogy of the Dudley family, although quite a few people of that name were living thereabouts.

John A.[8] Hallowell's second wife, whom he married at Augusta, Maine, 16 January, 1864, was Mrs. Abigail Ann (Brown) Richardson. Her first husband was James A. Richardson.

John A.[8] Hallowell had issue, by first wife:

i. Ella E.[9], b. early in 1860—recorded as three months old in that year's census — m. (1), Abner Crocker; (2), Neal Fowler. Two ch. by first hus. (Crocker), Marcia[10] and Elsie, both of whom are said to be dec'd. Mr. Neal Fowler was still living in Windsor, Me., in 1946, but could give no information about these stepdaughters of his as he stated their mother and he had been divorced fifty years ago. No further rec. of Ella E.

By his second wife, John A.[8] Hallowell had issue:

282. ii. Elijah W.[9], b. 5 Sept., 1867, Presque Isle, Me.; m. Addie V. Allard.

177. Daniel[8] Hallowell (William[7], William[6], William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born at Windsor, Maine, 9 March, 1841, and died in Iowa, 8 November, 1909.

The records of the Adjutant General of the State of Maine show that Daniel[8] Hallowell was a soldier in the Civil War, his length of service covering almost the entire period of the conflict. He first enlisted for a term of three years on 19 June, 1861, in Co. I, 6th Regiment Maine Volunteer Infantry, and when that time was up he reenlisted. He was then transferred to the 6th Maine Battalion on 14 July, 1864, and to Co. C, 1st Veteran Infantry, 20 September, 1864. He was honorably discharged 23 May, 1865. At the time of his first enlistment he was described as born at Windsor, a resident of that town, aged 21, occupation, farmer; five feet, nine and a quarter inches tall, dark complexion, black eyes.

Daniel[8] Hallowell married (1), Mary Fleming, and (2), Mrs. Hannah (Newman) Beeson. His first wife was born 9 May, 1845, and died 8 October, 1881. She bore him twelve children, in single births in less than sixteen years, as recorded in a family record sent me. Seven of these children died within a few months.

The ones who survived infancy were:

i. Carrie F.[9], b. 10 Feby., 1864; d. unm., 12 Aug., 1886.

283. ii. William Gibson, b. 7 Jany., 1866, Swan, Ia.; m. Elizabeth Horning.

284. iii. John Elmer, b. 21 June, 1868, Swan, Ia.; m. Mary A. Bench.

285. iv. Daniel Franklin, b. 5 Feby., 1871, Marquisville, Ia.; m. Ida A. Horning.

v. Thirza D., b. 22 Jany., 1873; d. unm., 6 Oct., 1890.

178. Orren Freeman[8] Hollowell (William[7], William[6], William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born at Windsor, Maine, 15 August, 1845 or 6, and died at Pleasantville, Iowa, 17 August, 1925. He was a blacksmith. Like many other rugged individualists of Maine, he became dissatisfied with the spelling of his patronymic, and adopted still another variant—HOLLOWELL—the third so far from the original Holloway.

Orren F.[8] Hollowell married at Prairie City, Iowa, 9 June, 1869, Sarah Adelaide Gerald, born 5 March, 1845, at Albion, Maine, died 19 November, 1915, daughter of Owen and Elvira Gerald.

Issue (Hollowell), first five born at Wheeling, Iowa, other two at Pleasantville:

i. Angie Bell[9], b. 25 Oct., 1869; m. 23 Dec., 1890, William H. Ogan, b. 15 Jany., 1867, McArthur, Ohio, son of Lee and Amanda Jane (Hazard) [Karns] Ogan. Issue (Ogan): 1. Gerald H.[10], b. 24 Mch., 1908, Ottumwa, Iowa; m. Ida May Marts. He served four years in the army during World War II, was wounded, but returned to his company. We are indebted to Mrs. Angie Ogan for our record of her father's family, and that of her brother, Melvin's as well. She and her husband have lived for years in Pleasantville, Iowa.

ii. Maude, b. 20 Oct., 1871; d. 16 Mch., 1942; m. Thomas B. Higgins, son of John M. and Katie A. (Webb) Higgins. Issue (Higgins): 1. Mary Alice[10], b. 29 Aug., 1890, Pleasantville, Iowa; m. Fred Myers. Res., Lynwood, Calif. 2. George Wainwright, b. 24 June, 1896, Fairfield, Iowa,; m. Nyna Lee Hamic. Res., Snyder, Okla.

iii. Sylvia Jane, b. 22 Aug., 1873; d. at Pleasantville, 6 May, 1946. She m. (1), Arthur Chandler; (2), Charles B. Hayes; (3), on 17 Nov., 1926, Henry Wallace. Issue by first husband (Chandler): . Retha[10], d. young. 2. Fern, vi. Florence (Flossie) May, b. 2 Feby., 1883; d. unm., 16 Nov., 1933.

Nathan Tolman Hallowell

vii. Harry C., b. 27 Sept., 1888; m. at Des Moines, Ia., 29 Sept., 1920, Ina Reins, sister to Letha Reins above. He was a soldier in World War I, a sergt. in Co. B, 168th Regt., Rainbow Division. Took part in five major engagements, was wounded and gassed. His death at the Veterans' Hospital in Des Moines, Ia., on 3 Mch, 1937, was due to a service contracted disability. His widow lives in Fort Worth, Texas. They had an adopted son, Thaddeus, b. 5 Feby., 1933, Des Moines.

179. Nathan Tolman[8] Hallowell (William[7], William[6], William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born at Windsor, Maine, 12 May, 1847, and died there, 23 February, 1941, in the ninety-fourth year of his age—the longest lived member of the family of whom we have record, and all the more notable in view of his service in the Civil War when little more than a boy.

By giving his age as eighteen, though only sixteen and a half at the time, he was enabled to enlist on 23 November, 1863, for a three years' term in Co. K, 1st Regiment Maine Cavalry. He took part in every battle in which his command was engaged until wounded in an action at Mottle Farm, Virginia, on 1 April, 1865. He received an honorable discharge with the rank of sergeant on 1 August, 1865, the war having ended.

Mr. Hallowell was an active member of the Grand Army of the Republic, and as late as 1936 attended its annual encampment at Washington, D. C., while a year earlier he had been present at the one held in Grand Rapids, Michigan. His portrait and an article regarding him were published in an issue of the Kennebec Journal of Augusta, Maine, when he had reached his ninetieth year. He was noted at that time for his keen memory and for being a brilliant conversationalist.

Nathan T.[8] Hallowell was married at China, Maine, 3 June, 1866, by Elder Josiah R. Hallowell, to Cynthia Etta[8] (or Etta C.) Trask, a second cousin, born 3 October, 1849, died 3 August, 1931, at China, daughter of James J. and Lucinda[7] (Proctor) Trask, and granddaughter of Jonas and [46] Betsey[6] (Hallowell) Proctor. Both Nathan

T. Hallowell and his wife left wills which are recorded in the Probate registry at Augusta, Maine.

Issue:

i. Arthur Johnstone[9], b. 11 May, 1867, Windsor, Me. He m., in July, 1893, Harriet A. Choate, dau. of Charles F. and Roselinda (Fairbrother) Choate. No issue. Res. (1949), So. China, Me.

180. Betsey Ann[8] Hallowell (Lemuel[7], William[6], William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born at Windsor, Maine, 24 November, 1842, and died at Mt. Vernon, Maine, 9 August, 1906. The record of her death there states she was the daughter of Lemuel Halloway and Betsey A. Scates.

She seems to have considered "Hallowell" a misnomer, for her surname appears as "Halloway" when her marriage intention with Benjamin Pearl of Mt. Vernon was entered at Augusta, Maine, on 18 December, 1858.* And it appears (correctly) as "Holloway" when Kennebec County's Clerk of Courts noted the marriage in his records as having occurred at Mt. Vernon on Christmsa Day, just a week later. Issue (Pearl) as given in the records of Mt. Vernon, Me. (Vol. 3, p. 308):

i. Viola[9], b. 29 Mch., 1860; d. 6 Apr., 1916; m. ——— Neal.

*In the New York Public Library's copy of the Linn genealogy pencilled notations state that George Orette Hallowell's second wife was Emma Marlett and that he died in 1889—not 1899.

Henry Clay Werner, who died in 1906, and had the following issue (Werner):

i. Henry Clay[9], Jr., b. 30 Mch., 1871. (Possibly the Henry Hallowell Werner who m. Helen Thayer Turner, on 30 Apr., 1901).

ii. Agnes Caroline, b. 12 June, 1873, in New York City; m. Arthur J. Rice. She was a member of the D.A.R. One dau., Dorris, who m. (1), Max Mayer, and (2), "an English physician and lived in London." (Mrs. Foster's notes.)

iii. Flora, b. 10 May, 1878.

iv. Stella, b. —— Aug., 1880.

v. Lester, b. 22 Sept., 1883.

vi. Clarence, b. 2 Nov., 1885.

vii. Gerald, b. 22 Feby., 1890.

viii. Ellain,* b. 2 Sept., 1897.

There may well be a number of errors in the above account. Mrs. Emily L. Jones, of Eureka, Calif., a niece of Susan W. (Hallowell) Werner is uncertain if her aunt's husband was Henry or Harold Werner. She stated their first child was Harold, who married (1), Helen Thayer, and (2), Edith Fern, and lived in Clearwater, Fla. Letter sent to him there was acknowledged by a card (postmarked at Harrison, N.Y., but without any address), which said that Mr. Werner was very ill and could give no information.

Regarding the statements in the Linn genealogy as to her cousin Agnes Caroline Werner, while these seemingly were attributed to her mother, Mrs. Abgail (Hallowell) Foster, Mrs. Jones stated it was her cousin Agnes, and not the latter's daughter Doris, who married Max Mayer as her first husband. Mrs. Jones says she is positive about this as Mayer died in San Francisco and she had the body shipped to New York. Mrs. Jones also says that Agnes Werner's daughter, Doris, was by her first husband, and that she had no children by her second, [Arthur] Rice.

Of the other children in her aunt's family Mrs. Jones states that Stella married a Dalberg (or Dahlburg); Lester married and lived in New Jersey; Gerald also married but died in the "flu" epidemic of 1918. She could not recall anything about Clarence, but of the youngest member of the family she stated she had married Harold Micklin and lived in Philadelphia until quite recently. A letter sent in September, 1949, to her latest known address there was returned unclaimed.

Mrs. Jones did not include the name of Flora amongst her aunt Susan Werner's children but substituted Daisy in its place. This daughter married a man named Pincus and had two daughters, one of whom was named Eleanor.

200. James Woods[8] Holloway (Hugh W.[7], Moses[6], Benjamin[5], Elijah[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), born in Newton, N. J., 28 June, 1845, started to earn his own living before his sixteenth birthday, because of his father's early death.

He worked on farms for a time, then in a general store, for one hundred dollars a year, plus board and laundry. He then took up the study of telegraphy at Oberlin, Ohio, and when he had become proficient therein he entered the employ of the Atlantic Great Western railroad—now the Erie—as their operator at Urbana, Ohio.

Later he was connected with other lines in various capacities, and at different times lived in Cleveland, Ohio, Nashville, Tennessee, Houston, Texas, Pensacola, Florida, and Montgomery, Alabama. His longest connection was with the West Shore railroad in New York. This service ran from 1884 to 1900 during which period he helped to organize the Order of Railroad Conductors.

Resigning in 1900 he joined his brother-in-law, Elmer W. Gillmer, in the Peerless Electric Company at Warren, Ohio, becoming head of one of its manufacturing departments. When this was taken over by the General Electric Company Mr. Holloway retired from the business, and then, following his first wife's death he spent several months in travel, visiting nearly all the states and calling upon old friends of his railroading days.

Upon his return to Warren he became interested in politics, and some years later was as member of the Ohio state legislature for a couple of terms. During his service there he was on its Finance Committee and lived in Columbus.

Later he was in business in Chicago with a brother of his second wife, and then returned to Warren once more. His latter years were about equally divided between the South and North according to the seasons. His death at Upper Sandusky, Ohio, where he had just arrived to spend the summer after returning in May from Florida, occurred suddenly on 1 June, 1928, only twenty-seven days short of his eighty-third birthday.

James W.[8] Holloway married (1), at Cleveland, Ohio, 10 December, 1873, Cora Ann Bennett, born there 24 July, 1849, died at Warren, Ohio, 2 March, 1904, daughter of Joseph Dimmack and Hetty Ann (Cozad) Bennett.

He married (2), at St. Joseph, Mich., 12 July, 1910, Angeline Beery, born 5 September, 1848, Bremen, Ohio, died at Upper Sandusky, 16 January, 1948, daughter of Simon and Mary (Grove) Beery.

201. William David[8] Holloway (Hugh W.[7], Moses[6], Benjamin[5], Elijah[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born in Morristown, N. J., 3 December, 1848, and died in Warren, Ohio, 24 March, 1937.

Too young to enlist as a soldier when the Civil War broke out, but determined to join the Union forces in some capacity nevertheless, he ran away from home, and succeeded in becoming a member of the army's medical corps. Here it was his duty to help gather up the wounded after a battle and give them such first aid as was then possible.

After his marriage he was associated with his wife's brother in running a lumber mill at Ravenna, Ohio, and later on became the chemist for the Warren Electric and Specialty Company, remaining with them until he retired a few years before his death.

William D.[8] Holloway married in Ravenna, Ohio, Mary Anna Grohe, born in Germany, 13 November, 1850, died at Warren, Ohio, 23 August, 1934, daughter of Michael and Mary Grohe.

243. Harry Cyrus[8] Holloway (Capt. George Allen[7], Frederick M.[6], Cyrus[5], Peter[4], William[3], Malachi[2]), was born at Webster Grove, Missouri, 29 November, 1874. He prepared for college at the Chicago Manual Training School from which he was graduated in 1891. A year later he entered the University of Chicago upon its opening, but transferred to Cornell in 1895. He received his B.S. degree from that University upon his graduation in 1896, and then remained there for another year doing postgraduate work in engineering.

Returning to Chicago he was with the Illinois Car and Equipment Company for two years as a draftsman and estimator, and then spent four years with the Western Electric Company. In 1902 he became connected with the railway supply business in which as the years passed he became increasingly prominent and successful.

His first affiliation in this was with the Weber Railway Joint Manufacturing Company and its successor, The Rail Joint Company, with which he remained until 1914. For the next fifteen years he was with the Maintenance Equipment Company, becoming its Vice President and then in 1929 he became Vice-President of Poor & Company, dealers in railway supplies, continuing with them until his retirement from active business in 1931.

Besides his position there, Mr. Holloway was also a director of the Canton Forge & Axle Company, the Vermilion Malleable Iron Company, the Maintenance Equipment Company, and Treasurer of the P. & M. Company.

Equally active in civic affairs he served for several years on the Board of Education of Glencoe, Illinois, was Chairman of the Village Caucus Board which he helped organize, and a President of the New Trier Township High School's Board of Directors. He has also been President of the Mid-West Alumni Association of the Delta Kappa Fraternity, and in recent years a Director and Vice President of the Chicago branch of the English Speaking Union. He is a life member of the Chicago Art Institute, while his present clubs are the University of that city, besides the Lenox and one other in the Berkshires of Massachusetts where he spends several months each year.

His wife, Nema Maria Whitcomb, whom he married 17 January, 1904, was born at Clinton, Indiana, 14 May, 1875, the daughter of John and Lydia Amelia (Parks) Whitcomb. Upon graduating from the High School there in 1899 he entered the University of Wisconsin at Madison where he received the degree of Bachelor of Science in 1903, and his master's degree in 1904. He then entered the employ of the Chicago Bell Telephone Company and was their Superintendent of Buildings at the time of his tragic death on 20 July, 1922.

He had taken a cottage that month on the Rock River at Janesville and on the second day of his vacation there with his family, one of his daughters and a niece while in wading stepped into a deep hole in the stream. Unable to swim, they were in danger of drowning when Mr. Holloway, who happened to be in a boat nearby, plunged in to save them. Although an excellent swimmer himself he never came to the surface again—a vain sacrifice as it proved, for the children were rescued by others.

Don C.[8] Holloway married at Janesville, Wis., 6 May, 1905, Mary Lea Atwood, born there, 22 July, 1879, died at Janesville, 12 October, 1937, daughter of Charles and Alta May (Doty) Atwood.

247. Claude Stough[8] Holloway (Leroy F.[7], Frederick M.[6], Cyrus[5], Peter[4], William[3], Malachi[2]), was born in Janesville, Wis., 9 August, 1882, and died at Murray Hill, N. J., 3 January, 1943, while on a visit to his married daughter.

After completing his course of studies at the Janesville High School, he attended the University of Wisconsin for two years. In 1907 he joined the Chicago Bell Telephone Company as an installer in their Plant Department. After serving in various positions he was made Supervisor of Supplies in 1914, Chief Store Keeper four years later, and in 1922 Superintendent of Supplies of the Illinois Bell. This was followed by another promotion in 1929 when he became Superintendent of Buildings, Supplies and Motor Equipment.

In this connection, an obituary notice regarding him which was published in the Bell Telephone News of February, 1943, says "His pioneering on supplies distribution was recognized throughout the Bell System, and the Joint Warehouse in Chicago is a model, and a monument to his important work in this field." Continuing, the article says of Mr. Holloway, "His keen insight into human nature and the warmth of his personality resulted in enduring friendships with all those with whom he dealt. He had countless friends in almost all Bell operating companies, the Western Electric Company, and at 195 Broadway"—in other words, at the headquarters of the parent organization, the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

The article quoted also mentioned that Mr. Holloway was a past president of the University of Wisconsin Club of Chicago, a member of the Board of Directors of the Wisconsin Alumni Association, and also active in some of his company's employee organizations.

NINTH GENERATION

251. George Bernard[9] Holloway (George H.[8], John[7], Asa[6], Josiah[5], Josiah[4], Nathaniel[3], Samuel[2]), was born in Taunton, Mass., 23 March, 1863, and died there 9 March, 1934. He was a machinist in the employ of the old time Mason Machine Works of Taunton, a large and prosperous organization in its day, but now out of business for years.

Mr. Holloway took a great deal of interest in his family, and gathered considerable information about his ancestry. He had inherited quite a collection of early deeds and other documents relating to the Holloways, some dating back as far as 1702. These are now in the possession of his son, Mr. John W. Holloway, of Pleasantville, N. Y.

George B.[9] Holloway married at Assonet, Mass., 20 December, 1893, Jennie M. Clark, daughter of William and Jane Maria (Hathaway) Clark, of Freetown, Mass. She was born in Assonet, 16 March, 1868, and at last accounts was still living in Taunton.

Issue, born in Taunton:

i. Bernard Clark[10], b. 28 Oct., 1894. As a soldier in World War I he was inducted 4 Oct., 1917, and served in Co. F, 302nd Infantry, in the 2nd Division. He was killed in action at Soissons, France, 18 July, 1918.

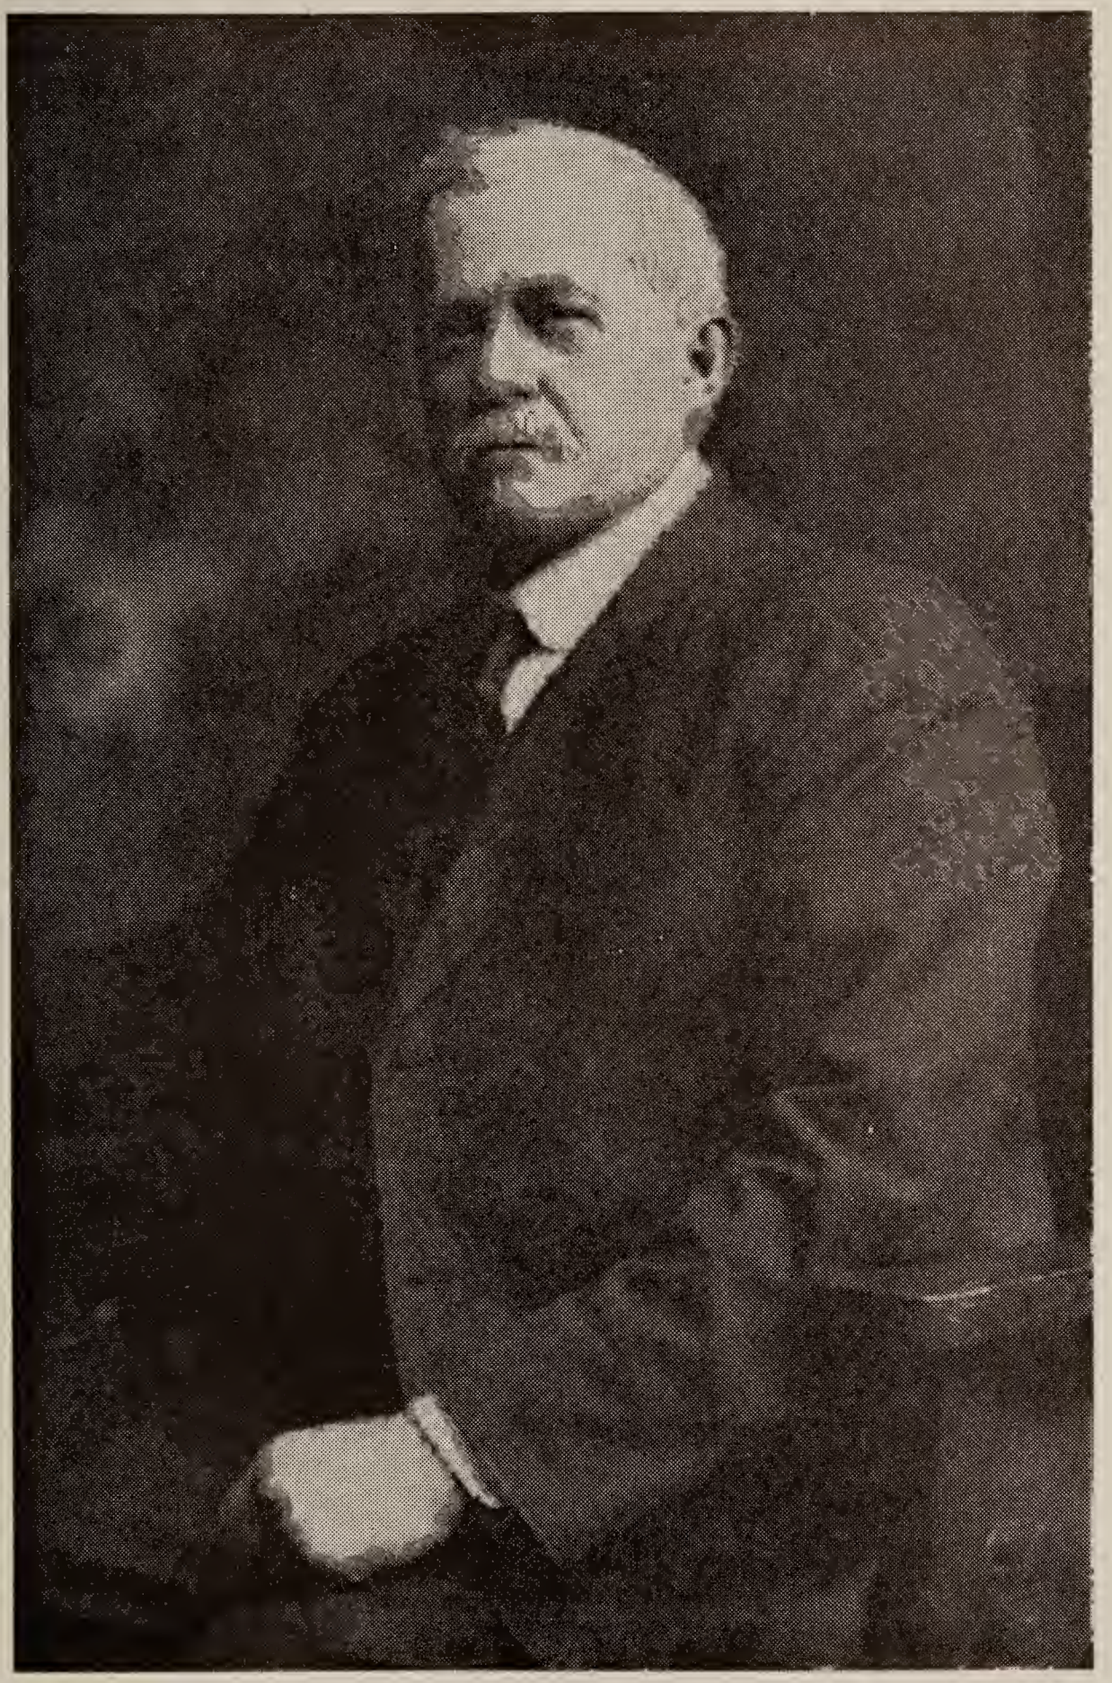
254A. George Everett[9] Pendleton (Almira[8], Isaac G.[7], Isaac[6], Josiah[5], Josiah[4], Nathaniel[3], Samuel[2]), was born in North Raynham, Mass., 27 February, 1848. At the time of his decease the Taunton



George Everett Pendleton

(Mass.) Daily Gazette published the following obituary regarding him in its issue of 29 September, 1937:

"George Everett Pendleton, who died at East Orange, N. J., on the 28th inst., in the ninetieth year of his age, was a resident of this city nearly all of his life. Born in North Raynham, the 27th of February, 1848, the oldest son of George Samuel and Almira (Holloway) Pendleton, he was a descendant of many of the first settlers in the Plymouth, Massachusetts, and Rhode Island Colonies, coming of exceptionally vigorous and long-lived stock.

"As a young man, Mr. Pendleton made several voyages to Liverpool with his father who was Captain of the packet ship Excelsior of the old Black Star line, plying between that port and New York. Finally deciding against a sea-faring life, he purchased a grocery in 1870 located in the old building at the corner of Washington and High Streets, this city. Some years later he bought property at 34 High St., where he put up a new building and operated his store until 1910 when he retired. For many years during this period he had been Secretary of the Taunton Retail Grocers' Association, among whose members he was well liked and esteemed.

"Up to the time of the death of his wife, the late Ella (Hall) Pendleton in 1928, when he removed to East Orange, Mr. Pendleton continued to live in Taunton, employing himself in various ways. While never taking an active part in civic affairs other than serving as a Tax Assessor at times, he was well known throughout the city, highly regarded and respected. At the time of his death Mr. Pendleton was one of the oldest members of King David Lodge F. & A. M. which he joined sixty-three years ago.

"Surviving him he leaves two sonss, Everett H. Pendleton of East Orange, N. J., and Charles M. Pendleton of Milton, Mass., besides four grandchildren, five great-grandchildren, and a brother, William H. Pendleton of Mansfield, Mass. An aged aunt, Mrs. Gustavus Dean, formerly of Raynham, the youngest sister of Mr. Pendleton's mother, was still alive in Los Angeles, Calif., as late as August 3, 1933."

George E.[9] Pendleton married in Taunton, Mass., 2 March, 1871, Ella Louisa Hall, born 10 May, 1851, Hartford, Conn., daughter of Horace Marshall and Elizabeth Haynes (Parker) Hall.

Issue, born at Taunton:

361A. i. Everett Hall[10], b. 15 Sept., 1878; m. Ida F. Lawry.

361B. ii. Charles Marshall, b. 27 Jany., 1880; m. Edna M. Homer.

254B. William Herbert[9] Pendleton (Almira[8], Isaac G.[7], Isaac[6], Josiah[5], Josiah[4], Nathaniel[3], Samuel[2]), was born in Taunton, Mass., 5 June, 1865. After his mother's second marriage he spent two or three years with her and his stepfather at East Yarmouth, Mass., and then returned to Taunton. Here he made his home with his older brother, George, until his own marriage some eight years later.

He was associated with his brother in the grocery business until 1909 when he engaged in other activities for a little over a year. In October, 1910, he entered the employ of the Adams Express Company, remaining with them and their successors until his retirement on 31 July, 1935.

During these years he was an express messenger between Boston and Newport from May, 1911, to March, 1917, making his home in the latter city. He was then appointed the Company's agent at Mansfield, Mass., and has lived there ever since. At the time of his retirement he received many letters from the local manufacturers expressing their regrets over this severance of their pleasant relations of nearly twenty years, and their appreciation of the very efficient way he had handled their shipments in all that time.

While a resident of Taunton during the so called "gay nineties" Mr. Pendleton took an active part in the city's amateur theatricals. Possessed of an excellent baritone voice and good stage presence he was much in demand, particularly during the early presentations of Gilbert and Sullivan's ever popular light operas when he sang the title role in "The Mikado." In this same period and still earlier he was also active as a wheelman, pedaling one of the first of those high-wheeled bicycles that appeared in Taunton, and later on serving for about seven years as President of the Taunton Cycle Club.

William H.[9] Pendleton married at Taunton, 14 September, 1887, Anna H. Luce, adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thornton. One daughter:

i. Rachel[10], b. 27 Dec., 1897, Taunton, Mass., took up a stage career at an early age, and as a member of various theatrical companies has visited nearly all the states of the Union, as well as the provinces of Canada. Since her m. on 13 Mch., 1918, to Harold E. Mead, of Winsted, Conn., she has made her home in that city. They have two ch. (Mead):
1. Theodore Pendleton[11], b. 14 Jany., 1921. He was a boatswain's mate in the Coast Guard Reserve during World War II, and afterwards studied at Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, N. Y. 255. Charles Lewis[9] Holloway (Charles H.[8], Isaac G.[7], Isaac[6], Josiah[5], Josiah[4], Nathaniel[3], Samuel[2]), was born at Taunton, Mass.,

8 April, 1861. His cousin, Mrs. Alice M. Foss, of Brockton, Mass., states he was in Chicago when she last knew of him, that he was married and had two sons:

i. Charles,[10] and
ii. William,

one of whom was deceased.

We have been unable to get trace of this family. The probate records in Chicago have no estate under the name of Charles L. Holloway, and the various Charles and William Holloways now listed in the telephone directory of that city have other antecedents according to the information received from them.

256. Harry Patterson[9] Holloway (Marcus M.[8], Isaac G.[7], Isaac[6], Josiah[5], Josiah[4], Nathaniel[3], Samuel[2]), was born in Lynn, Mass., 29 December, 1885, and is now living in Westbrook, Maine. He was a foreman in a novelty mill at Kingfield, Maine.

He married in Malden, Mass., 26 May, 1909, Sara Agnes Douglas, born in Belfast, Ireland, 23 February, 1886, died in Portland, Maine, 13 May, 1948, daughter of James and Mary (Stewart) Douglas.

Issue, born at Kingfield, Maine:

i. Frances May[10], b. 11 Mch., 1910; m. (1), 10 Dec., 1927, at No. Anson, Me., Wallace B. Collins, b. 6 May, 1908, No. New Portland, Me., son of George and Alice (Wright) Collins. She m. iii. Ethel Isabella, b. 9 Feby., 1914; m. Wheaton R. Hoppe. Res., Jay, Me. One son, Robert Edward[11] (Hoppe), b. 21 May, 1932.

iv. Herbert Douglas, b. 9 June, 1915. He was graduated from Stanley High School, Kingfield, Me., in 1933, and from the Farmington (Me.) State Teachers' College in 1935. He attended the Gorham Teachers' College in 1940 and after teaching for a year in Welchville found other employment in his native town.

Anticipating our entrance into World War II, he volunteered for army service, 19 Mch., 1941, and in February, 1942, was sent to the Infantry Officers' Training School at Fort Benning, Ga. He was commissioned 2nd Lieutenant on the 12th of May following, 1st Lieutenant, 15 Oct., 1942, and Captain in June, 1943.

In command of Co. G in the 314th Infantry, 79th Division, he took part in maneuvers in Tennessee, Arizona, and Kansas, and was then sent overseas for our invasion of Normandy. His division landed there 10 June, 1944, and was promptly engaged in heavy fighting. Capt. Holloway was wounded at La Haye-du-Puits, about thirty miles south of Cherbourg, on 8 July, 1944, having had, as he wrote home a week later, "a bit of an argument with a shell." This argument was more serious, however, than his cheerful letter would indicate for he was hospitalized in England for some four months.

Rejoining his command in Germany in November, 1944, Captain Holloway was again wounded, this time on 7 January, 1945, and at Bischweiler in Alsace. This wound proved even more serious than his first one for he was confined to a hospital in England for nearly a year.

Capt. Holloway was promoted to Major in Jany., 1946, and separated from the service on 30 April following. He received the Bronze Star Medal, Purple Heart, Oak Leaf Cluster, three Bronze Stars, a Presidential Unit Citation, and various other medals and service ribbons.

He is now on the staff of the U. S. Employment service in Portland, Me., and makes his home in that city. He m. there, 11 Nov., 1948, Muriel Edna Dinsmore, daughter of Carl G. and Martha I. (Wilson) Dinsmore, of Eastport, Me.

257. Ralph Tyler[9] Holloway (Marcus M.[8], Isaac G.[7], Isaac[6], Josiah[5], Josiah[4], Nathaniel[3], Samuel[2]), was born at Lynn, Mass., 9 November, 1887, and died in Presque Isle, Maine, 25 April, 1930. He was a carpenter by trade.

During World War I he was inducted as a private on 25 June, 1918, and served in the Supply Company of the 74th Infantry at Camp Devens, Mass., until honorably discharged on 22 January, 1919, by reason of demobilization.

Ralph T.[9] Holloway married in Hanson, Mass., Louise Caroline Willis, born in Middleboro, Mass., daughter of Charles and Thamar (Phillips) Willis. She had a second husband, William Henry Wilmot, whom she married at Whitman, Mass., 15 June, 1912.

The Hanson vital records credit Ralph T. and Louise C. (Willis) Holloway with one child:

i. Alice Mildred[10], b. 12 Mch., 1904. She has been m. twice, first to Elliott Wilson Harriman, and sec. to James Lemon. Now living in Brockton, Mass., as Mrs. Alice M. Harriman. 258. Belle Marie[9] Holloway (Marcus M.[8], Isaac G.[7], Isaac[6], Josiah[5], Josiah[4], Nathaniel[3], Samuel[2]), was born in Middleboro, Mass., 9 August, 1896. She is now living in Boston, having retired from a very successful business she conducted in Lynn, Mass., for quite a number of years.

She married (1), at Malden, Mass., 10 August, 1910, as his second wife, Charles Elmer Laskey, Jr., born in Melrose, Mass., son of Charles Elmer and Mary A. (Smith) Laskey. She divorced him in Auburn, Maine, in 1917, and by Court decree issued on 14 September, 1918, was permitted, not only to resume her maiden name, but to confer it upon her sons as well.

Her second husband, whom she married at Lynn, 11 July, 1926, was Raymond F. Barnes, born in Marshalltown, Iowa, son of Richard B. and Losina (Feathers) Barnes. She divorced him also after a few years, and was again awarded her maiden name.

She married (1), at Nashua, N. H., 22 November, 1919, Frederick F. Burnham, son of George and Carrie (Yeaton) Burnham. They were divorced, and she married (2), at Phillips, Me., 30 July, 1927, William F. Wilbur, born at Madrid, Me., 21 July, 1901, son of Jerry and Ella (Hewey) Wilbur. This marriage also terminated in divorce and she married (3), at Strong, Me., 28 October, 1946, Carl Wilmont McLaughlin, who died in Lewiston, Maine, 15 September, 1949.

Issue, by first husband (Burnham):

i. Frederick Francis[10], b. 20 Feby., 1921, Boston, Mass.; m. Iris Wilbur. Res., Phillips, Me. They have a dau. Alfreda M. (Burnham) b. 3 Nov., 1946, Phillips. Upon our entrance into World War II he tried to enlist in the Navy but was directed to have some dental work done first. During that period the draft caught up with him and he was inducted 12 Aug., 1942. He served in the Army Air Corps and was in India from 18 Nov., 1943, to 5 Nov., 1945. Was hon. disch. as Staff Sergeant, 30 Nov., 1945.

ii. Morton Holloway, b. 25 Apr., 1924, Providence, R. I. Res., Boston, Mass., with his aunt, Mrs. Belle M. Holloway. He served in the Naval Reserves during World War II, enlisting at Portland, Me., 15 Dec., 1942. After training at Bainbridge, Md., and at the Diesel Engine School at Richmond, Va., he was assigned to the LST 110 for a trip to England with military equipment. During this passage his vessel encountered several air raids, and a number of submarines but got through safely.

Upon returning to the States Mr. Burnham was transferred to the LST 247 and served on this much-battered vessel for nearly two years in the South Pacific. Engaged in landing troops during our island invasions, No. 247 was generally in the first wave and received plenty of attention from the Japanese, both by air attacks and by suicide planes.

Starting at Green Island, Bouganville, Mr. Burnham saw heavy action at Aitape, New Guinea, Cape Gloucester, Guadalcanal, Saipan, Guam, and at Iwo Jima, where their guns were firing continuously for over a month. They were again in the first assault wave here, where they landed some three hundred marines, all of whom were killed.

When this bloodsoaked island was finally ours the crew of No. 247 helped to bury the thousands of our dead, and were then given a week's rest at Guam. Their vessel, sent to Pearl Harbor for repairs, could not be handled there and was relayed to Seattle though almost falling apart. At this port, Mr. Burnham was hospitalized for some time suffering from "battle fatigue" in company with quite a number of other survivors of old 247. He was hon. disch., 21 Sept., 1945.

iii. Albert Eugene, b. 19 Jany., 1927, Phillips, Me.; m. 1 Jany., 1946, Ethel Pickle. Res., Richmond, Calif. They have a dau. Julia C.[11] (Burnham), b. 31 Nov., 1946, Richmond. He enlisted in the U. S. Naval Reserves, 25 Mch., 1944, and served as a gunner in the armed guard on our transports in the European, African and Asiatic Pacific theatres. 281. Ernest Merrill[9] Hallowell (Willis E.[8], Enoch M.[7], John[6], William[5], Jonathan[4], Malachi[3], Samuel[2]), was born at St. Paul, Minn., 21 November, 1889. After his father's early death his mother returned to her former home in Weidenthal, Germany, taking her son with her. Here he received his education, graduating from the University of Heidelberg in 1916, as a pharmaceutical chemist.

While still a student there Mr. Hallowell became connected with the Pfaudler Company, builders of glass lined steel equipment, whose general offices are in Rochester, New York. In time he became Vice President of their German subsidiary, in charge of their European sales, and continued to make his home in Germany until 1940, with occasional visits to the States.

Although he had never given up his American birthright of citizenship, he was not interned during World War I, but when it became evident this country would be drawn into the second World War, and that a Nazified Germany would then be no place for a man who already had found himself under surveillance, and his telephone tapped, Mr. Hallowell sent his family to Zurich, Switzerland.

He joined them there a little later as soon as he could get his household furniture packed and shipped. After some time in Zurich he was able to bring his wife and children to this county. Here they took up their residence in Rochester, where Mr. Hallowell continues to serve his Company as its Export Manager, and where they hope to make their home henceforth.

Ernest M.[9] Hallowell married at Stettin, Germany, 27 September, 1920, Charlotte Keibel, born at Pasewalk, Germany, 4 March, 1896, daughter of Martin Baruch and Anna (Isaac) Keibel. She is also a graduate of the University of Heidelberg, and in the same course that her husband took.

333. Josiah[9] Holloway (Edwards[8], Charles[7], Timothy[6], Josiah[5], William[4], William[3], Malachi[2]), was born in Shelburne Falls, Mass., 23 March, 1914. He followed various occupations in Pennsylvania, Ohio, and New York, until 6 October, 1943, when he was inducted into the Army during World War II.

After training at Camps Upton, Croft, Meade, and Patrick Henry, Mr. Holloway took part in our invasions of North Africa, Sicily, Italy, France, and Germany. He was in the 45th Division during the long and bitter fighting at Anzio, was with our forces that finally drove the Germans out of Rome, then was among our troops who were transferred from Italy to Southern France and finally was in the drive north to Germany.

During these campaigns Mr. Holloway had been under fire for 138 days without having been more than scratched, but on 8 January, 1945, he was hit and so badly wounded that he was hospitalized for over two years as a paraplegic.

He now makes his home in the section of New York City's Borough of the Bronx known as Bruckner Village, a government housing project for veterans, where there are special features of construction for the benefit of those who received injury like his.

Mr. Holloway has in his possession a considerable collection of old documents relating to his forebears, and through his courtesy we were enabled to obtain photostats of quite a few autographs of early Holloways in his branch of the family.

340. Rollind Otto[9] Holloway (Otto W.[8], John P.[7], Peter[6], Peter[5], Peter[4], William[3], Malachi[2]), was born in Toledo, Ohio, 28 May, 1892. After graduating from the Monclova (Ohio) High School, he attended Ohio Northern University for two years, then taught for five years in the High School of Richfield Center, Ohio.

He next took up the study of law at Ohio State University, graduating in 1917. Since that time he has practised his profession in Toledo, where he has met with a large degree of success. For some years past he has headed the well known legal firm of Holloway, Peppers and Romanoff, with offices at 921 Edison Building, that city.

Mr. Holloway makes his home on historic ground near Waterville, Ohio, for part of the battle of Fallen Timbers in 1794 was fought on his property which stands on a commanding site overlooking the valley of the Maumee river. Here, in furtherance of his hobby, he has installed a private radio station—W8QUL—and as a licensed operator has talked with other amateurs all over the world. Mrs. Holloway and their sons and daughters also hold licenses so that they can keep in close contact with one another even though living away from Waterville.

361A. Everett Hall[10] Pendleton (George E.[9], Almira[8], Isaac G.[7], Isaac[6], Josiah[5], Josiah[4], Nathaniel[3], Samuel[2]), the compiler of this genealogy, as well as that of the Pendleton family of New England, was born at Taunton, Mass., 15 September, 1878. After graduating from the local High School in 1897, he attended the Massachusetts Institute of Technology for a couple of terms, and then in November, 1898, entered the employ of the Worcester Salt Company, in which he continued for almost fifty years.

During this period he was first engaged with their field advertising, handling the house to house canvassing crews, and then was a travelling salesman covering various territories in the northeastern states. In 1907 he was brought into the Company's New York office as assistant to the General Manager, later was Advertising and Sales Manager, became a Director of the Company in 1917, and a Vice President in 1932. He continued these offices with the Company until his retirement on 31 March, 1947. During the 1930's Mr. Pendleton was also a Vice President of the Salt Producers' Association and served as its President for three successive years.

In his earlier days with his salt company, except for a year in Buffalo, and another in Albany, New York, Mr. Pendleton had no settled place of residence, but from the time of his entrance into Worcester's New York office he made his home in East Orange, New Jersey, until 1941 when he removed to the adjoining village of South Orange. During his years in East Orange he was active in handling the various Liberty Loan drives there during World War I, and in raising funds for the Community Chest. He was also a Governor of the Braidburn Country Club near Madison, New Jersey, in its early days.

Mr. Pendleton married at Taunton, Mass., 17 October, 1900, Ida Frances Lawry, a descendant of many of the first settlers in Concord and Acton, Massachusetts. They have three children (Pendleton):

The following data arrived too late to be included on the pages noted:

Page 125. Statement on this page that Lewis M. Chase, the second husband of Angeline Holloway, was the son of Calvin and Sebra H. Chase, strongly indicates he was a younger son of Calvin and Sabra[7] (Holloway) Chase noted on page 89, and hence his wife's first cousin. Record of his parents' family, as given, is evidently incomplete.

Page 144. The missing will of Sarah M. Hallowell, widow of [98] Joseph Franklin[7] Hallowell, has been found at last in the files of the Probate Registry of Lincoln County, Maine. The Registry Clerk states this will was not allowed—which accounts for its not being of record.

Page 146. Capt. [101] Ruel[7] Hallowell's granddaughter, Mrs. Emily L. Jones, of Eureka, Calif., states that during the Civil War the Captain's ship was pursued by the Confederate privateer, Alabama, but managed to escape capture by jettisoning much of the vessel's cargo. Capt. Hallowell must have had a financial interest in this for it is also stated that upon the settlement of the Alabama Claims, compensation for the loss incurred was paid to his family in Thomaston, Maine.

Capt. Hallowell's daughter, Emily Frances died in Oakland, Calif. Her son, William Eugene Robins, died in San Francisco, 15 May, 1944.

Page 159. Gilbert Holloway's wife Edith May Farrington had been married previously to ——— Gove.

Page 170. Mrs. Daniel C. Wells reports the birth of another son, David Charles (Wells), on 14 September, 1949, at Toledo, Ohio.

Page 220. Stephen Hatheway Schmidt, son of Ernest J. and Helen E. (Holloway) Schmidt, was born 10 January, 1950.

Page 272. Pamela Ann Mesteller, daughter of Stephen and Ivy Jean (Holloway) Mesteller, was born at Glen Ridge, N. J., 22 November, 1949.

ERRATA

Page 73. In footnote, Arthur Emmett Holloway should be Alfred Emmett Holloway.

4. There has been some little uncertainty over the exact date of the settlement of Taunton. The seal of the city bears the inscription "A Town 1639—A City 1864", with the Latin phrase "Dux Femina Facti." The earlier date here, however, refers to the year when the town was incorporated, while the old myth that it was founded by a woman was thoroughly demolished by the late Henry Williams, a Taunton lawyer, who contributed a very interesting article on the subject to the second number of the Old Colony Historical Society's Collections.

   Just when the forty-six Proprietors made their purchase from the Indians does not appear, the deed apparently having failed of being recorded. There is, however, a deposition in the early land records of the Plymouth Colony [Vol. 3, Part I, p. 13] which states the settlers went there in 1638, and the colony records [Vol. 1, pp. 103, 105] also note a marriage there in November of that year, while the well named John Strong was appointed constable "at Cohannet" in the following month.

   Perhaps because of these evidences that Taunton was a well settled community in 1638, Mr. Williams, in the article above mentioned, fixed 1637 as the year of its settlement, despite the deposition noted above. This, however, was made years later and could have been in error. Th earlier date is the one accepted by the local Historical Societv.

APPENDIX II

Unidentified Holloways and Hallowells

The bane of every genealogist working on a compilation of this kind is to run across various people bearing the family name, and in districts where that name is common, but who cannot be identified as members of the family under investigation.

The records of Taunton and of Middleboro, Mass., where the Holloways were—and are—indigenous, furnish us with a few such cases, and the Hallowells of Kennebec County, Maine, also have their unknowns. Some of these may be strays from families other than ours, but most of them probably belong to us. By the usual process of elimination we have suggested the origin of some of these in the following list:

Abigail G. (or J.) "Hollaway", int. of mar. with James H. Witham of Washington, Me., ent. 25 Oct., 1853.—Vital Records of Belfast, Me. Vol. 2, p. 212.

Betsey Holloway and Archlaus Dean, both of Taunton, Mar. 12, 1791. Vital Records of Taunton, Mass. Vol. 2, p. 253. Possibly daughter of [17] William Holloway, although he had removed from Taunton to Conway, Mass., about 1783.

Ellen Halloway and Woodward Brann, married 12 April, 1874. Vital Records of Augusta, Me. Vol. 1, p. 265.

Emma H. Hallowell, mar. int. with David B. Smith, 9 Dec., 1869. Vital Records of Augusta, Me. Vol. 1, p. 265.

Hannah Holloway died 30 April, 1839, aged 91, according to the Middleboro, Mass., vital records, but an item in Major Thomas Bennett's records published by the Mayflower Society in a volume entitled Middleboro Deaths, while noting the same date for her decease, calls her Mrs. Hannah Holloway, gives her age as 93, and says she had been a pauper for eight years. No records of Middleboro's Selectmen for the years 1829-1839 could be found in a search of the Town Clerk's office vault. Such records might mention her husband's name. It seems most likely he was [24] Nathaniel Holloway, 3rd.

Hannah Holloway and Charles Runnolds, both of Taunton, married in Freetown, Mass., 21 September, 1786.—Taunton Vital Records, Vol. 2, p 254]. She may have been daughter of [24] Nathaniel Holloway, 3rd, whose wife was Hannah Merry, of Taunton.

Hannah Hallowell and Edwin Salisbury married in Gardiner, Me., 11 October, 1888.—Vital Records of Pittston, Me., p. 204.

Harris Holloway, of Freetown, Mass, with wife Phebe Seekell, named in the vital records of Taunton, Mass., as parents of Ester Holloway who was married 24 July, 1865.

Joanna "Hollaway", mar. int. with Nathaniel French, 1835.—Vital Records of Belfast, Me. Vol. 2, p. 212.

Lydia Holloway, wife of Abraham Thomas. Her son Hiram, born in 1808, married Susan Winslow, granddaughter of [39] Sarah[6] (Holloway) Winslow. Believe Lydia was Sarah's sister, but no proof found.

Meribah Holloway married John Soule, 20 August, 1733,—Soule-Sowle History [Vol. 1, p. 176] which states record of this marriage was found in the "Leonard Papers"—presumably the Taunton Leonard whose records gave so many items to the published vital records of that city—but not this Holloway-Soule marriage. It does not appear in the Middleboro records either.

Robert Hallowell and Jane Peva marriage intentions entered 31 August, 1839.—Windsor, Me., records. Probably son of [42] Seth[6] Hallowell if the record noted is correct.

Thomas F. Hallowell, son of William and Mary (McGee) Hollowell, died at Lewiston, Me., 16 December, 1904, aged 24.—Lewiston Records.

APPENDIX III

Holloways and Hallowells of Whom Our Records Are Not Complete

Abiel Holloway, son of [10] Nathan Holloway. No record after 1766.

Asa Patton Holloway, son of [40] Asa[7] Holloway, born in 1804. No further record. Census of 1820 indicates he was still living then. Doubt if he ever married.

Benjamin F. Hallowell, born in 1849, son of [94] Elijah G. Hallowell. No record after 1860.

Caleb Holloway, son of [29] Elijah Holloway (Jr.) was married and in Newark, N. J., in 1833. No further record.

134. Charles Holloway and his family, once of Lucas or Williams County, Ohio.

255. Charles Lewis Holloway and his sons, said to have been in Chicago.

Elkanah Holloway, son of [5] Malachi Holloway. No record after 1778 when he was living in Mendham, N. J.

Eugene Hallowell, born about 1851, son of [94] Elijah G. Hallowell. He was living in Augusta, Me., in 1880.

George Holloway, son of [33] Dr. William Holloway.

36. Gooding Holloway. Was in Miamisburg, Ohio, 1832-1839, when he sold his property. Had wife Maria, and is said to have had children.

Henry Holloway, son of [29] Elijah Holloway, Jr. Was married and living in Newark, N. J. in 1833. No further record.

Joseph S. Hallowell, born in 1845, son of [94] Elijah G. Hallowell. No record after census listing in 1860.

JosephTobey Holloway, son of [35] Cyrus Holloway, married in California in 1864. No further record.

25. Nathan Holloway (Jr.) sold his property in Oxford, Mass., in 1783. Married second wife in 1785. No further record. Have names of three children by first wife. He may have gone to Vermont although not listed there in the Census of 1790—nor in that of Massachusetts.

*Nathanael Holloway, son of [10] Nathan Holloway. No record after 1766.

Nehemiah Holloway, son of [5] Malachi Holloway, married Lea[h] Jones in Morristown, N. J., in 1752.

*Samuel Holloway, Jr., son of [11] Samuel Holloway. Was of Middleboro, Mass., in 1801.

Thomas Delano Holloway, born in 1813, oldest son of [35] Cyrus Holloway; married three times. No record of children.

95. William Hallowell (3rd), left home in 1847 and was never heard from again. Have record of his family.

William E. Holloway, son of [115] Edward E. Holloway went west as a young man—never heard from again.

Zephaniah Holloway, born about 1750-54, son of [25] Nathan Holloway. Married in 1792 and in 1808. Listed in Census of Middleboro, Mass., in 1800, but not in 1810. No further record.

About an equal number of Holloway and Hallowell women are of the same status.

INDEX OF NAMES

NOTE. A name may appear more than once on the same page.

Italicized names in the various ancestral lines given are not indexed, nor are those of the children who died young.

To save duplications, the names of those bearing numbers, together with their consorts, are not indexed in any list of children, but will be noted where they re-appear as heads of their own families.

For the same reason, the only names indexed in the appendices are those which did not appear in the preceding pages.

Variants of the name Holloway are not indexed unless borne by a descendant of William Holloway.
